AIMEE IN SACRAMENTO, REPORT

1200 Killed As Cyclone Sweeps Burma

CURRENT COMMENT
By Chester H. Rowell

AMID all the roar for a "beer and wine referendum," it seems not to have occurred to the shouters to inquire how it could be done, or what it would be if done.

The thing is, in the first place, legally and mechanically impossible. Congress has no legal machinery for a national referendum, and no power to provide it. If it were to request the states to do so, they could be equally powerless. Most of them have no provisions for any sort of a referendum, and no state has a more liberally than California. If it could not be done in California, it could not be done anywhere.

WHAT, then, would be the process in California? An initiative petition would have to petition for something. The law provides for only three things: (1) A referendum against a legislative act; (2) an initiative state law; and, (3) an initiative amendment to the state constitution. A request to Congress to pass an unconstitutional beer and wine law could not possibly be brought within one of these three classifications, and the law provides no place on the ballot for any other. So, even under the liberal California law, there would be no way to get it on the ballot.

MOREOVER, such a proposition, in any form, could be nothing more than a petition. But a petition does not need to be on a ballot, nor presented at an election. Also, it needs no provision to vote "no" on it. A petition is properly one-sided. If the wets want to circulate a petition asking Congress to pass an unconstitutional law, that is their right. They need no legal machinery to help them, and no legal machinery could stop them. But if the drys, relying on the fact that Congress has no power to do the thing petitioned, choose to present no counter-petition, that is their right, also. There is no way to force a "yes and no" vote on this question, and it would be futile and meaningless if taken.

THE whole proposition is impossible and ridiculous. To be sure, anybody who likes has the right to petition Congress to violate the constitution, or to turn the moon upside-down. But it would be cheaper, and just as useful, to address the "beer and wine" petition to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors. That body has exactly as much power to pass a beer and wine law for the United States, as Congress has, plus the fact that it has a "wet" majority to do so, which Congress has not and is not going to get.

In other words—forget it! There is no way to take referendum on a beer and wine law, and there is only one way to pass such a law. That is to go into the thirteen dryest states and get their legislatures to approve an amendment to the constitution permitting it.

SOMEBODY has broadcast the noise made by a single atom. Take a grain of sugar and divide it into twenty thousand million parts. Take one of these parts and divide it again twenty thousand million times. The last subdivision would still be twenty times larger than the particle making this sound. It would have to be magnified trillions of time to make it visible in the most powerful microscope. Yet its sound can be magnified and remagnified, until it is audible a thousand miles away.

It is a curious fact that the magnification of sound has already gone billions of times further than the magnification of light can ever go. A light wave has a certain definite and relatively large size. To see anything smaller than that size by spreading the light-beams would be as impossible as separating coarse from fine sand by sifting the mixture through inch-mesh chicken wire. But we have succeeded in attaching sound to, the infinitesimal electron, and then making the variations in its currents actuate corresponding variations in strong line currents. So we can receive a sound on a millionth of a fly-power, and send it out a thousand horse-power, and then magnify that to a thousand horse-power again after distance has reduced it to the original fraction of a fly-power. If we could do that with light, we could measure the diameter of a hair on the head of an inhabitant of Mars.

ARE the American people "interested in foreign affairs"?

There are a hundred study clubs devoting themselves to European politics to one investigating American political problems. Every lecturer who has a repertoire covering both domestic and foreign subjects recevics dozens of invitations to speak on foreign affairs to one on other subjects. Even the most isolationist newspapers have more feature writers in their syndicates discussing European politics than all other subjects combined. Half the discussions on the market page consider the effect of foreign politics on American business. Right or wrong, nearly every American who is interested in anything is interested in Europe first.

SUFFERING IS INTENSE

Telegraph Lines Down As Windstorm Result, and Cables Are Interrupted

(By United Press)

LONDON, May 29—The Rangoon correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph cabled that official reports estimated 1200 dead in a cyclone in Burma.

A huge tidal wave accompanied the cyclone, which swept the Arakan coast on May 22, ascended the Naaf river and inundated the entire adjacent country, the dispatch said.

Villages were swept away beyond Maungdaw, 50 miles from the sea.

All cattle in the affected area were killed, according to the dispatches, and nearly all telegraph lines between Burma and India were out.

Cables were seriously interrupted.

HUSBAND FOLLOWS BRIDE IN DEATH

YOSEMITE, Calif., May 29.—Death today stamped a grim "finis" on the three months' marital romance of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Howard, of San Francisco.

The bride died last night of acute heart dilation. Today the husband followed, his death caused by grief.

Their trip to Yosemite was their honeymoon. The bride, Dorothy, became ill enroute and immediately upon arrival she was carried to Yosemite hospital. She died at 10 o'clock.

Throughout the night, Charles Howard was closely guarded. He was hysterical and threatened suicide.

Early this morning, he, too, was conveyed to the hospital, suffering both from hysteria and symptoms of poisoning. He died an hour later.

Both were 36. They lived, after their recent marriage, in San Francisco, where the husband practiced chemistry.

Deputy Coroner E. P. Leavitt has requested the San Francisco coroner's office to hold an autopsy to determine the cause of the husband's death.

Rangers Will Not Act as Dry Agents

SACRAMENTO, May 29.—Forest rangers and state fire wardens will not be allowed to act as federal dry sleuths under the Coolidge-Andrews enforcement plan, M. B. Pratt, state forester, asserted today.

Pratt denied reports that a move had been launched to employ state rangers as dry agents on the $1 a year basis.

"Our rangers," Pratt told the United Press, "have enough to do to handle fighting of forest fires. They are not and will not be deputized as prohibition agents under the Coolidge executive order unless such action is specifically ordered by Governor Richardson, which I do not expect."

FISH CANNERY BURNS

WILMINGTON, May 29.—The Coast Fishing company's plant, one of the oldest canneries on the Pacific coast, was in ruins today, following a disastrous fire which threatened the entire district here. The blaze was stopped after causing $200,000 damage.

Firemen Rescue Sleeping Woman

HILLSBORO, Ore., May 29.—Hillsboro firemen believe in giving real services to those they rescue.

Mrs. I. M. Williams, whose home was discovered to be burning early today, was sleepy and couldn't be aroused, so the firemen picked up her bed and carried it to the street.

Being in her night clothes, she remained in bed while the firemen extinguished the flames.

OVERCOME BY HEAT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 29—One person was overcome by heat here yesterday, when the mercury soared to new heights—91—the hottest day of the year this far. Thunder showers during the night brought some relief.

Stores to Be Closed For Holiday

All stores, banks and public offices in Santa Ana will be closed during the entire day, Monday, in observance of Memorial day. The postoffice will not open, and there will be no city mail delivery. One edition of the Register will be published, and will be on the street at noon.

GERMANS QUIT SELLING BEER ON WAR CRAFT

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Capt. Otto Groos, commander of the German cruiser Hamburg, in Los Angeles harbor, and his executive staff, called on Chief of Police Jesse E. Davis today, shortly before announcement of a banquet to be tendered city officials tonight on the warship which attracted national attention when federal dry agents reported beer was being sold on it.

Captain Groos holds that his cruiser is "German territory," and that he was within his rights in serving good old-fashioned laager beer to thirsty Americans who came aboard.

Visitors who invaded the cruiser today to "see what a German battleship looks like" were disappointed when they were unable to purchase a bottle of beer. Captain Groos voluntarily closed the ship's canteen "to avoid an argument" with American dry officials, he said.

Whether the banquet to Los Angeles officials tonight will be dry or wet, was not divulged.

The warship's canteen was wide open for several days, while the ship's crew dispensed beer of high alcoholic content at a dollar a bottle.

A veritable floating beer palace had been maintained by the German middies during their two-weeks' stay here.

The Hamburg leaves at 10 a. m., tomorrow, for San Francisco on the next lap of its voyage around the world.

EMBASSY ASKED TO INVESTIGATE

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The German embassy here has been asked by the state department to investigate and take necesasry disciplinary measures in connection with reports of American prohibition agents of the sale to Americans of beer aboard the German cruiser Hamburg, in Los Angeles Harbor.

Informed persons here said today that no "diplomatic incident" would result from the case, which is regretted equally by both governments."

Although the German war vessel, with its extra-territorial rights, is not directly subject to American law, it is generally agreed by both parties that alleged bootlegging would be a violation of the courtesy under which a foreign warship was allowed to enter an American port.

CLAIM VIOLATION OF EXTRA-TERRITORIALITY

BERLIN, May 29.—German extra-territoriality was violated when prohibition enforcement agents visited the German cruiser Hamburg, at San Pedro, Calif., in their official capacity, government officials charged today.

Commenting on reports from America that bootlegging had been discovered on the Hamburg, officials insisted that the enforcement agents could visit the cruiser as guests, but only unofficially, since the war vessel enjoyed the same privileges of extra-territoriality as en embassy.

It was understood here that the Hamburg captain will reprimand the men who sold beer or liquor on board, whereupon the incident will be considered closed.

MONTANA WILL VOTE ON STATE DRY LAW REPEAL

(By United Press)

HELENA, Mont., May 29.—Montana today was lined up with New York and Wisconsin in the list of states where a referendum will be held on prohibition laws.

The referendum will come at the next general election, when voters of the state will ballot on an initiative measure which, if it carries, will repeal the state prohibition law.

This, the wets hold, will be a true referendum on the Volstead act and 18th amendment, for it will be in the nature of a direct vote for or against prohibition.

That the poll on the liquor question would be held was revealed here when it was learned at the state capitol that petitions bearing the required number of names had been filed.

The Montana state dry law became effective six months ahead of national prohibition.

POMP MARKS MARRIAGE OF ALISA MELLON

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Alisa Mellon was married to David Kirkpatrick Este Bruce here today.

She promised to "love and cherish." The bride did not repeat after the purple-robed bishop the word "obey" in the Episcopal marriage service.

The couple leaves tonight for Rome, where Bruce is to become a $2500-a-year U. S. vice consul.

At noon, the heiress to the untold Pittsburgh millions of the Mellon family and the scion of the blue-blooded Bruces of Maryland were united in the short Episcopal ring marriage ceremony in the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul, on Mount St. Albans.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew Mellon, Alisa's father; Senator and Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, parents of the bridegroom, and 200 others, making up a "who's who" of capital and eastern society, attended the ceremony. The 24-year-old bride is the acknowledged leader of capital society.

Bishop James E. Freeman, in purple robes, pronounced them man and wife and the assemblage dispersed, to reassemble two hours later in a great reception at the Pan-American Union building, to which 3000 persons, the elect of the government and nation, came.

The bride wore a cream lace wedding dress with long sleeves and train and tulle veil untrimmed save for a handful of orange blossoms.

Secretary Mellon is reported to have given his daughter a pearl necklace worth at least $100,000. Other cabinet members gave a huge silver plate and Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, gave a rare copy of Cervantes' Don Quixote.

It was the most colorful affair in the 20 years since Nicholas Longworth, now speaker of the house, was married to "Princess Alice" Roosevelt, daughter of the then president, in a great official ceremony that engaged the attention of the nation.

SEEK MAN OF MYSTERY IN BEACH CASE

Spaniard Is Believed to Hold Key to Disappearance of Woman and Babe

SCOUT SUICIDE THEORY

James Doesn't Think Wife, Who Disappeared from Balboa, Killed Herself

AN INTENSIVE SEARCH for a mysterious Spaniard, believed to hold the key to the strange disappearance of Mrs. Howard T. James, and her 11-month-old baby, who dropped from sight at Balboa, was launched today, following discovery that George Aberle, an employe of a cafeteria located in the same building as the Balboa hotel, where Mrs. James registered with her infant Thursday afternoon, had seen a man carrying a baby run from the alley back of the hostelry and drive away at a rapid rate in an automobile.

Until it became known that Mrs. James and her baby had disappeared, Eberle did not give the episode any consideration. In view of the fact, however, that Mrs. James is thought to have left the hotel at about the same time as the stranger was seen, Eberle believes that the clew is important.

Eberle had gone to the rear of the cafeteria to empty a can of coffee grounds when he observed a man, having the appearance of a Spaniard, at the foot of the steps leading up to the hotel. The man, according to Eberle, hastened to a parking station across the alley when he saw the cafeteria worker, and drove away

Description of Babe Tallies

The description of the baby fits the James infant, according to Mrs. Hercules Burwell, manager of the Balboa hotel. The James baby is large for its age, and had a headpiece identical to the one Eberle says was worn by the baby the Spaniard was carrying.

The three notes which Mrs. James wrote were turned over to James yesterday afternoon by Captain Adams, Newport chief of police. James, accompanied by the mother of his first wife, who died several years ago, arrived at the beach yesterday from Los Angeles for a conference with police, following notification that his wife's coat had been found at the end of the Balboa pier by fishermen, early Friday morning.

Captain Adams declined to divulge the contents of two of the notes left by the missing woman, saying that they were of a purely personal character. The missive found pinned on the coat asked that the finder turn the coat and hat over to Mrs. James' husband. Search of the woman's room at the hotel revealed the hat there, together with a small handbag containing baby clothes, a bottle of milk, a baby's bottle and a note.

In the note found in the room, Mrs. James complained that she had not been able to find anyone with whom she could leave the baby.

Reads Gideon Bible

That Mrs. James had been reading a Gideon Bible before her disappearance was revealed when the Bible, with several passages marked, was found out of its customary place. A pencil, evidently one Mrs. James had brought with her, was found in the Bible.

Mrs. Burwel states that she and the Los Angeles woman spent some time in conversation early Thursday evening. The rear door was locked at about 8 o'clock and Mrs. Burwell believes that Mrs. James left the building some time between 7:30 and 8 o'clock.

James, in a telephone conversation yesterday morning, declared his belief that his wife had not

LONDON, May 29.—King George has proclaimed that the state of emergency, instituted during the general strike, will continue, due to the continuance of the coal strike.

The king's proclamation, as published in the official "London Gazette," pointed out that the proclamation of April 30 was effective for one month.

It is said the continued cessation of work in the coal mines constituted a state of emergency within the meaning of the emergency powers act.

PRESIDENT IN PLEA FOR RACE AMALGAMATION

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge today pleaded for a perfect amalgamation of races, nationalities and castes in the American melting pot, glorifying these peoples who have cast aside racial prejudices for the destiny of the nation. The occasion was the dedication of a statue to John Ericsson, noted Swedish engineer, who designed the Civil war iron-clad vessel "Monitor," and perfected the screw propellor for marine use.

The president's most distinguished listeners were the crown prince and princess of Sweden.

Importance of Americanization

While eulogizing the great Swedish inventor, Coolidge stressed the importance of perfect Americanization and more perfect patriotism.

"We cannot put too much emphasis on the fact that, in this country, we are all bound together in a common destiny," the president said.

"We must be united as one people. This principle works both ways. As we do not recognize any inferior races, so we do not recognize any superior races."

Mr. Coolidge then proceeded to utter a lengthy eulogy of Ericsson and the Swedish people. Ericsson, the president said, was the incarnation of the virtues of the Scandinavians.

Praise for Swedes

"Great men are the product of a great people. They are the result of many generations of effort, toil and discipline. They are the incarnation of the spirit of the people. We should fail in our understanding of Ericsson unless we first understand the Swedish people both as they have developed in the land of their origin and as they have matured in the land of their adoption.

The Swedish royal couple spent the forenoon in delving into art treasures of local galleries and in a visit to the Pan-American union.

Their visit to the capital has been marked by an unceasing round of visits, of social doings.

Last night, they were guests of honor of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge at dinner. Today, at noon, they were luncheon guests of the Swedish legation and tonight, at the legation, will be guests of honor at a dinner and a reception.

Christen Infant British Princess

LONDON, May 29.—With King George and Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and Lady Elphinstone as her godparents, the infant Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, was christened today in the royal chapel, in the basement of Buckingham palace. The princess—a possible future queen of England—was baptized by the Archbishop of York, at 3 o'clock. Only members of the family were present. Water had been brought from the River Jordan and was sprinkled from a golden font brought from the palace at Windsor.

MANY JEWELERS INDICTED ON ANTI-TRUST LAW CHARGE

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—A score of jewelry establishments and individuals in Pasadena, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland stood indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

The true bills were returned, following a long investigation by assistants to the attorney general.

Plaintiffs included small jewelers, who claimed they were unable to obtain credit or purchase goods from many leading wholesale supply houses because of alleged "cut rate" tactics and discrimination.

The defendants, it is charged, organized the Eighteen Karat club, an incorporated organization, to boycott jewelry manufacturers and jobbers who sold their products to upstairs jewelry firms.

The boycott, it is claimed, has been in effect more than a year, and was said to have been practiced against 24 jewelry manufacuring concerns throughout the country.

Woman Walks Down Street In Very Strange Manner, Turning Every Few Feet

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, May 29.—Positive declaration that he saw Aimee Semple McPherson, missing evangelist, here yesterday, was made today by Leo Zimmerman, news vendor.

Zimmerman, a former follower of Mrs. McPherson in Los Angeles, declared that a woman, whom he immediately recognized as Mrs. McPherson, purchased a San Francisco newspaper from him, gleaned the front page reports of her disappearance and walked away, in a "very strange manner."

The woman, he told the United Press today, was dressed in a brown dress and wore a small turban hat.

Recognized Immediately

"As soon as I saw her," he said, "I recognized her as Mrs. McPherson and attempted to follow her, but could obtain no one to watch my stand. She walked down the street in a very strange manner, turning around every few feet to see if she was being followed.

"When she reached the next corner, an expensive closed car drew up and stopped, with only the rear end being visible, and I am almost certain that she entered the machine."

Coincident with statements of Zimmerman that Mrs. McPherson was in Sacramento yesterday, William S. Yoeman, former organist and financial agent for the evangelist, issued a formal statement declaring that Mrs. McPherson was "undoubtedly the victim of a kidnaping plot."

Scoffs at Publicity Hoax

"Aimee McPherson did not disappear of her own volition as a publicity hoax," he told the United Press. "She was undoubtedly kidnaped by religious fanatics who disagree with her teachings.

"However, if she did leave Los Angeles voluntarily, it was because she was broken in health and feared that she had 'reached the end of the trail.'

"There is no man involved in this."

MYSTERY SURROUNDS ORMISTON APPEARANCE

SALINAS, Calif., May 29. — Mystery surrounds the appearance here shortly after 1 a.m., today, of Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator for Aimee Semple McPherson, missing Los Angeles evangelist.

Ormiston claimed his automobile, which he had stored in a local garage Wednesday night, and drove away.

"I have had too much notoriety in this case already and am not answering questions," Ormiston told newspapermen and garage attendants.

MANY CONVERTS FLOCK TO BEACHES

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Fresh hundreds of praying converts flocked to the beaches today to assist in the search for Aimee Semple McPherson's body.

Many of them carried tents and will pitch camp along the ocean front over the week end.

More than 10,000 followers of the Four Square Gospel, widely-known creed of the missing evangelist, are expected at the seashore by tonight.

Keep Long Vigilance

A devout multitude has kept eternal vigilance since the pastor of Angelus temple vanished 11 days ago.

Despite skepticism of authorities, the disciples of Mrs. McPherson are confident her body is in the ocean.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the revivalist, and present head of the flock of 35,000 converts in Southern California, resumed charge of the beach patrol this morning.

The woman is unrelenting in her faith that the sea will give up the body of her daughter. She maintains headquarters at the Ocean View hotel, from where she directs the volunteer searchers, members of the McPherson faith.

Additional rumors that Mrs. McPherson had been seen alive since her reported drowning, by various persons and in various places, reached authorities. Little credence was given to the reports.

No Light on Mystery

The disappearance, of Mrs. McPherson is admittedly as mysterious and puzzling today as it was 11 days ago when her secretary, Emma Schaffer, reported she suddenly dropped from sight while swimming in the surf.

No one heard the evangelist shout for help, or saw her go under. Only circumstantial evidence of her drowning has been furnished.

At the same time, there has not been a whit of real evidence to support the theory of some officials that Mrs. McPherson is alive. The entire affair is as mysterious, the authorities point out, as the unsolved murder of William Desmond Taylor, film director.

DIVORCED HUSBAND READY TO ASSIST

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Harold H. McPherson, former husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, today proffered his aid to authorities in the search for the missing evangelist.

Los Angeles police today received the following telegram from McPherson, now in Ocala, Fla.

"Have just learned of Aimee Semple McPherson's disappearance. Was her husband, but now divorced. I was formerly in work with her and will be glad to give information or assist in any way to clear up this case. Please mail me Los Angeles papers for past week. (Signed) "Harold McPherson."

McPherson was the evangelist's second husband. He is the father of Rolf, her 12-year-old son. Mrs. McPherson's first husband, Robert Semple, evangelist and missionary, died in China. He was father of Roberta, 15-year-old daughter, who is being groomed to succeed the evangelist as head of Angelus temple.

KAISER DEPENDED MUCH ON GOOD LUCK

BERLIN, May 29—"Lady Luck," in addition to a large army was regarded by the former kaiser as an important factor in the success or failure of his Germany as a world empire, judging from "good luck" emblems in the former imperial palace.

Above a gilded bar leading from the sumptously furnished anteroo mconnected with the former kaiser's study, there hangs a rusty old horse shoe. It dangles on a rusty nail driven into the gilded portal, under which the kaiser passed many times a day. The horse shoe was picked up by him more than 25 years ago while he was riding horseback in the Tiergarten.

The superstitious among his former subjects incline to the belief that the kaiser's dreams failed, because the horse shoe was hung with the points down, instead of up.

MANY PHYSICIANS IN GERMANY POOR

BERLIN, May 29. — Jobless physicians and midwives are on the lists of those receiving public doles in numerous villages of the Rhineland. A decline in the birth rate is attributed as the causes. In Untermassfeld, the town's sole midwife was obliged to register herself as unemployed.

The old Turkish harems are defended by Haig Cudenian, Armenian composerfi as homes of culture instead of debauch. He denounces what he calls the "Harem Myth."

"Up to my 16th year," he says, "I was educated in a Turkish harem. The women were most cultured. It is nonsense to regard harems as places of debauch. They were homes of decency and refinement."

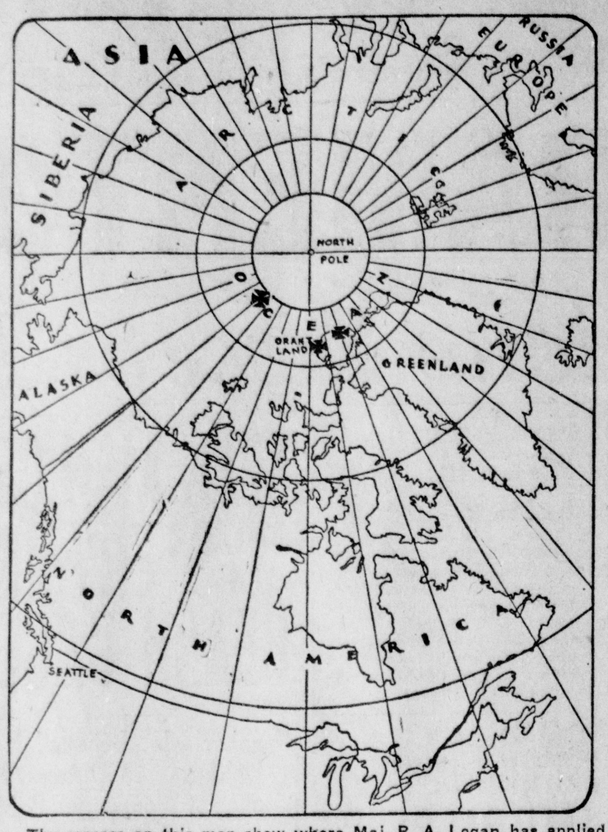

Deny Stevenson Was Inventor of Steam Locomotive

LONDON, May 29.—George Stevenson was not the inventor of the locomotive, contends David Brownlee, who recently read a paper before the Institute of Marine Engineers, in which he credited Richard Trevithick, Cornish engineer, with inventing the mode of conveyance that has been a major factor in changing the world.

In 1797, says Brownlee, Trevithick produced his epoch-making invention of the internally-fired cylindrical "Cornish" boiler, and made in the same year his first model steam locomotive, which is now in the South Kensington Museum.

In 1801, Trevithick constructed at Cambourne, Cornwall, a large locomotive, which ran on the roads and was the first authenticated practical mechanically-driven vehicle in the history of the world. He said statements that Stevenson was the originator of the locomotive, "are simply bosh."

NORTH POLE EXCURSIONS POSSIBILITY OF FUTURE

The crosses on this map show where Maj. R. A. Logan has applied for land grants for an arctic airport. Note how centrally located these points are to the shortest routes between the continents.

Major Logan Applies to Canadian Government For Land Grants

NEW YORK, May 29.—The top of the world, now that it has been conquered by Byrd in an airplane and Amundsen and his party in the dirigible Norge, will settle down within a few years to the prosaic life of a commercial airport, according to declarations here.

This last outpost, which long has cast its spell of romance and glamor, will be a completely equipped stop-over station in an airway for flying craft traveling between the east and west.

Such is the plan outlined here by Maj. R. A. Logan, Canadian explorer and aerial map expert. He has already taken steps toward acquisition of a site for such an enterprise. He points out that such an airport, located midway between Spitzbergen and Alaska, is an obvious necessity if trans-polar air traffic is to be developed.

Proving Feasibility

European shipments would concentrate at Spitzbergen, just as the intrepid airmen gathered their equipment there for the recent successful polar flights.

The shortest way from Europe to the Pacific is across the polar basin —the long-sought northwest passage of the early American explorers.

The air traffic, which Logan and other air pioneers have predicted for years, will develop between Europe and the Pacific ports.

The direct route will take them between the northern tip of Greenland and the pole.

It's the shortest route and "flying conditions, north of Greenland are ideal," Logan says.

"Greenland has been the barrier. Its interior is a vast mountain of ice.

Logan has applied to the Canadian government for land grants of a square mile each for airports at Craig Harbor, Elesmere land, at Axel Heiberg, or just east of the 141st meridian at the 85th parallel, if land exists there.

The airport, Logan says, would be equipped with a mooring mast for dirigibles, landing fields for planes, oil stocks, food, repairs and a machine shop, and equipment of all kinds.

A radio station, of course, would be a principal item.

Supplies by Tractor

"Ships during three months of summer can go to Etah, Greenland, 300 miles south," Logan—who was sent through the territory by the Canadian government in 1922—says. "From there supplies would be freighted by tractors.

"There's plenty of coal ready for fuel, and caribou for sports and meat. The scenery is unmatchable.

"Now, my idea is—why not a tourist hotel at the airport?

"It's not so far from New York. A steamer could pass through Davis strait and Baffin bay to Etah in a week.

"There airplanes would meet them, and transport them to Craig harbor. We'd have hunting parties and all kinds of winter sports for their amusement.

"And Craig harbor is the point nearest the north pole. We'd take them on a round trip to the pole and back in our airplanes—or, perhaps, a blimp.

"Don't tell me that wouldn't be a popular idea in hot July and August. And I believe it would pay."

Speaker Scores Slushy Reading

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 29. —"American women do not want so much stob stuff and women-interest slush, advice to the lovelorn and unhappy wife stories," Mrs. Lessie Stringfellow read, of Fayetteville, Ark., said tod ay in her report to the delegates to the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"It is not the women, but the men who read it," she said. "That is where they get their ideas about women—and a fine mess of ideas it is."

The convention today took up the problem of suppressing saladious literature without advertising it.

Various reports said that a new appreciation for high-grade literature was manifesting itself in America.

FEAR IS FELT FOR SAFETY OF VESSEL

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, May 29—Local agents of the motor schooner Patterson, Capt. C. T. Pederson in command, two weeks out of Seattle, today expressed fear for the craft's safety.

It is considered probable that the Patterson may have been damaged by recent heavy storms which swept across the Aleutian islands.

Naval radio stations here and at Cordova have asked vessels going north and south through Unimak pass, also northern trans-oceanic ships, to watch for the Patterson.

Captain Pederson purchased the Patterson this year in Seattle. The vessel formerly was used by the government in Alaskan survey work.

Pederson is well known in Alaskan waters, having been a fur trader for years. At one time, he was employed by Liebes Fur company, of San Francisco, but of late years has been trading alone.

GIRL INJURED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHES

SAN DIEGO, May 29.—Crashing down from an altitude of 100 feet as she was about to make a landing, Miss Margaret Williams, 23, daughter of Mrs. Edith H. Williams, wealthy San Diego resident, was feared fatally injured today at the San Diego air port.

Miss Williams was making her fourth solo flight in a commercial plane owned by the airport. According to witnesses, the nose of the plane tipped up as it was circling for a landing and then sideslipped, catapulting straight to earth.

The plane was wrecked.

Three relatives of Miss Williams witnessed the accident. Her mother, it was reported, was one of them.

Canary Proves to Be Regular Sheik

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29 — A sheik of the canary bird world—that's Jerry.

This famous little songster has attained distinction by virtue of his complexion, which is blond—that and the fact that he is a brother of White Gold, owned by Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

Jerry's feathers are pure white, with just a little yellow showing on top of hois wings. He lives in the pet store of Ansel W. Robinson.

Usherettes in a nearby theater call him "sheik." And to prove this contention, they place the bird seed between their lips and offer it to him.

State to Defend Stokes Children

NEW YORK, May 29.—The state of New York moved today to safeguard the interests of the two childre nof W. E. D. and Helen Elwood Stokes in the estate of Stokes, millionaire hotel owner, who died a few days ago. Surrogate John P. O'Brien signed an order designating George L. Donnellan, a lawyer, to receive recitations to protect the interests of James Stokes, 11, and Helen Muriel Stokes, 10.

Man Is Chased by Big Rattle Snake

PORTERVILLE, May 29.—Fred Conlee, of Deer Creek, had the experience of being chased by a rattlesnake for about 40 yards, with the reptile gaining before he turned and killed it. It had seventeen ratles and a button.

The 1926 national dairy exposition is to be held at Detroit the week of October 2.

committed suicide and that she was simply trying to frighten him. He based this belief on the fact that she had feigned suicide on two occasions while they were living together. They have been separated for the past three weeks, he stated.

Maintain Watch on Beach

While Captain Adams is not convinced that the woman and her baby are dead, nevertheless he has instructed his officers to keep a careful watch on the beach for possible appearance of the bodies.

Mrs. James, who is of Spanish parentage, is said to have been a patient in the psychopathic ward in Los Angeles several months ago. It is also reported that her father died a suicide.

BAPTISTS APPEAL FOR DRY SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The Northern Baptist convention here today called upon all public officials, especially members of congress, to use their power for prohibition enforcement.

Resolutions were adopted unanimously calling for concerted effort to "uproot the liquor traffic in our land and throughout the world," for renewed effort to secure adoption of the child labor amendment and for the outlawry of war.

Ultra-fundamentalists failed to bring in their threatened anti-evolution resolutions, in the face of the defeats administered to other moves they made. The anti-war resolution said:

"We are opposed to war as a settlement of international disputes; we declare our irrevocable determination to substitute the arbitration of law, reason and conciliation for that of slaughter; we rejoice in every effort put forth in the interests of a just peace; we urge all men to ally themselves with efforts for the peaceable settlement of national disputes and we look with disfavor upon compulsory training in our colleges and high schools."

WATER SHUT OFF; CROPS FACE RUIN

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., May 29.—Farmers of the North Platte Irrigation project today faced ruined crops, as a hot sun blazed down on their fields and the government dam remained closed.

No disorders have occurred since early yesterday, when Secretary of the Interior Work and Reclamation Commissioner Meade were hanged in effigy for their failure to open the dams and give the crops their needed moisture. But rumors of impending disorders continued throughout the section.

Farmers of this region are insisting that the government open the dams as an emergency measure, despite the fact that they have as yet failed to pay the reclamation bureau their share of the cost.

American Fruits Eaten by Chinese

SEATTLE, May 29—Better class Chinese in Shanghai finally have ecquired a taste for American fresh fruits and green vegetable imports and ca nactually be seen eating American potatoes at hotel parties, according to a letter received at the Seattle office of the department of commerce from Edwin S. Cunningham, consul general. Cunningham writes that the small but increasing market for Pacific northwest green groceries in China has been created largely through the fast refrigerator service furnished by trans-Pacific lines.

Sonoma County Sheriff Passes

SANTA ROSA, Calif., May 29—Sheriff Joe Ryan, of Sonoma county, died early today of an attack of influenza. Ryan's death ends a career of more than 30 years' service in the sheriff's office of this county. He is the second sheriff to die in office here in the last 10 months having succeeded the late Sheriff John M. Boyes, who died Sept. 16, 1925.

Australian Labor Chief Dies at 111

MELBOURNE, May 29.—James Waldly, who died at the age of 111 years, was a pioneer in the Australian trades union and took a leading part in the bakers' union activities, of which he was president for many years. Waldy was the father of 21 children, 17 of whom still are living. The pioneer retained full possession of his faculties up to the last few hours he lived.

Seneca's Crew Is Fully Exonerated

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Officers and crew of the steamship Seneca, which recently stranded off Miami, Fla., were exonerated today by the commerce department of charges of misconduct when the vessel was in peril. D. N. Hoover, chief of the steamboat inspection service, said that the conduct of the officers and crew was all that could be desired and that allegations of drunkenness aboard the vessel were not proven.

MISHAP WILL NOT STOP EXPEDITION

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 29.—With one of its members in a Coos Bay hospital with severe injuries and two other s suffering from slighter injuries, not necessitating their dropping out, the Alaskan aerial mapping expedition today prepared to push on toward the north, undaunted by its mishap of yesterday.

Chief Photographer Albin K. Peterson, Wadena, Minn., suffered a broken nose, jaw and collar bone when one of the three expedition planes, a Loenig amphibian ship, crashed in a nose dive into Coos bay. H. L. Volz, New York, and Lt. W. M. Dillon, Birmingham, Ala., were less seriously injured and prepared to accompany the expedition on its departure.

The expedition, under command of Lt. R. H. Wyatt,, started several days ago from San Diego. It is on an official mapping cruise for the government.

SENATE ADJOURNS AMID DISTURBANCE

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The U. S. senate adjourned in a row this afternoon over delayed farm relief and other legislation.

After farm bloc members had pleaded that the senate remain in session this afternoon, despite previous arrangements for adjournment until Tuesday, a motion for adjournment was adopted by the narrow margin of 21 to 20.

An attack upon the shipping board and its policies will be made in the senate by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, in connection with the sale of the Admiral-Oriental line to R. Stanley Dollar, Jones announced today.

He will claim that the shipping board, in selling the Admiral line to the Dollar interests, has established a monopoly of Pacific coast shipping under the domination of Dollar, in disregard of the best interests of the American merchant marine and northwest industry.

Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon, also is planning to support Jones and they may draft some measure designed to limit the shipping board's activities, it was said.

YOSEMITE PARK TO HAVE NEW CHURCH

YOSEMITE, May 29.—Yosemite National park soon will have a new church biulding, to be used by all denominations. The secretary of the interior, Hubert Work, has granted permission to build the church and the sponsors for the building, the Yosemite National Park church, has signed a contract with the government to erect a suitable chapel building at a cost of about $20,000, with 30,000 square feet of floor space, and on a design acceptable to the national park authorities, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

The Yosemite National Park church was organized last summer, when citizens of Fresno, Madera, Merced, Stanislaus and other counties, agred to raise the necessary funds. The plan met with a cordial reception among all denominations, Protestant and Catholic all of whom indorsed the idea and subscribed to the building fund.

A coroporation was organized under the laws of Calofornia. It is this corporation that has been granted the permit.

The trustees first submitted their plans to Colonel Lewis, superintendent of Yosemite park, who gave his indorsement, and then Stephen Mather, director of national parks, also sanctioned the plan.

It is expected that work can be started this season, although the structure may not be completed until next year. Four architects now are preparing plans and specifications for the most acceptable design. It is believed that a rustic style chapel, built of native stone, will be the plan finally agreed upon.

Captive Held by Mexicans Lives

CANYON, Tex., May 29—The execution of J. W. Shanklin, American captive of Mexican bandits, did not take place at dusk Thursday, as scheduled. He is reported to be still alive, though at the mercy of his captors. The information was contained in a telegram to Mrs. Shanklin from her husband's employer on the sugar ranch at El Potrero, from which he was abducted.

Declare Martial Law in Guatemala

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Martial law has been declared by the government of Guatemala, according to state department advices received today. Though no details are given by the official dispatch, unofficial reports state that the government's action was taken to prevent manifestations by elements alleged to be supporting General Chamorro, the unrecognized president of Nicaragua.

Typewriter Wins Recognition In Courts of France

PARIS, May 29.—The typewriter has at last invaded the law courts of France. Hitherto the courts had remained steadfastly faithful to the pen, but Minister of Justice Laval now has issued instructions by which court registrars are authorized to receive typed documents, instead of those written by hand.

VOTE RIGHT—VOTE YES

The average tax rates for the whole Harbor Bond Issue will be only six cents on the $100 of assessed valuation.

Property in Orange County is assessed at about thirty per cent of its actual value.

A lot worth $1000 is assessed at about $300 and will pay six cents on each $100 of assessed valuation—or 18 cents a year. Two cigars a year for Harbor Bonds.

A piece of property valued at $5000 is assessed at about $1500 and will pay an average tax of 90 cents per year. The price of one movie show a year for Harbor Bonds.

A $15,000 orange grove or home property will be assessed at about $4500 and will pay six cents per $100 of assessed value —or $2.70 a year for Harbor Bonds.

NEW WEALTH

A Harbor will bring new wealth in many lines. Yachts and boats will come in and go on the assessment roll. New homes and new factories will come. Every new Million Dollars added to the assessed values of the county, pays $13,500 yearly into the County General Tax Fund, and when only eight million dollars of new assessed values are added these new values will pay in MORE than the cost of the Harbor Bonds.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Do not be discouraged yet. It takes a long time to learn to care above all else that God's will shall be accomplished. Probably it takes longer to make sincerely the venture that through what you are now enduring His blessed purpose for you is to be accomplished.

Complete understanding will elude you, but as you trudge forward, striving to see, and doing your best, the conviction will come home to you that He loves and understands and that He will not suffer you to fall by the wayside. The day of realization is not far beyond.

GARDNER—At his home, 340 West Nineteenth street, May 28, 1926, Alfred N. Gardner, aged 83 years, husband of Sarah A. Gardner and father of Raymond G. Gardner of Santa Ana. MISS BRANNON WINS POPULARITY CUP

Miss Virginia Brannon, pretty Santa Ana high school junior co-ed, holder of six elective offices and active in all phases of school affairs, won the cup as the most popular girl in the student body at the dance, held last night in Andrews gymnasium.

The silver trophy was given to her before the 200 students who were present for the gala opening student body dance.

A close rival for the honor was Miss Sara Hales. A large number of votes, also were cast for Miss Catherine Best and Miss Mary McWaters. The dance marked the beginning of a policy of permitting dances to be held by Santa Ana high school students.

Elaborate arrangements for the dance were carried out by Miss Mary Jane Owens student body president. Loren Cannon's 10-piece orchestra played. Special numbers were sung by the Misses Gertrude Sheffer and Henrietta Sheffer, accompanied by Miss Barbara Wescott. Ukulele selections were played by a trio, composed of Robert Gilbert, Lester Schroeder and James Briggs.

Miss Levenia Scott, high school teacher, was official chaperon. Many of the faculty members attended.

Decorations of purple and green were fixed about the room and the huge lights were colored with amber, ruby and emerald shades. Miss Marcia Keeler was in charge of decorations. Miss Loretta Spangler prepared the punch for the dancers.

On the house committee were Ed Daley and Charles Winterburn.

The Trade Union college, the first school of its kind in the United States, was established in Boston seven years ago. The institution is controlled and managed entirely by working men.

ATTORNEY GENERAL DECLARES OPERATION OF JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS HERE IS NOT LEGAL

What may result in a complete reorganization of the city school system for administrative and tax purposes, affecting the present status of the Julia C. Lathrop and the Frances E. Willard junior high schools, is an opinion handed down by U. S. Webb, attorney general of the state of California, to the effect that establishment of junior high schools in the Santa Ana high school district is not authorized by law.

The opinion of the state official is in consonance with a recent ruling of District Attorney Alex P. Nelson, holding that the Santa Ana board of education has no authority under law to establish and maintain junior high schools.

Ever since the two junior high schools were established in this city there has been some doubt as to their legal status. The school authorities have maintained that they have a right to operate such schools, basing their stand on opinions handed down by the office of the superintendent of public instruction. A different view has been taken by the district attorney, who in an opinion to the board of education, holds that it has no authority to create junior high schools.

In supporting his opinion, the attorney general cites the California school law, which states expressly that the only high school districts authorized to form junior high schools are county school districts, union high school districts and joint union high school districts and only upon approval of a majority of the board of trustees of the elementary school districts composing the high school district.

Inquiries at the board of education offices elicited the information that the opinion will not change the present system of maintaining the Julia C. Lathrop and the Frances E. Willard schools. The seventh and the eighth grades will be under the elementary school law and the ninth grade under the provisions of the high school law, it was explained.

Flag Display Rules for Memorial Day

The flag should be at half-mast until noon.

From noon to sunset it should fly from the top.

In half-masting the flag, run it to the top of the mast first.

Also run a half-mast flag to the top before hauling it down.

When the flag is flown horizontally, the starry field should be at the upper left. When flown vertically, the field should be at the upper right.

The pledge of allegiance is taken standing, right hand over the heart. The pledge goes, "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." Civilian adults take the pledge by standing at attention, cap off. Persons in uniform render the right hand salute.

ENTIRE TICKET VICTORIOUS IN SCHOOL VOTING

Candidates on the 'Colegiate" ticket swept into the student body offices in the Santa Ana junior college, it was disclosed today, when the votes cast in the election yesterday were counted.

Henrik Van Rensselaer won the presidency by an overwhelming majority over James Smith. He polled the largest vote of any of the candidates, receiving 101 votes, to 37 for Smith.

Other officers elected were Lawrence Minge, vice president; Miss Enid Twist, secretary, and Arnulfo Ramirez, treasurer.

Inauguration of the new officers is to be held next Wednesday, during assembly hour, when the traditional revolt against the dictatorial sway of the outgoing president will be led by the incoming officers.

By the time inauguration is held, the appointive commissioner offices will be filled. The elective officers, with Dean J. Russell Bruff, will name the commissioners.

At the same time that the elections were held, two amendments to the student body constitution were approved. By the changes, a new appointive office of commissioner of women's activities was created and all the athletic team managers were placed under the student commissioner of men's athletics.

The result of the balloting were as follows:

POPPY SALE NETS TOTAL OF $583.72

Sale of the little red poppies here yesterday, for the benefit of disabled service men of the World war, their orphans and families, netted $583.72, Mrs. Fannie Reeves, chairman of the welfare committee of the Santa Ana American Legion auxiliary, announced today.

The sales were made on the downtown streets by 25 legion auxiliary girls, dressed in blue smocks. Almost 4000 poppies were sold in Santa Ana, it was announced.

The girls, under the direction of Mrs. Reeves and Mrs. Nora McCalla, president of the auxiliary, worked from early yesterday morning until late last night.

All of the money derived from the sales will go into the fund to aid disabled men and their families.

23 MOROS SLAIN BY CONSTABULARY

MANILA, May 29.—Twenty-three Moros and one member of the constabulary were killed in the third uprising in recent days on the province of Zonanao, according to Lanao advices reaching here today.

The most recent engagement lasted an hour. Scores were wounded on both sides.

Five Moro strongholds have been captured and 100 Moros and six constabulary have been willed in the fighting this week.

Private dispatches denounce the constabulary for "slaughtering" the natives and report widespread discontent and restlessness.

BETTERMENT OF FORCE REASON FOR CHANGES

Several drastic changes in the police department here will take effect on June 1, according to an announcement made today by City Marshal Claude Rogers. A bulletin, issued today, notified officers of the impending changes. "For the betterment of the force" was the reason assigned for the changes.

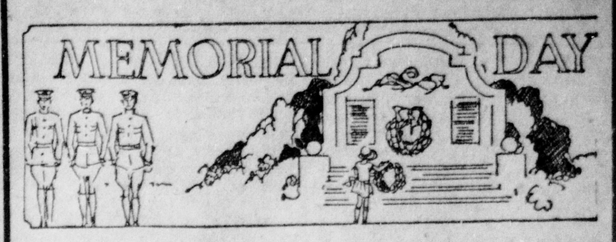

Beginning the first of the month, Ed Boynton, desk sergeant at the present time, on the shift from 4 p. m. until midnight, will be assigned to the east end beat, to work with Officer Jim Murray from 8 p. m. until 4 a. m.

C. L. Neuschwanger, desk sergeant, from midnight until 8 a. m., will work the shift vacated by Boynton, from 4 p. m. until midnight. W. H. Wolfel will succeed Neuschwanger on the desk from midnight until 8 a. m.

L. M. Ballard has been selected to succeed Officer Wolfel on a downtown beat from 4 a. m. until noon.

In connection with the announcement of changes, an order also was issued by City Marshal Rogers to the effect that all desk sergeants, as well as police sergeants, will, after June 1, wear full uniforms.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE PLACE OF VISION IN LIFE

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

Beersheba, a name signifying the Well of Seven or the Well of Oath, was the residence of the ancient patriarchs. It was here that Isaac went after he had gained a footing in the land and had established possession of a well after the Philistines had destroyed two wells previously dug.

From this victory over the Philistines he had gone to Beersheba, and here he had had the vision with the confirmation of his choice as the successor of Abraham and heir of the promises as recorded in the last lesson.

Now Jacob, Isaac's son, was going out from Beersheba toward Haran, the original home of Abraham. He was going to this ancestral home in search of a wife. And if he was going with hope and ambition, he was not leaving behind him altogether a satisfactory record, nor were his future experiences to be by any means free from trouble.

With Heavy Heart

At the time of this experience he may well have had a heavy heart and an accusing conscience, for he had been guilty of deplorable trickery in wronging his brother Esau, and in securing for himself the birthright.

It was in depression, probably, rather than in exaltation that he felt the need of divine help. And it may well have been out of this experience of self-accusation that he entered into the spiritual experience.

He had reached his journey's end for the night, and darkness overtaking him, he had taken one of the stones and put it under his head for a pillow. He dreamed during the night, and one might well say, "No wonder, who might not have a dreamful sleep with a stone for a pillow."

Jacob, however, had a very remarkable dream. It was a dream that has become famous in history and in literature, and that, as Jacob's ladder, has symbolized communication between earth and heaven. It was a dream of revelation and of promise to Isaac, and a dream that placed upon him great responsibility.

When Jacob wakened out of his sleep his dream was still so real that he felt certain that God had communed with him. So he set up the stone that had been under his head for a pillar, poured oil upon the top of it as a symbol of its consecration, and called the place Bethel because, as he said, "This is none other than the House of God, and this is the Gate of Heaven."

Bargain With God

All this might have been merely an emotional experience, but Jacob made it something more real; he made it a matter of vow and consecration. It is true that his vow was something in the nature of a bargain with God. If God would be with him in the way, and would give him bread to eat and raiment to wear, if God would bring him to his father's house in peace, then this God was to be his God, and he was surely going to give one-tenth of all that came to him in recognition of God's bounty.

Possibly one might have asked Jacob, as it was asked of Job at a later time, "Doth Jacob serve God for naught?" It was a religion that seemed to have more in it of getting than of giving, and Jesus said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Here perhaps we have marked all the wide separation between the primitive religion of Jacob and the religion of the New Testament manifest in the life, teaching and example of Jesus of Nazareth.

But we must not be too critical of these ancient stories. We must not expect the full rightness of Christian fruit in the far off dawning of human history.

We must understand the religion of the past in the light of the past, and we thus understand we can see that though Jacob, especially at this time, did not seem to have all the largeness and magnanimity of Abraham, or the sincerity of Isaac, he had at least something of that stability upon which something worth while may be built.

With all his faults Jacob stood in the line of succession. He had at least capacity for vision though his ambition led him into selfish and mean actions. It was associated also with a certain driving power and energy.

He appears at his best at Bethel. We find him many years after coming back to Bethel at a time of great danger when his misdeeds are apt to wreak upon him the vengeance of stored up years, and in this return to Bethel reviving old years, all the best that was in Jacob came to light. It is this best character of the man in whom there was great fault of which we have a glimpse in the story of our lesson.

The man who can see a ladder rising out of life toward higher and better things is never wholly divorced from God or hopeless. Let us pray that whatever our temptations and our dangers vision may never fail us, and above all that we may see life as a ladder reaching toward heaven.

The Petersons Offer Original Features At Bridge Party

AN ORIGINAL assignment of partners for bridge was but one of the many unique features of a charming party presented last night by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peterson at their home on West Seventeenth street, as one of the series of pretty affairs which they have had since their marriage last fall and their subsequent coming to Santa Ana to establish their home.

Mrs. Peterson (Audrey Isbell) utilized lilacs, Scotch broom and cosmos in an attractive decorative scheme of orchid and yellow which was maintained in all details of the evening. Instead of the conventional tally cards, each guest was presented with a card inscribed with the name of some motion picture star and a list of kindred celebrities with whom successive games of bridge would be played. This served to mix the group thoroughly and Bebe Daniels for instance, would find herself playing with Lew Cody, Douglas Fairbanks and Rudolph Valentino in quick succession. Each attempted to maintain the character assigned, with amusing results.

Prize awards were made to Mrs. Thomas Willits enacting Pola Negri and Walter Hill as Ben Turpin, both scoring high, and to Mrs. Frank Krause (Gloria Swanson) and Warren Fletcher (Jack Dempsey) scoring low. Mrs. Willits' gift was as appropriate as it was attractive, since it was a pair of book-ends in pirate craft design, and Mrs. Willits (Cecil Fross Willits) was the delightful Poppy Faire and cabin-boy in "Captain Applejack," recent Community play success in which her host, Mr. Peterson took the title role so effectively.

At the supper hour, Mrs. Peterson was assisted by her mother, Mrs. James W. Isbell, Miss Marguerite Pierce and Mrs. Edwin Schick of Orange and Mrs. Willits, in serving delightful refreshments. Each table was centered with a yellow Maypole whose rose garlanded ribbons led to dainty Colonial dolls secreting the nut cups beneath their flowing skirts. A chicken salad was served with wafers, olives and coffee and was followed by a yellow ice cream roll centered with lavender ice and served with macaroons.

Asked to share the gay affair with the hosts were Mr. and Mrs. James W. Isbell, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schick, Mr. and Mrs. David Wettlin, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krause, Mr. and Mrs. Huntoon, Miss Marguerite Pierce, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Visel (Holly Lash) of Orange; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Willits jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Flood, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Miss Elaine Wharton, Miss Helen Tantlinger and Henry Williams of Santa Ana and Rudolph Richards of Pomona.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

First Methodist Episcopal

Members of the Friendly Circle class of the First Methodist church enjoyed a bountiful supper at the church parlors Thursday night when Miss Nellie Irvine and James Hughes, assistant pastor of the church, were guests of honor. An interesting program had been provided for the evening which included readings, and musical numbers.

Coming as a climax to the evening's fun was the presentation of a floor lamp and a silk cushion to Miss Irvine and Mr. Hughes who will be married soon.

A number of initiation stunts were put on for the new members.

Sixty attended the lawn fete at home of Mrs. E. L. Morrison, 116 South Birch street, Thursday afternoon, given by the south west section of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church. Officers of the other sections of the church were in attendance. Gifts were presented Miss Gene Rowley for her school girls in China.

Mrs. Morrison, chairman, was assisted by Mesdames Thomas S. Blair, E. T. Williams, Clara G. Chapman, Park Ash, H. O. Garlock, Margaret Church, W. S. McVay and C. H. Walton.

The lawn was attractive with baskets and vases of flowers, while garden-benches, chairs, rugs and cushions added to the comfort of the guests. Under a large umbrella, in one corner of the lawn, delicious punch was served.

After the business meeting, Mrs. E. C. Phillips very delightfully gave two readings. First by special request was Joyce Kilmer's "Trees." Her second selection was "Rouge Bouquet," by the same author, and for an encore she read "The Garden," by Nancy Byrd Turner.

A novel game was introduced by Mrs. Blair. On every guest's back was pinned the name fo some bird—and each one endeavored by turning, twisting or running, to keep others from reading the bird's name—causing much merriment. Mrs. Drake took the prize, a bouquet, for the largest number secured. Mrs. Church was reponsible for a "Flower Romance," a guessing game, for which Mrs. Crawford won the bouquet. After the singing of "America," ice cream, cake and tea were served by the committee. There was a harmonious blending of pretty gowns and flowers and an unusually friendly spirit made a very pleasant afternoon.

Catholic women of the diocese of Los Angeles and San Diego will hold their annual conference in Los Angeles June 3 and 4 at the Catholic Women's clubhouse, 927 Menlo avenue. Miss Mary J. Workman, president of the Diocesan Council, has arranged a very interesting and valuable program for the two days, featuring several distinguished people.

The morning programs will open at 9:30 o'clock, and will be given ever to business and reports from various councils throughout the diocese, with interesting round tables.

There are 100 affliated organizations in the council, which includes the eight southern counties of San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Riverside, Orange, San Bernardino and Imperial, with a membership of 1800 women.

Luncheon will be served at noon with the time devoted to sociability. The meetings are open to the public and on Thursday evening there will be an informal reception at 8:30 o'clock, preceded by a musical program.

A large number of Santa Ana women are planning to attend, the delegates from the three affiliated organizations being Miss Armella Klatt and Miss Elizabeth Paine from Capistrano institute, Y. L. I., Mrs. Olive Lopez and Miss Barbara Klatt from St. Joseph's Altar society and Mrs. Alice Hallicy and Mrs. Charles Borchard of St. Ann's Altar society.

County Park Offers Setting for Gay Register Party

LACKING ONLY the rumble of the printing presses and the swarming newsboys, Orange county park presented a typical newspaper scene last night when one of their delightful family parties was held by The Register folk in compliment to a June bride elect, Miss Julia Linsenbard of the circulation department.

Miss Linsenbard will become the bride of Henry Eggert of Los Angeles, and while Mr. Eggert failed to reach the park in time for the steak dinner, he arrived in the early evening to be adopted into the family as an "in-law" and to enjoy the dancing that completed the gayety.

With Terry E. Stephenson as "meat chef," and other executives of the company carrying wood, making coffee and keeping up fires, supper was soon ready to be served at one long table where some 60 members of the staff took their places. The broiled steaks were accompanied by spaghetti, baked beans, scalloped potatoes, salad, olives, coffee, and as dessert, brick ice cream with a variety of the most delicious cakes imaginable, all baked by helpful Register wives.

In the interval of serving, J. P. Baumgartner took advantage of a little lull in the merriment to express to Miss Linsenbard the regret of the office at losing her, and the affection and good wishes that will follow her into her new life. At the close of his felicitous little talk, he presented her with a handsome electric waffle iron, the gift of her comrades on the paper.

As night came on and the countless little lights sprang into being throughout the park, the scene needed only the magic of the late golden moon and strains of music to be perfect. Both were forthcoming and merry-hearted folk sought the pavilion where the Thompson and Jennings dance orchestra furnished excellent music. Other picnickers in the park joined the group and the members of the newspaper staff who had not come up for the supper hour, arrived to enjoy the dancing, until there was quite a large and congenial crowd to remain until the closing of the pavilion.

Miss Linsenbard will leave the circulation department of The Register in early June and her wedding to Mr. Eggert will come about the middle of the month. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Linsenbard were among the guests sharing in the evening's pleasures.

Piano Recital

A very enjoyable piano recital was the one given by a group of the younger pupils of Alice Talcott Merigold Thursday afternoon, at her residence studio on North Main street.

These young students have been working for several weeks for par excellence and showed careful training.

Little Lucille Hohlman, the tiniest tot of all, won the contest with perfect grades. Betty Scheel also had perfect grades and did so well in her little song, playing her own accompaniment.

Arden Murray did some very artistic work for one so young, playing an arrangement of "Santa Lucia" and also "The Carnival of Venice" with excellent musical interpretation.

Robert Adams did some very nice work in "Song of the Lark" by Tschaikowsky.

A duet "Minuet in G," Beethoven, played by Margaret Gruwell and Arden Murray was one of the best numbers on the program. The trio by Margaret Gruwell, Lois and Arden Murray was played with good rythm and unison.

To vary the program, two little sisters, Arden and Lois Murray danced a very pretty little "Butterfly" dance in costume.

After the program light refreshments were served by the Misses Luella Chapman and Pauline Trickey, two pupils of Mrs. Merigold who will appear in the next recital.

Those taking part in the program were Betty Perrin, Jean Reuter, Robert Adams, Virginia Trickey, Mildred Cowen, Lucille Cowen, Betty Scheel, Margaret Gruwell, Arden Murray, Lois Murray and Lucille Hohlman.

Bon Voyage Is Bidden In Happy Fashion To Travelers

For Brother and Sister

ADDING "bon voyage" to Miss Alice Parker and her brother, Robert Parker, soon to be listed among the summer's European travelers, a little group of congenial friends last night enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Effie Douglas at her North Broadway home.

Bridge was the diversion of the evening and as the games progressed, the players were refreshed with cooling punch served from a flower-decked tea wagon, and with compotes of sweets placed on each card table.

When scores were tallied, Mrs. Charles Swanner received a dainty rose and gold party bag and Alfred J. Ralph, a deck of playing cards for high scores, while a colorful shoulder bouquet of fuschias was consolation offered Miss Pauline Parsons and a clever wee harmonica for Charles Swanner, scoring low among the men. At the same time an attractive guest prize of stationery was presented Miss Parker and her brother, also, was remembered.

Miss Douglas had the efficient aid of her brother, 'Gene Douglas, in all the evening's hospitality. Pastel tints were used in decorative details, and were particularly effective in the lovely flowers used throughout the home and to center the individual tables when refreshments were served in two courses at the close of the games.

Decision was suddenly reached by the Parkers, to spend the summer in England with relatives. They will sail from New York on June 19 on the Royal Mail steamer, "Orca," and will go directly to Mansfield, planning later to visit many spots in the "right little, tight little isle."

For Miss Lasby

ONE of the happy events of last night was an informal gathering of a few close friends of Miss Jennie Lasby, asked to meet in her honor and share a happy evening in the home of Dr. Mary Wright on East Tenth street.

Informality truly ruled the evening, with a succession of entertaining guessing contests and similar features to add amusement. Partners were chosen in clever fashion, by distributing slips of paper, each bearing the name of one of the famous affinities of history. This resulted in David Copperfield seeking his shy Dora, Antony searching for Cleopatra, Lord Nelson for Lady Hamilton, Paul for Virginia, and others equally well-known.

In a verse-writing contest, Miss Lasby herself took honors and received a dainty pencil. Its suitability was strikingly apparent later when the hostess presented her honor guest with a handsome little day-book for retaining her impressions and experiences while on the European trip upon which she will soon embark.

"Dr. Mary," as she is lovingly called by her friends, served an enjoyable little two-course supper, centering her tables with vivid nasturtiums. The remainder of the evening was given over to lively chat between the assorted partners, and to an amusing adaptation of a Mother Goose rhyme for each guest.

Junior College Dance and Reception

Something of the pathos of the last parting was prevalent at the dance reception given by the freshman class of Junior college last night at the Ebell clubhouse for the sophomores.

Most of the sophomore students will scatter to widely separated colleges this fall, never again to be united. Then even for the freshman students, this affair closes the dances this year. Sanford's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. Seventy-five students attended to enjoy the festivities. Quite a little excitement was occasioned by the attempts of the dancers to pop the balloons that were passed around as favors. Everett Best was the last to retain his balloon.

Arrangements for the affair were made by Henrik Van Rensselaer, president of the freshman class. On the refreshment committe were Dan Cook and Wilbur Young. Assisting with the decorations and other details were Miss Elaine Smith, Miss Portia Friedenbloom, Miss Betty Hoy, James Smith and Carl Weise.

Some of the machines made for wrapping soap, razor blades, chewing gum and other packaged goods do the work of as many as 40 persons.

Pretty Bridge Tea Is Presented by Mrs. Sutton

ENTERING her hospitality at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Curtis, 222 South Main street, Mrs. Bert Sutton entertained delightfully Thursday afternoon at a bridge tea.

Coreopsis and carnations were combined with ferns in an artistic decorative scheme of yellow and rose, and were used to center the small tables when refreshments were served at the close of the games.

Honors went to Mrs. Joseph Finley, scoring high; Mrs. Charles J. Ebersold, second, and Mrs. E. Maurice Sundstrom, low, with attractive prizes rewarding each. In serving her dainty two-course tea menu, Mrs. Sutton was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Curtis. Pretty nut-cups at each place harmonized with the central floral decorations.

Several out-of-town guests were present, including the hostess's sister, Mrs. A. R. Burns of Laguna Beach, and cousin, Mrs. George Means of Long Beach, as well as Mrs. Edwin Warner and Miss Fay Warner of Altadena, and Mrs. Clay Minnix of Placentia.

Santa Ana guests included Mesdames Floyd Knight, Alfred Simmons, Ray Wolven, E. Maurice Sundstron, Charles J. Ebersold, Clyde Deardorff, S. B. Kaufman, Roy S. King, Rudolph Weisgerber, Norbert Lentz, C. H. Lurker, Will Kelly, Harold Smith, Loring Dale, E. U. Dickinson, Joseph Finley and Harry Lambert.

Industrial Dames In Pleasant Meeting

The Industrial Dames held a very delightful meeting Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Archie D. Gorton being the hostess at 1117 West Fifth street. Attractive decorations of gladioli of delicate hue and waxen white iris were used to adorn the living rooms.

Clever diversion was planned, the guests being divided into groups of two and given a roll of newspaper and tissue paper, with instructions to begin a dress. One woman was the model and the other the designer. Chic results were attained, the first prize going to Mrs. Rose Grover, model, and Mrs. C. W. Yeamer, modiste. The second was drawn for by Mrs. F. L. Woodhouse, whose designer was Mrs. J. H. Cochran, and Mrs. Herman Smith, Mrs. Woodhouse being the winner.

Needlework, singing of popular old ballads, recitations and stories added to the pleasure of the afternoon, which was brought to a happy conclusion with the serving of home-made ice cream, cakes, wafers, coffee and candies.

Those who enjoyed the meeting besides the hostess were Mesdames C. W. Leamer, Robert White, J. H. Cochran, Ross Grover, Florence Hicks, Ella Etchison, Herman Smith, F. L. Woodhouse, Leon Lauderbach, Maria Gorton and J. A. Ranney.

Give Birthday Party At County Park

The Talbert and Irwin families joined last night in a happy social affair at Orange county park as a birthday event and a farewell to Miss Hazel D. Miller, a teacher in the Huntington Beach schools, who is leaving on June 7 for Eureka, Ill., to attend the graduating exercises of the college there. Miss Miller graduated from the college two years ago.

Miss Miller is a niece of T.B. Talbert, chairman of the board of supervisors, and J. B. Irwin, custodian of the park. The group had dinner at the park late in the evening, about twenty-five sitting down to the sumptuous feast contributed by various members of the family group. A birthday cake centered the table.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller, parents of the honoree; T. B. Talbert and family, W. S. Thompson and wife, R. M. Peters and wife, Avery Rennick, Miss Clara Leavenworth, Huntington Beach; J. B. Irwin and family, J. C. Keeler and wife, county park; C. C. Irwin and wife, F. F. Irwin and family, L. E. Tarbox and family, John Carter and wife, Sam Talbert and wife, V. E. McCullom and wife, Santa Ana.

Prospective Bride Is Honored by Friends At Gift Shower

MISS Irene Blower and Miss Cleo Bowers were hostesses Thursday evening to a group of thirty-five young people complimenting Miss Nellie Irvine and James H. Hughes, who have announced their wedding date for June 27. Their entertaining took the form of a surprise kitchen shower and was staged at the home of Miss Bowers, 1520 West Washington avenue.

Scotch broom combined with fern gave a charming yellow and green decorative scheme, in which an interesting motif was a little tablet of greenery on which the names, "Nellie and Jimmie" were worked out in yellow. Magazine illustrations aided the merrymakers in developing an interesting scrapbook picturing the future of the happy young people. The scrapbook was presented them as a souvenir of the evening. Rook was then introduced and formed the entertainment feature until the hour for the surprise.

"Little Eva" enacted by Gale Harmon, in yellow frock and bonnet with blue ribbons, came drawing in a little wagon laden with gifts and presented them to Miss Irvine. They included all manner of necessary and useful kitchen articles, and in addition a gift from Mr. Philip Blower, father of one of the hostesses, whose thoughtfulness planned the first meal in the new home. The mysterious box bearing his message, was found to be filled with tissue-wrapped packages, including breakfast foods, vegetables, fruits and kindred food supplies.

At the refreshment hour, the two young hostesses were aided by their mothers, Mrs. Philip Blower and Mrs. C. A. Bowers, in serving appropriate refreshments including paradise pudding and heart-shaped cakes with punch.

Enjoying the happy evening with the hostess group, Miss Blower, Miss Bowers, Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Blower, were the honored pair, Miss Irvine and Mr. Hughes, the Misses Mayme Dennison, Grace Dennison, Ruth Winters, Ruth Lawrence, Bernice Finuf, Gladys Finuf, Hazel Smith, Vivian Smith, Hazel Salisbury, Helen Salisbury, Marjorie Arnold, Vera Morrison, Nancy Marshall, Mrs. Flora Howland, Messrs. Gale Harmon, Lloyd Smith, Ray Walworth, Victor Morrison, Fayette Birtcher, Heustis Snow, Donald Dearth, Eddie Jones, Elbert Blower, Gerrard Blower, Albert Blower, Donald Zaiser and Virgil Dunkin.

The Blue, the Gray and the Khaki

ON MONDAY, May 31st, the nation will honor the memory of all the heroes of its past wars.

On Memorial Day in a thousand cemeteries throughout the land, in Cuba, in the Philippines and upon the newly made graves in our war cemeteries of battle-scarred France, wherever our soldiers, sailors and marines died, fresh flowers will be placed by loving hands.

Thus America will honor her war dead who wore the Blue, the Gray and the Khaki.

IVANHOE—Sir Walter Scott's Classic in Pictorial Form

NOW WE GO BACK TO WHERE THE BLACK KNIGHT LEFT THE TRYSTING TREE AND THE OUTLAWS AFTER THE BURNING OF TORQUILSTONE. HE VISITED IVANHOE, PROMISING TO MEET HIM LATER AT CONINGSBURGH, AT ATHELSTANE'S FUNERAL FEAST. THEN, TAKING WAMBA WITH HIM AS A GUIDE, HE SET FORTH ON HIS ERRAND.

WHEN HE HAD GONE, IVANHOE, EXPLAINING TO THE PRIOR THAT SOME PREMONITION BESET HIM, IMPLORED THAT HE BE FURNISHED A HORSE THAT HE MIGHT DEPART. AFTER MUCH ARGUMENT HE PREVAILED ON THE GOOD PRIEST AND DEPARTED ON A GENTLE OLD MARE. WHILE GURTH, NOW HIS SQUIRE, CARRIED HIS ARMOR.

WAMBA AND THE BLACK KNIGHT HAD NOT PROCEEDED VERY FAR WHEN THEY WERE SET UPON BY A PARTY OF MEN AT ARMS, AND, THOUGH THE ASSAILANTS WERE FALLING BACK FROM THE BLACK KNIGHT'S GOOD RIGHT ARM, WAMBA SNATCHED THE KNIGHT'S HORN AND BLEW THREE LOUD BLASTS, KNOWING LOCKSLEY AND HIS MEN WOULD RESPOND.

THE BLACK KNIGHT WAS BACKED AGAINST A TREE, BATTLING VALIANTLY AGAINST OVERPOWERING ODDS, WHEN LOCKSLEY AND HIS BAND CAME UPON THEM, AND SOON ALL OF THOSE WHO HAD AMBUSHED THE BLACK KNIGHT LAY DEAD OR MORTALLY WOUNDED. ALL SAVE ONE, A KNIGHT IN BLUE ARMOR. HE WAS DISCOVERED TO BE WALDEMAR FITZURSE.

The WOMAN'S DAY
by Allene Sumner

The Woman Pays!

One of fifteen persons called before a New York magistrate on a charge of disorderly conduct for smoking on a ferry, was a woman. The judge had imposed $3 fines upon the 14 males. The woman he asked, "You were not smoking, were you?" When Miss Virginia Barnes admitted that she belonged to the smoking conclave, he gave her a $5 fine, "for having the nerve to do it." And all this in Gotham itself! Think what an outbreak in that city if Judge Hay-in-the-Beard of Town Pump Center had done it!

Gracious Husband!

The very most gracious thing which any husband ever did or possibly could say of a lady suing him for divorce is said by William B. Kahn, being sued for divorce by the songstress, Frieda Hempel. He says, "Evidently I failed to make her happy. This I regret, as no woman who has brought such happiness to millions throughout the world, should herself be happy." Frieda, how could you?

Girls and Barbed Wire

Girl students of Oxford University are up in arms over a lofty, spiked, barbed wire fence around their premises. School authorities erected the fence, it is rumored, after learning that a co-ed out past the curfew hour got onto home territory by climbing a fence rather than ringing the gateman's door. I can hardly see American college girls standing the barbed wire fence longer than two minutes. It will be interesting to see what England's "flaming youth" does about the matter!

Girl Author Weds

The fiance of young Sylvia Thompson, 22-year-old author of Spring's best seller, "Hounds of Spring," is "setting pretty," according to our neat way of putting it. His name is Peter Luling. He is an art student. He appears on the title page of his fiancee's book, where she writes, "This book is dedicated to the mind of H. G. Wells and Peter Luling." Miss Thompson sold the film rights to her book for something like $15,000, the serial rights for $10,000, and a bigger sum than either for royalties.

Rhubarb Shortcake

Different, we'll tell the world! One and one-half pint rhubarb cut in small pieces, 1 1-4 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 eggs, shortcake dough. Stew rhubarb with little water. Add sugar. Mix cornstarch with little wated and add to well beaten egg yolks. Add all to rhubarb mixture. Spread one layer of shortcake dough with the rhubarb custard, make a meringue of the egg whites and 1-4 cup sugar. Spread on top and brown.

For more than 50 years Anna C. Silas made a living and a most comfortable one by sitting in show windows, her hair down her back. Her hair was six feet and one inch long, golden, and sold thousands of dollars worth of whatever she said did it. A day or so ago "Anna C. Silas with the lovely hair" had it cut. Aged 76, "wanting a change."

THE GRUMBLERS

I hear the grumblers fitfully complain,
It seems in life there is too much of rain.

One mutters that his trade is very slow,
Business is worse than 'twas a year ago.

A woman whimpers that the day is long,
The milk has soured and everything is wrong.

Yet those with deepest hurts and heaviest hearts
Smile back at life and bravely play their parts.

The years give laughter, love and friendships true,
Days of delight and skies of summer blue.

Uncounted pleasure strew the humblest way,
Yet few remember joys of yesterday.

I hear the grumblers, fretted by a task
And wonder what it is from life they'd ask.

What more of splendor could the years bestow
Than God has given for all mankind to know?

Some things are wrong, and here on earth is care,
But how much joy should be a grumbler's share?

ADVENTURES of the TWINS
by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 24—THE WHIFFET FINDS HIS SHADOW

But before anybody could reply the ivory door opened suddenly and there stood Mr. Snoopsy himself.

When the Twins and the Whiffet stepped onto the Zigzag Path that led to Hidy Go Land, the path started to jump and jerk and wiggle and shake so hard they could scarcely keep their feet. They might just as well have tried to walk on a hammock.

"Oh dear! I can't stand up!" cried Nancy, clutching at Nick.

"Neither can I," said Nick, reaching for the little rag-bag boy, who had been bounced clear off—and almost head over heels himself.

Suddenly they heard a voice say: "Highty tighty! this won't do! And you children with magic shoes 'n everything, too."

There stood their old friend Mister Havalook, with his laundry under his arm.

"You—you don't se—em to—to have any troub—trouble," said Nancy. "How—do—do you stick on?"

"Its a charm," said Mister Havalook. "I tie a knot in one corner of my handkerchief. If you have no handkerchief along, an end of your necktie will do, or the end of your apron-string. Just anything so you have a knot along."

Well, THAT worked all right, for in spit of their stumbling, the Twins got their knots tied. But the Whiffet had nothing to tie. And I don't know what would have happened if Mister Havalook hadn't brought his laundry along. But he had it right there so he lent the Whiffet a sock, and that fixed it.

"Now then, go right along until you come to a large silver maple tree with reddish blossoms," said Mister Havalook. "Right behind it you will see an ivory door. That's the door of Mister Snoopsy's cave. But listen here! I want to tell you a secret that I just learned the day before yesterday. It may help you out if the old rascal gets obstreperous."

With that Mister Havalook whispered something to Nick, and picking up his bundle, he was gone.

No, I won't tell you just yet exactly what it was that Mister Havalook whispered to Nick. It is to be a surprise.

The Twins and the Whiffet had no more trouble after that. The Zigzag Path lay on the ground just as quiet as a pan of taffy.

They crossed the violet patch and the hepatica patch and the anemone patch and the arbutus patch and the dog-wood patch and pretty soon they came to the silver maple tree.

And there behind it was the IVORY DOOR OF MISTER SNOOPSY'S CAVE.

"Oh, dear! Do you really think that I am going to find my shadow at last?" said the poor little Whiffet, as Nick knocked loudly.

But before anybody could reply, the ivory door opened suddenly and there stood Mister Snoopsy himself—a terrifically tall, fierce shadow in the shape of a pirate.

"Who are you and what do you—" he started to roar, when suddenly Nick said, "Candle-snuffers!" just like THAT was the secret Mister Havalook had told him. And here is the surprise! Instantly Mister Snoopsy melted into smoke. In a minute and a half he was gone altogether.

And that minute a streak of something dark seemed to shoot out of the cave and throw its arms around the little Whiffet's neck. But no one could be sure. What they were sure of was that in the patch of sunlight where they stood, there were three shadows instead of two. The Whiffet had found his shadow at last, pockets, necktie, ears and all! And the strangest thing of all was it had shrunk exactly as much as the purple bombazine suit. Do you suppose Mister Snoopsy starved it?

MENUS for the FAMILY
By SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Fresh pineapple, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, soft cooked eggs, graham toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Creamed new onions on toast, lettuce sandwiches, rhubarb tapioca, milk, tea.

Dinner—Casserole of beef with raisins, buttered rice, asparagus salad, whole wheat bread, strawberry sponge with crisp cookies, milk, coffee.

Casserole of beef uses a cheap cut of meat to good advantage. The flavor is quite unusual and delicious and the raisins increase the food value.

There are no dishes suggested that are not suitable for children four years of age.

Strawberry Sponge

One pint strawberries, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 3-4 cup sugar, 1-4 cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, whites 2 eggs.

Wash berries and let drain. Press through a sieve and strain off 1-2 cup juice. Add boiling water to juice and bring to the boiling point. Add gelatine softened in cold water. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add strawberries, sugar and lemon juice. Let stand until cool and beginning to jelly. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a mold and put on ice to chill and become firm. Serve with custard sauce made with the yolks of the eggs.

Flavor the sauce with almond extract in place of vanilla. The almond and strawberry combination is delicious.

QUEER QUIRKS of NATURE
By ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association

Poison ivy is common and the American people long have known its deadly qualities. Yet it is surprising how many persons do not know of it, or else thoughtlessly expose themselves.

Few people have not heard that the deadly ivy has three leaflets and the harmless Virginia creeper or woodbine has five. But this, of course, tells only part of the story.

There are many other leaved plants and, unless one knows some of them as well as the ivy, or is in particular fear of it, the distinction is easily forgotten. If it were not that many people are only slightly susceptible, we believe that most woodbine workers would be more or less permanently affected.

In autumn the leaves of poison ivy turn a deep rich red and they are often gathered by the ignorant or careless. And even at Christmas time unscrupulous venders gather the berry-laden twigs and sell them to the unsuspecting householders for decorations.

More supposed remedies for ivy poisoning exist than anyone has yet counted, but the best and only sure one is not to get poisoned in the first place.

Experts tell us that the poison must run its course, but the pain and discomfort may be lessened by repeated washings with warm water and soap. A lotion made of one part of grindelia, which may be bought at any drug store, and 10 parts of water is highly recommended. Every precaution should be taken to avoid the spread of the poison by mechanical means.

A Thought

For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rules of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. —Ephesians 6:12.

BEAUTY CHATS
by EDNA KENT FORBES

COMMON FOOT TROUBLES

If you have any sort of trouble with your feet you should go to a chiropodist regularly just as you would go to a dentist if you have teeth trouble. It is a good plan to go before any actual pain starts, for a corn or callous is much more easily cured if the treatment is begun early. And be sure your chiropodist is good, for a poor one is worse than no use.

If you would rather do it yourself and save the expense purchase a nail clipper which is so shaped that it cuts the nails off evenly, and which is about the only way of cutting the big toe nail the the proper shape in pointing V, which avoids ingrowing to nails. You should also have a pair of stout nail scissors to cut off the bottom of the callouses, and either a safety razor blade or a proper corn knife, but be sure you have a steady hand and that you know what you're doing before you begin shaving down a corn or callous.

To give any detailed corn treatments would take too long today. We must have several Chats on the subject. Remember that you begin every treatment by soaking the feet in hot water to which a little borax has been added. Then the feet should be dried and as much loose skin rubbed off with the towel as possible. A little cottonwood soaked in the water should be kept over the corns so as to keep them soft while the rest of the foot is being treated. Each corn should be carefully shaved down little by little so as not to touch the live skin. And then the spot—the rough edges of skin being removed with the nail scissors—should be rubbed with a little oil or cold cream. Or, if the corn has been sore, it should be painted with a little collodion.

Another day I'll give other foot treatments. Tired, sore or aching feet are the cause of many unsuspected and apparently unrelated ills.

M. B. L.—Short hair requires frequent washing since it gets oily much sooner than long hair. Rub it with soft towels to remove some of the oil at times and it will not be inclined to pack as you say yours does. The frequent combings do not have anything to do with the oily condition.

Try an egg shampoo for removing the dandruff, and massage the scalp every day to improve its circulation; if you do this a healthier condition will result. Be sure your barber uses sanitary precautions and that his combs are always sterilized.

Thomas C.—Kerosene is so stimulating to the scalp that it will sometimes prevent the hair from falling out. Kerosene has pretty much the same effects as alcohol has, but with either, only use when necessary, say three treatments with a day between each one. As the trouble is with the scalp, apply the remedy to the scalp and not to the hair.

The article you refer to in which the hair was to be soaked with kerosene was information on destroying vermin.

HOLLYWOOD!
by Russell J. Birdwell

HOLLYWOOD—The movie world has become the haven of notables in sports; champions who turn to the films between triumphs in their own sphere; near champs and old-timers who have lost their "silk"; relics of past glories on field, ring and track who bring atmosphere and frequently a decided acting aptitude to the screen.

Red Grange, football ace, is the latest recruit. Dempsey, of course, has had his fling in the film. Duke Kahanamoku, great swimmer, has been in several pictures. Gene Tunney is starting cinematics.

Checking off a few scintillant names in sports now engaged by one company alone, Paramount, the list is formidable: Tom Kennedy, once heavyweight title aspirant; George Godfrey, "black shadow of Leiperville"; Gene Delmont, veteran of a hundred battles; Tom Wilson, famous black-face comedian and one-time sparring partner of Bob Fitzsimmons; Charlie Maddox, Shorty Hall, Haeffle and Rice, all famous jockeys of their time, Bill Hurley, Tommy Grimes and Jack Padjen, famous cowboys; Pardner Jones, great "deadshot" of the west, who traveled with Buffalo Bill; Lefty Flynn, Yale's one-time great fullback.

Others who have appeared in films are Benny Leonard, Georges Carpentier, Al Kaufman, Gunboat Smith, Phil Salvadore, Sailor Sharkey and "Broken Nose" Murphy. Among the wrestlers there are Kala Pasha, one-time body guard for Mack Sennett, Abdulla the Turk, trainer for Douglas Fairbanks, and John Hackensmidt.

In the old days when a champ had passed his prime, he usually passed out of the picture; today he passes into the motion picture.

Interesting sidelights on Jack Gilbert, now among the most popular screen actors, is that eight years ago he was writing scenarios. His first script was "The Great Redeemer" for Clarence Brown. Now Brown is directing him in Metro-Goldwyn's "Flesh of the Devil."

* * *

A Metro-Goldyn-Mayer script writer was extolling the apparently unexpected philanthropy of one of the company's high officials. Said the excited one:

"He's just hired a war veteran to write scenarios, although the soldier has never done a script before. Isn't that a fine act of kindness?"

This inexperienced veteran proved to be Laurence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory," who was just then starting "The Big Parade."

The Mother, Scorned, Should Fight For Rights, Cynthia Advises

By CYNTHIA GREY

"What comfort can you offer a woman whose husband has blamed her for being the mother of two beautiful children?

"My husband thinks of nothing but making money. When our son was born, he stormed because the child would be an obstacle to his worldly success. It was the same when our daughter came.

"He is always regretting his bachelor days, when 'there weren't any kids to bother with.' He also says a woman should go out and earn a few thousand dollars a year for a man to pay him for having her around.

"I do work outside the home and earn good money, but he does not appreciate it.

"Do you think I can go on always in this way, striving for a man's love, or will I give way under the strain, and perhaps fall for some other man who will give me what I crave?"

I hardly think you will "fall for any other man" if you have been loyal enough to stand for all this. A sub rosa love affair would only complicate your problems.

But you should certainly take some step to better your present position.

This tangle seems to be one of those knots which can be solved only by cutting straight through it. A man who has so belittled you must be treated to a shock that will make him see himself as you see him. The only way to do this, so far as I can see, is to leave him and take the children with you. Since you are already self-supporting, there is no reason for you to endure the degradation of living with a man who despises you and has no affection for his children.

If you still, after the fashion of women, wish to regain his love, this is the best way to do it. He is probably one of those men who appreciate their blessings only when they are gone.

It may be that your stand for independence will so impress him that he will make terms with you. Whether he will keep his promises, however, I am not sure. From what you say of him, I rather doubt it.

But if this course does not win him back, it will at least give you a chance to stand on your own feet, to provide the children with the sort of home influences they should have, and perhaps to find happiness in a new life.

If you continue to kow-tow to him in spite of his abuse, as you say you have done for 14 years, you have only yourself to blame.

The Western Woman knows her motor —and she, too, asks for Veedol by name

MOST Western women drive cars well — and they want to care for them equally well. And they know that motor oil is most important in the care of their cars. They have learned that it is not safe to ask simply for "a quart of oil." It is not even enough to ask for "Eastern Oil." To get an oil that safeguards their motors and prevents expensive repair bills they know it is best to ask for Veedol—by name.

For Veedol is the pick of all Eastern oils, made from the pick of Eastern crudes. It is the oil that gives the famous "film of protection"—that sheer, fighting oil-film—a film thin as tissue, smooth as silk, tough as steel—a film that masters deadly heat and friction—a film that is your motor's most steadfast defender.

And just as the finest crackers, the most delicate face-soaps, the leading perfumes come to you sealed—so Veedol is brought to the Coast in sealed containers.

Drive up to the orange and black Veedol sign. There you will receive prompt, courteous service. Your dealer will gladly drain and refill your crankcase with Veedol. Then the "film of protection" will care for your motor. But be sure to ask for Veedol by name.

Spray Now for Red Scale

Give your trees a thoro wetting with 2% VOLCK and you'll quickly notice a big improvement in your trees. VOLCK is a contact spray of a highly improved type. It covers the sprayed surface with a uniform oily film which penetrates the waxy covering and reaches the adult beneath with deadly effectiveness, and without injury to fruit or foliage.

VOLCK KILLS RED SCALE

The surprising results of VOLCK are due to this viscous oily film, which remains effective for an indefinite period. The young on emergence are brought into contact with the oil, and are either killed by it or prevented from settling down and soon die. This accounts for the increased kill as time goes on. ¶ VOLCK also kills Red Spider in all stages of development — the same application controlling both Spider and Scale.

Not only certain but safe

VOLCK makes trees clean and keeps them clean. One application a year is a complete pest control program for most groves.

ATTRACTIONS AT LOCAL THEATERS

Grace Josephine, now playing on the Yost theater vaudeville program.

Leatrice Joy and Edmund Burns in a scene from "Made For Love," picture opening at the Yost theater tomorrow.

Mae Murray in a scene from "The Merry Widow," picture now showing at the West Coast-Walker.

YOST THEATER

In "That's My Baby," his latest hilarious starring vehicle, Douglas MacLean returns to the rollicking, swift-rolling type of situation comedy typified by such past successes as "The Hottentot," "Going Up" and "Introduce Me." A first night audience yesterday at the Yost theater greeted the production with steady and continuous roars of laughter.

Unlike many of the other current farces, "That's My Baby" has the novelty of a series of situations that are refreshingly new. The irrepressible MacLean plays the role of an infatuated young man, who falls in love with a feminine ankle, starts a whirlwind courtship of the ankle's lovely owner, only to find himself suddenly saddled with a strange baby at a time when he needs a baby about as much as he needs smallpox.

Comic complications pile up with increasing rapidity and take an unexpected turn when MacLean gives the girl's father what he thinks is a headache powder but which turns out to be poison.

The life-and-death chase that follows involves automobiles, airplanes, parachutes and a load of hay. If you can imagine MacLean experiencing all the thrills of a daredevil stunt aviator and the driver of a racing auto, while still encumbered with the baby, you'll have a faint idea of the hysterical fun generated by this episode.

PRINCESS THEATER

A whizzing melodrama of the open West, with , roaring comedy warm sentiment and romance and more unusual thrills than are ordinarily seen in this ever-popular type of entertainment is "Born to Battle," which comes to the Princess theater tomorrow. Tom Tyler, burly western star and his band of funmakers. The latter group include, besides Tom, Frankie Darro, the kid; his pony and the dog, "Sitting Bull," so named because of his penchant for sitting down.

The story, by William E. Wing, is far off the beaten path of the dyed-in-the-wool western story. In one of the big scenes, for example, an effort is made to kidnap the hero and fling him aboard a vessel moored to a pier. Tom escapes, however, falls into the water, grabs a floating board and finally brings up, dripping but happily embarrassed, before a young ladies' school located on the river bank!

WEST COAST-WALKER.

For that ingratiating combination of cleanliness, vigor, speed and the elements of comedy, romance and down-to-the-ground drama one must award the palm to Fred Thomson.

Thomson's latest Western drama "Hands Across the Border" was revealed for the first time yesterday at the West Coast-Walker where its meaty melodramatic narrative gripped capacity audiences at all performances.

Thomson has dedicated his career to clean motion pictures. Each production is carefully analyzed before the cameras grind. It goes through a meticulous process of editing. Suggestive scenes are ruthlessly cut out. Censorable passages are also pruned. The entire story is thoroughly laundered.

"Hands Across the Border" is a vigorous story of the adventures of a youth raised in the East amid luxurious surroundings of smart country clubs and drawing rooms. He goes West on a mission for his father and fights his way through to triumph against overwhelming odds, thereby proving conclusively that a youth reared in luxury need not be weak and snobbish.

WEST END THEATER.

A mirthquake is on its way to the West End theater. It is "Rainbow Riley," the latest starring vehicle of Johnny Hines. An interesting act in connection with this picture is that, as a play under the title "The Cub," is served as the last legitimate stage piece of Douglas Fairbanks prior to his entering pictures.

Those who have already seen "Rainbow Riley" state that Johnny is at his best in this tale of a cub reporter who is sent to the Kentucky mountains to report a feud. Arriving there, he is immediately immersed into a barrel of trouble, and it takes all his ingenuity to get out with his skin whole. This vehicle is reported to be made to order for the likable Hines and to those who enjoy speed, laughs and thrills in their motion picture fare. "Rainbow Riley" comes to the West End theater highly recommended.

YOST THEATER

Father Time doesn't carry much weight in the movies. Ages pass, with the accompanying destruction and decay of empires, the rise of other monarchies, and subsequently the fall of these and the rise of still others. Yet, even though time may mean the development of an altogether different civilization, the motion picture industry, in general, is undismayed by the passage of eons. To make his great picture, "The Ten Commandments," Cecil B. De Mille needed to bring to the screen the atmosphere of the Exodus, and he did so by means of gigantic sets duplicating the edifices of Moses' time.

Recently a similar problem faced Paul Sloane director of "Made for Love," in which Leatrice Joy stars. The plot centers around the adventures of a young American wife in Egypt in the Valley of the Tombs. One of the biggest scenes in the picture is a cut-back from the present day to that of the Pharaohs, a sequence which requires exact replicas of the ancient Pharaonic palaces. Stopping at nothing in order to make his setting exact, Director Sloane had two castles constructed at a desert location which are Brobdignagian in proportion, and lavish to an extreme in decoration.

"Made For Love," which opens tomorrow at the Yost theater, features besides Miss Joy, Edmund Burns, Ethel Wales and Bertram Grassby. The picture has decidedly scored a hit because of its beauty and charm.

WEST COAST-WALKER.

Mae Murray returns to France, a favorite scene for her colorful adventures in "The Masked Bride," her first picture since the sensational success she scored in "The Merry Widow," and which begins tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater.

It is a colorful adventure story laid in Paris and the Montmartre, with Miss Murray, as a French dancer, enmeshed in a strange Apache plot. The picture was directed on a lavish scale at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios by Christy Cabanne.

Miss Murray stages a series of sensational dances in the gorgeous cafe scenes of the picture, and wears a glittering array of beautiful, and sometimes daring, gowns. One remrakable scene shows the dancer disrobing, apparently, under a huge gauze bell—but when this is removed—there is a big surprise in store for the audience

Francis X. Bushman plays the leading role, and a big cast surrounds the star, including Roy D'Arcy, Basil Rathbone, Pauline Neff, Chester Conklin, Karl Dane and other standard players.

NEW JURY PANEL DRAWN BY JUDGE

The names of 40 men and women, who will constitute the new panel of superior court jurors, were drawn by Superior Judge H. G. Ames yesterday and the jurors summoned to report for duty in his court June 2, at 10 a. m.

At the time of drawing yesterday, Judge Ames excused and discharged the retiring panel, which has served for the last three months.

ORDER BUTLER TAKE POST AT SAN FRANCISCO

SAN DIEGO, May 29.—Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commander of the marine base here, has received a radio message through the 11th naval district detailing him to San Francisco for temporary duty as acting commander of the marine department of the Pacific.

The radio directed him to report to San Francisco Monday, May 31, and explained that the official orders were being mailed to him. On receiving the radio, Butler requested a delay in reporting until June 2, because of the Decoration day parade in San Diego, May 31.

At San Francisco, Butler will temporarily relieve Maj. Gen. Wendell C. Neville, who is detailed to Washington for a month to serve on the marine selecting board. During Butler's absence, the San Diego marine base will be in charge of Lt. Col. W. H. Pritchett.

Col. Alexander Williams, transferred to take charge of the recruiting department of the Pacific, with offices in San Francisco, following his loss of three points on being found guilty of intoxicatioin charges filed by Butler, will arrive in San Francisco about a week before Butler's duty there is completed.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES IN HOME HERE

Alfred N. Gardner, 83, a soldier for the union in the civil war and a member of Sedgwick post, No. 17, G. A. R., died in his home, 340 West Nineteenth street, yesterday.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Smith and Tuthill funeral parlors at 3:30 this afternoon, with burial in Fairhaven cemetery. Sedgwick post will hold special services at the grave.

Mr. Gardner was a native of Ohio, moving to California six years ago, when he settled in Santa Ana.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sarah G. Gardner, and one son, Raymond G. Gardner, of Santa Ana.

Junior Chamber Is Victorious In Member Campaign

The senior division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will have to provide several hundred members of the junior division, all of them heavy eaters, with a meal as the result of losing the membership drive, recently conducted by the two divisions.

The junior division secured 93 of the total of 118 new members, according to Secretary George Raymer, and by doing so won the turkey dinner with trimmings, or whatever it is the senior division provides.

"This certainly shows that the junior division is composed of enthusiastic young men," he declared.

The drive will continue until next week, but the contest was concluded today.

Expect Record Crowd at Balboa

BALBOA, May 29.A record-breaking crowd is expected at Balboa tomorrow, when several interesting events are scheduled.

The day's program will open at 10 o'clock, when memorial services will be held near the Balboa pier. School children will scatter flowers on the ocean and following this, talks wil be given by war veterans, L. H. Young, Civil war; Lew H. Wallace, Spanish-American war, and C. O. Robins, World war. The Rev. Ralston will talk.

PLAN SPECIAL CELEBRATION FOR COUNTY YOUNG PEOPLE AT NEWPORT BEACH JUNE 1

The following statement, issued today by the Orange County Harbor committee, concerns plans for the entertainment of Orange county young people at Newport Harbor, on which it is proposed to spend $1,200,000 for jetty construction, dredging and dock building, provided the issuance of bonds to that amount is approved by the voters of the county at the special harbor bond election, to be held June 10:

"'June 2 for juniors first,' is the slogan adopted for the celebration at Orange County Harbor of juniors day. June 1 will be dedicated to the youngsters of Orange county for all time to come, according to plans formulated by the Orange County Harbor committee, and parents are urged to bring all the children to the harbor on that day to nejoy, free of charge, all the launch rides, bathing and other delights they can absorb. Schools of Orange county are requested to provide an escort for scholars whose parents are unable to accompany them. Beautiful Junior club buttons will be provided for every youngster, and every effort will be made to cause Orange county's future rulers to look back upon this June 1 as the banner day of their young lives.

"'An Early History of Newport bay' has been published by the Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and copies of this interesting and instructive work will also be distributed to the children. This is considered of major importance as an educational feature to the youth of Orange county, treating as it does of the development of our seaport from the time of Cabrillo to the present day, and it is compiled so simply and entertaingly that the rising generation wil labsorb its lesson with interest. J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of Santa Ana public schools, in a letter requesting copies of the work says, in part:

"'This is indeed a very interesting story of our county and Newport bay developments. I would like very much to have copies for our two junior high schools and senior high school. We could use this matter very nicely in our history and geography work.'

"Orange County Waterfront park, although undeveloped as yet, will present a feature of wonderful interest to the young folk. They will see this beautifully situated parcel of county property in its rugged state, and in the years to come will watch its development into one of California's scenic beauty spots, and will have for it a more personal proprietary interest through having developed with it."

J. C. Directors Not to Meet Monday Noon

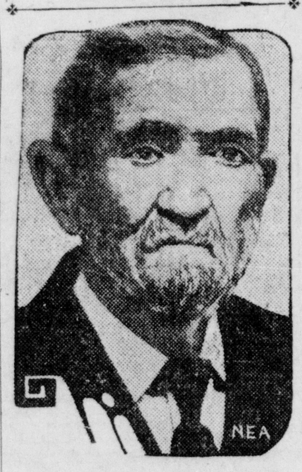

There will be no meeting of the directors of the junior division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce Monday noon. This announcement was made today by President Mason Yould, who pointed out that many of the directors would find it inconvenient to attend the meeting at noon on the holiday, and that any business to be transacted might be taken up at the special harbor bond session of the organization, to be held Monday evening, in Ketner's cafe, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Charles W. Keeler, 93, of Danville, Ill., contradicts reports that the last member of John Brown's gang died in Kansas recently by declaring that he himself fought under Brown's banner in Kansas in 1855 and later. He served in the Union army during the Civil war.

Capital Letter

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, is ending this session of congress more in the limelight, perhaps, than he expected, as a result of the hullabaloo over the introduction of the name of Coolidge into the committee hearings on Sol's bill to regulate fortune telling in the District of Columbia.

The "presidential spokesman" denied testimony that the Coolidges believe in spiritualism and have seances right in the White House, but that hasn't quieted the row, because the statement was also made that "most senators" are spiritualists, too.

If this is true, the question naturally arises, "How much does spiritualism have to say about the laws we live under?" It isn't so very nice to think about being governed by ghosts.

However, "it isn't true," says Sol, wtih a contemptuous snort. "Here's what happens," he continued. "You can call on one of these fortune tellers and right in the middle of the conversation the fortune teller says, 'Excuse me a minute,' and calls up on a telephone—calls up a confederate, of course—and pretends to discuss an appointment with some senator or representative who wants his fortune told.

"Maybe the darned faker even professes to be talking with the White House.

"It's all to impress the visitor.

"That's how these stories get started. Bah!"

"I've no quarrel," the congressman went on, "with people who believe human beings can communicate wtih the dead. That's a form of religion.

"But when a fortune teller—a medium or any otherk ind—begins making predictions for the future and advising you how to invest your money or what horse to bet on, look out.

"Then again, when people are unhappy or in trouble they're credulous. The fortune tellers take advantage of them—and, if possible, their last cent."

Sol Bloom has had quite a career.

He's been a newspaper man. He's been in the theatrical business. He's published oodles of music. He created the Midway Plaisance at the Chicago World's fair. He's been in the talking machine industry. Today he's in real estate, and a builder, especially of theaters.

And he's a congressman.

Sol's an odd mixture of the self-made and pretty highly polished types.

What he accomplished he accomplished all by himself, but his contacts evidently have been largely with artistic people, and he's traveled a great deal at home and abroad. His daughter Vera is a clever writer. Basically, her father is rough-hewn but he's been gone over with fine sandpaper on the outside.

He's a sophisticated man of affairs and he has a streak of naivete at the same time.

Throughout the United States there is a retail store for every 26 families.

During the first four months of this year 179 persons were killed and 6613 injured in motor accidents in Greater London.

WEST SHORE GUN CLUB FINED $300

The West Shore Gun club today was ordered by Justice K. E. Morrison to pay a fine of $300 for allowing artesian wells to flow unchecked upon its leased lands in the Alamitos district.

Sentence was pronounced at 10 a. m. The gun club, through Attorney B. Z. McKinney, of Santa Ana, entered an oral appeal from judgment. Arrangements were made for filing the formal writen appeal within 15 days.

In passing sentence upon the gun club, Justice Morrison suspended pronouncement of judgment in the case of William Meade, president of the club and a co-defendant.

The maximum penalty for the offense fastened upon the gun club is said to be a $500 fine.

Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin, who conducted prosecution of the case, associated with his chief, A. P. Nelson, today expressed confidence that the jury verdict of the lower court would be sustained on appeal.

Only questions of fact are involved, Wettlin contends, the law already having been declared constitutional.

Headquarters for Harbor Campaign Established Here

Campaign headquarters for the coming county bond election were established today in the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce offices by the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

George T. Peabody, prominent business man and property owner of Newport Beach, and for a number of year identified with the development of Orange county harbor, will have charge of the campaign offices.

In addition to the general campaign headquarters established here, branch offices will be established in Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea, La Habra, Huntington Beach, Tustin and other centers in the county, it was announced.

The plans for the campaign call for a precinct organization of the entire county, with 1000 volunteer workers to get out the vote, Peabody explained.

Poly Gymnasium to Be Opened with Party

All the joys of an old-fashioned house-raising or house-warming will be shared by friends of Polytechnic high school next Thursday night, June 3, when the new gymnasium of the school will be dedicated with the gayeties attending such affairs in earlier days.

Festive features will include the preparation of a supper box for two by each feminine guest. These will be auctioned off by John Knox, and the partners thus decided, will have supper together. A spelling bee with three or four teams on the floor at once, the victors in each team to be pitted against each other later, will be an exciting feature, while old fashioned fiddling will offer musical features.

A general invitation is issued to all who are interested in the public schools to come and celebrate the opening of the modern new gym. Details of the entertainment are being planned by the P.-T. A. whose members will serve coffee to accompany the box suppers. No admission will be asked as the event is a jollification pure and simple. It will begin at 8 o'clock and a capacity crowd is expected.

Santa Ana Woman's club will have an interesting session Tuesday when it will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Martha Ritchey of East McFadden street. Members planning to take the bus, are instructed to take Bus No. 4, leaving Fourth and Main at 1:30 o'clock, and leave it at the junction of Maybury street and Palm avenue where Mrs. Ritchey will have automobiles awaiting them. Mrs. F. H. Finney in charge of the program, promises to introduce the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, who will speak on "The Effect of Modern Literature on the Home." Roll call will be answered with current events.

Decoration Day

Tomorrow rounds out another year of America's history and we shall pause in our daily routine of business in order to honor those heroes of previous days who so bravely gave of their lives that we might live and enjoy a full freedom. On this day we can do no less than to vow to live as they died—true Americans.

BELIEVE AUTO CLUB MEASURE WOULD DISTURB STATE SYSTEM

Petition for One-Cent Increase in Gasoline Tax Indorsed at Conference

FAIRNESS OF LEVY EXPLAINED AT MEET

Initiative Feared for Possibility of Emphasizing Northern, Southern Lines

Representatives of 40 counties in the state, meeting in San Francisco, recently, to discuss highway financing, expressed the belief that the initiative measure, sponsored by the Automobile Club of Southern California, contained features that would disturb the state taxation system and at the same time create a situation that would emphasize the lines between northern and southern California, according to Norman H. Robotham, of Newport Beach, manager of the Pacific Coast Motor Coach company, who was present at the conference.

Indorsement was given the petition of the State Auto association, proposing an increase of one cent in the gasoline tax rate. Moneys derived from the extra tax would be used exclusively for new high way construction.

Designates Distribution

The Auto Club of Southern California provides in its petition for annual appropriation of $5,000,000 from state funds and designates how it shall be distributed. Roads are grouped in two divisions, primary and secondary, with 75 per cent of the appropriations being spent on the primary highways, half of the apportionment being used on primary roads in the 13 southern counties and the other half on the roads in the 45 counties in the north. It would be necessary to revise the King tax bill, in the opinion of many of the representatives present, should the auto club measure be approved by voters at the fall election.

Commenting on discussions at the conference, and pointing out that the one cent tax would raise approximately $9,000,000 annually, Robotham said:

"The fairness of the gas tax was explained, and it was pointed out that it is more efficient than any other method of taxing, inasmuch as the man who speeds and thereby uses more gasoline and places a greater strain upon the road, likewise pays a greater tax. The same principle holds good for the people who operate trucks and busses on the highways, as they pay a correspondingly higher tax. The fact was brought out that California, which used to lead the nation in highway building, was fast falling behind, and that Nevada was paying more than $30 per capita against our $3 per capita.

Theory Is Questioned

"While all of the states which adjoin California have paved highways leading to the border, California has not one paved road leading to the border line of an American state. The theory of allotting highway funds as the southern club's petition does, on the basis of auto registration, was questioned and the unfairness of the petition, in asking the assignment of general fund monies (which are contributed from all over the state and not on

45-MILE SPEED LIMIT OF NEW YORK PRAISED

"Drive carefully."

That, virtually, is the speed law of New York state, according to D. N. Kelly, who has just returned from a seven weeks' tour of the south and the east.

Kelly says that motorists are urged to "step on" the throttle and get out of the way and that 45 miles an hour is the speed at which most operators drive automobiles. The speed limit there for the pleasure vehicle is 45 miles an hour, he says, while the speed of trucks and other vehicles is limited according to weight.

Trucks, weighing, with load, under 16,000 pounds, may travel 30 miles an hour without fear of being halted by motor officers. Vehicles with weight exceeding 16,000 pounds are limited to 20 miles the hour.

Kelly was particularly impressed with the road direction markings in new Jersey. The main highways are numbered and each is assigned a pant color. Maps are provided motorists showing the highways and the colors to be followed in reaching a given point. The colors are painted on telephone and telegraph poles, and, in some instances, on fences. Kelly said that the signs were easy to follow and that no time was lost by having to halt at points to read a sign. He did not learn details of the road marking system as to how signing is done on secondary roads.

However, the Santa Ana man was in no state where signing was more thorough than in California.

AJAX NOW KNOWN AS NASH LIGHT 6

etaoin shrdlu cmfwyp vbgkqj xz? (

The Nash-built Ajax hereafter will be known as the Nash light six, the Ajax Motors company, a subsidiary of Nash motors, having been entirely absorbed by the parent company, it was announced here today by O. A. Haley, dealer.

The consolidation marks the first anniversary of the Ajax with a production of 25,000 cars.

"Many processes among the various Nash plants being identical, the consolidation of manufacturing operations affords increased production facilities for the Nash light six while this interlacing of manufacturing interests made it advisable for the parent company to absorb its subsidiary," the agent said.

"Announcement of the change in name from Ajax six to Nash light six also marks the greatest five-month period of business in the Nash history. The upward soaring demand during January, February, March, April and May drove the total sales and production to a figure approximately 70 per cent of the total sales for the whole of last year."

TESTIFIES TO EASY RIDING QUALITIES OF GOODYEAR

Miss Josephine Norman, astride tire, is a noted equestrienne, besides being an ardent motorist. She explained to N. LOS ANGELES GOODYEAR TIRE FACTORY IS LARGEST PLANT OF KIND WEST OF AKRON, O.

According to Hubert L. Bown, of the Citrus Tire and Truck company, First and Spurgeon streets, hundreds of Southern California motorists are finding delight in visiting and inspecting the Goodyear Tire company's factory in Los Angeles, the largest tire manufacturing plant west of Akron, O.

WOMEN DECLARED CAPABLE DRIVERS

Various traffic officials have commented recently on the capabilities of the average woman driver. They claim that the average woman driver is superior to the average man driver. Service station and garage owners also say that women motorists are more careful of the cars they drive.

In discussing this matter with local dealers, C. J. Kay, district manager of the Tide Water Oil Sales corporation, states that he learned of some interesting experiences.

"Out here in the west," he said, "especially do we find that women know more about motor cars than men. This has been attributed to a closer study of automobile advertisements and instruction manuals and to woman's natural inquisitive nature. When they bring their cars into service stations and garages for attention, they are not satisfied to do as the men do, leave the cars and call for them when ready. Instead, the average woman will watch proceedings to learn what is wrong and how it is fixed.

In our newspaper advertising, we have for a long time stressed the importance of using the proper grade of Veedol as specified on our motor protection guide."

"The individual who never watched the building of a tire will find it to be an interesting experience, as in the Los Angeles plant it is possible to see the washing and compounding of the rubber and building up of the tire with rubber tread and carcass of cork fabric and to see the manufacture of the cord fabric fro mthe time it leaves the huge bales of cotton until it is spun into Goodyear super-twist cord and woven into fabric," Bowen said.

2500 Persons Employed.

Pointing out that the plant occupies an area of more than 33 acres, the Santa Ana representative said that more than 2500 persons are on the payroll of the big company and that between 7500 and 10,000 tubes are the average daily production.

Tires made in the Los Angeles plant are distributed throughout 12 western states as well as in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. The factory is the largest cotton user in the west, the Goodyear textile mills producing yearly between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 pounds of fabric.

Directing attention to the fact that the Goodyear company has introduced the easy-payment plan for the purchase of tires, Bown said that the constant improvements in the rubber compound and in the construction of tires under the Goodyear plan have increased mileage to a point which a few years ago would have been deemed impossible.

Lengthens Tire Life.

"Cord tire construction is probably the greatest feature in lengthening the life of the tires. The long mileage secured from Goodyear tires, due to these up-to-date methods of manufacture, make them decidedly economical," Bown said.

"The employes in the Goodyear factory in Los Angeles are largely family men and 65 per cent of the family men are home owners. The Los Angeles Goodyear factory is said to be one of the largest, if not the largest, factory in the city of Los Angeles and is a part of the huge Goodyear institution, with home offices in Akron, O., which turns out more automobile tires than any other factory in the world."

DECISION GIVEN ON REPAIR LIEN

In the case of Peerless Insurance and Brokerage company v. Dwyer equipment company, a decision which is of importance to the owners of automobiles, as well as to persons making repairs thereon, has just been handed down by the second district court of appeal. Judge Frederick W. Houser wrote the opinion, in which it is held that, in accordance with the provisions of the statute, 20 days must elapse after repairs are completed on an automobile before the repairman may legally proceed to enforce his lien; consequently that the sale of an automobile instigated by a lien-claimant who proceeded to enforce his lien prior to the expiration of 20 days after the completion of repairs on the automobile, conferred no title on the purchaser at such sale.

Report Shows Higher Gas Tax Collection

Gas tax collections for the six months ending April 1 were 20 per cent higher than for the same period last year, it was revealed by a report, submitted by the state highway commission. Funds allotted to the commission from gasoline tax totaled $3,691,800, the report said.

OVERLAND AND WILLYS AGENCY HAS NEW HOME

Ray Schanhals, distributor here for the Overland-Willys line, today moved his agency from 902 North Main street to 517 North Main street, the latter point being the location recently of the used car department of the agency.

Alterations and improvements in the large roo mat 517 North Main have been in progress for a few days and will be completed in time for Schanhals to open in his new location on Tuesday.

Office and stock rooms are being rearranged and enlarged, with provision being made for the stock rooms in two sections, on the ground floor and on the mezzanine floor.

Skylights are being placed for the purpose of flooding the garage with light, a feature that will make for better operation of the plant.

New equipment will be added in the repair shop and other additions are being made that will make it possible for Schanhals to offer his patrons quick, efficient and satisfying service.

Schanhals today pointed out that he is making the change in order to have his business nearer the downtown business district and stressed the point that business with him his been going strong for months. Indicating that business has been active in the matter of sales of used cars, the agent said that in the last month he had sold 22 used cars in the location which after today will be the home of his new and sued car operations.

S. A. CHEVROLET AGENT PLEASED WITH BUSINESS

B. J. MacMullen today had closed the first year of his operations here as agent for the Chevrolet motor car and declared that the year's business had been highly satisfactory.

At the time MacMullen took over the franchise, the agency was located at the corner of Fifth and Ross streets, but now it is in the May building, on the southeast corner of Sycamore and Second streets.

As an incident of the concluding days of the first year, the agent today recounted that the first Chevrolet sold by him after he became agent was to Charles F. Henry, 1632 East Fourth street, the machine being a coach.

Henry asserts that 10 cents is the sum total of his expenditures for repairs and parts during the year and that his car has averaged 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline and 500 miles to the quart of lubricating oil.

"Performance and low costs on Chevrolets account for the fact that used Chevrolets are hard to buy," MacMullen said.

He further emphasized the point that when a prospective purchaser finds a second-hand Chevrolet he can buy, he usually has to pay nearly the price of a new car.

Home from Salt Lake City Trip

J. C. Kidd and A. W. Kidd were home today from a round trip drive to Salt Lake City with a 1924 Oakland touring car, with a record of driving the 1576 miles in 49 hours, or an average of 32.2 miles an hour.

The gasoline consumption was an average of one gallon to every 25 miles, while only two quarts of oil were used on the trip. The men told George Ball, sales manager for the Cadillac garage, Oakland distributor here, that no water was placed in the radiator during the round trip drive. No mechanical trouble was had.

The roads were good, except in a few places and on the Mojave desert.

April Shipments Of Auburn Grow

Shipments by the Auburn Automobile company for April, 1926, according to information by E. L. Cord, president of the company, were three times greater than shipments for April, 1925, in spite of the fact that production was badly delayed several times during the month, due to inability to get material in to the Auburn factory fast enough to keep the two production lines going.

DEISEL ENGINE IN AUTOMOBILE IS PREDICTED BY ADVOCATES

Experts Declare Cheaper Fuel and Better Mileage Would Be Possible

CHANGE IS PLANNED BY MANUFACTURERS

Too Much Money Invested In Equipment to Introduce Motor at Present

HORACE FINE
Automobile Editor Register

Motor fuel at five cents a gallon, an average of 50 miles to the gallon of fuel—these are possibilities with the development of Diesel-driven automobiles, in the opinion of O. E. Jorgensen and L. H. Morrison, two of the most prominent Deisel engineers in the United States.

They also assert that, within 10 years, Deisel-driven automobiles will be as common as the gasoline car was in 1910.

They claim that the Deisel motor will:

Operate 60 to 80 per cent cheaper than the present type.

Reduce fuel costs from 20 cents to five cents a gallon.

That instead of running 17 miles on a gallon of gasoline, the new car will go 50 miles on a gallon.

More Powerful Engines

Engines will be many times more powerful than the present gasoline type and will give the motorist less trouble.

The promise of Diesel auto engines is all the more remarkable considering the fact that auto engineers generally contend the Diesel can't operate in the small size and at the high speed required in passenger cars.

But there are Diesel driven tractors and busses in use. And the Diesel proponents say it's only another step to passenger cars.

"The modern motor car engine, developing 45 horsepower and running as it ordinarily does, is only 5 per cent efficient," says Morrison. "The high speed of around 3000 revolutions a minute in motor cars was only made to get more horsepower per pound of cast iron in the engine.

"The Diesel engineer has gone much further in his field than the motor car engineer. The Diesel will run more smoothly at slower speeds than the automobile engine. It will run five-cent oil instead of 20-cent gasoline. It has no carburetion problems. There are no spark plugs or ignition complications."

Jorgensen says that, under certain methods of construction, 2000 horsepower for each cylinder is not impossible.

Much Money Invested

The reason for the slowness of manufacturers to adopt the Diesel engine, it's said, is that there's too much money invested in present equipment—the machinery that turns out the gasoline motor.

"But the change to the Diesel is bound to come," say Diesel advocates. Already, they're planning for a big output, first for tractors, trucks and busses, and later for passenger cars, in this country.

"Busses in Germany are being run by Diesel engines at less than a cent a mile," says Morrison. "They are being successfully operated on tar oil from the distillation of coal.

"Already there are two plants in the United States ready to manufacture tar oil from coal.

Dream Days!

¶ In the dear, dead days before inventors tied up with a "little down" on the wash machine; when redbeets flushed milady's wan cheek; when a hoss and buggy gave the ride; when bed cords were springs and sacks of rye straw were mattresses—in those days we worried along on 16 hours of work per diem.

¶ Good old iron tires, bound every wheel . . . and we'd like to go on and tell more.

¶ But there's a fellow getting impatient for a tire. He thinks we're writing a love letter, and it's against our policy to try to put anything over but what's right. So this ad must ride along as it is. We need the money, especially when we can get it by selling a tire. There's satisfaction all around (and often) when we do that stunt, we'll guarantee it.

HAPPY SANTA ANA COUPLE HAS NEW MOTOR CAR FOR GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Willys-Knight six five-passenger sedan and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dilley, 121 North McClay street, who will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at Long Beach tomorrow. The car has just been purchased by Dilley from Ray Schanhals, dealer, and will be driven by the couple to the beach city tomorrow.

ALLEGED LOVE THEFT BATTLE LOST BY WIFE

Mrs. Joe Haggerty, wife of the handsome leading man of a stock company which played in Santa Ana several months ago, has lost her suit against Mrs. Millie Hart and her husband, Lloyd Hart, for $50,000 for alienation of the affections of her actor husband.

Upholding the motion of Attorney F. A. Knight for a non-suit, Judge Walter S. Gates, of the Long Beach division of the Los Angeles county superior court, threw out the suit after two days of testimony-taking, by which Mrs. Haggerty intended to show that Haggerty's love for her had been alienated by the winsome show lady.

When Judge Gates rendered his decision, after Attorney Knight had argued that no evidence had been offered upon which to base an alienation of affection action, friends of Mrs. Hart leaped to their feet gleefully. They surrounded Knight and congratulated him upon his victory as Hobson was congratulated for the blocking of Santiago Bay.

Mrs. Althea Lewis, mother of Mrs. Haggerty, on cross-examination yesterday afternoon said she would like to "lick Lloyd Hart." When Knight asked whether she had any love for the defendants, Mrs. Lewis countered the question by a question, asking. "Would you?"

This sally threw the courtroom, which was crowded mostly by women, into laughter. Bailiff Brenneman had to rap repeatedly for order.

When question about the alleged horsewhipping of a woman by Mrs. Haggerty in San Bernardino, in 1923, Mrs. Lewis said she thought any woman "hanging around a man night and day" deserved a horsewhipping.

In relating how Mrs. Haggerty had found a picture of Mrs. Hart under a seat in the Haggerty auto, Knight asked:

"Did Mrs. Haggerty look for more pictures?"

"No," the witness retorted. "She had found enough."

Mrs. Elsie Hunter, of Los Angeles, a sister of Mrs Haggerty, told of an alleged admission by Haggerty of his love for Mrs. Hart.

In his argument for a non-suit Knight arraigned Mrs. Haggerty as a woman whose jealousy had caused the rift in her marital happiness, rather than any act of alienation by Mrs. Hart. He argued that the plaintiff had shown no improper conduct between Mrs. Hart and Haggerty. Judge Gates concurred.

"It seems to me from the evidence presented in behalf of the plaintiff that no case has been made out," the court said.

The case created more interest than any case hitherto tried in the Long Beach branch of the court. Throughout the two days of evidence the courtroom was packed by an eager crowd of men and women.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Dilley to Observe 50th Anniversary in Long Beach

Possessed of a new model of the car "that improves with age," Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Dilley, 121 North McClay street, today were happily engaged with plans for celebrating, at Bixby park, Long Beach, tomorrow, the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

The new car is a Willys-Knight six sedan, and delivery was made yesterday by Ray Schanhals, dealer, through J. E. Dilley, son of the celebrating couple, and who is a member of the Schanhals sales force.

It is expected 50 relatives and friends will gather at the Long Beach park tomorrow to offer their congratulations and to extend best wishes for many more annual observances of the wedding date. Present in the group will be Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Custer, of Long Beach, who were married just one year before Mr. and Mrs. Dilley. Mr. Dilley and Mrs. Custer are brother and sister.

Sons and daughters scheduled to be present with their families are J. E., W. T. and Walter Dilley, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Elsie Shore, of Tulare. Guy Dilley, residing in Kansas, will not be here.

Mr. Dilley is 70 years of age and Mrs. Dilley is 66, and they were married at York, Neb., May 28, 1876, centennial year. They came to this vicinity 36 years ago, locating first in the Bolsa-Huntington Beach district, where Mr. Dilley engaged in farming until three years ago, when he sold his farm properties and moved to Santa Ana.

Both are enjoying good health, and today were looking forward with keen interest to a motor trip to the beach city in their new sedan to meet friends and relatives.

"I authorized delivery of the sedan to the happy couple with considerable pride, because the love between them that has strengthened in their 50 years of wedded life is symbolic of the demonstrated qualities that the Willys-Knight improves with age," Schanhals said.

FORMER SANTA ANA TEACHER SUCCUMBS

Word was received here today of the death of Mrs. De Grace Hahn, former Santa Ana teacher and wife of J. M. Hahn, proprietor of a teachers' agency in Berkeley. Her death occurred May 21 in the family home, 527 San Luis road. Death followed a paralytic stroke from which Mrs. Hahn had suffered for more than a year.

She was a native of Ohio and was 49 years of age at the time of death. Before her marriage, she was connected with the Santa Ana city schools for seven years, later transferring to Lemoore, in Kings county, where she taught for tyo years. For the last 15 years, Mrs. Hahn had resided in Berkeley. She took a prominent part in P.-T. A. work, serving on different committees. She was a member of the First Baptist church, Berkeley.

Surviving her are her husband, J. M. Hahn, and two children, De Vere Hahn and Sarah Josephine Hahn.

LOS ANGELES MAN IN 'SPEED' CELL

R. A. Estey, 21, real estate salesman of 665 Woods avenue, Los Angeles, entered the Orange county jail last night to start serving a five-day jail sentence, following a plea of guilty, which he entered in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday, when arraigned on several traffic charges.

Estey was arrested on May 9, on the state highway near Serra, by State officer aPt Hurd, who charged him with speeding 50 miles an hour, driving without headlights, reckless driving and passing another machine on a hill.

Although there were only eight motorists in "speeders court" yesterday morning, when the roll was called, Justice Morrison's books show that throughout the day, yesterday, 23 motorists paid fines, totaling $475.

The Greatest Success In Its History

The buying habits of American motorists are undergoing a profound change and reaching up to something better. The new thousands who are aligning themselves with the old Cadillac army are symptomatic of a general disposition to seek and find quality which is sound and assured. ¶ A new triumph is being spontaneously accorded to the time-proven Cadillac principle of manufacturing—hold fast to that which is good and strive constantly for the very best attainable. ¶ The effort to supplant Cadillac in public confidence has dwindled steadily through the years—Now Cadillac finds itself almost alone in its own fine field with new thousands flocking to the Cadillac standard.

STUTZ CLOSED CAR WINNER OF SWEEPSTAKES

Climbing rough heavy mountain grades and rolling over smooth stretches of concrete boulevards for a total distance of 360 miles, a Stutz vertical eight five-passenger sedan won the closed car sweepstakes in the 1926 Yosemite economy run, according to Harvey Traveller, sales manager for the Reo and Stutz Sales and Service company here. Harvey says the Stutz used no oil and only one pint of water. In the sweepstakes, the Stutz had a ton mileage record of 46.59.

"The Stutz, in accordance with the contest rules was a strictly stock model, five-passenger sedan, fully equipped, just as it came from the factory, no mechanical changes being permitted except carburetor adjustments," Traveller said.

"Two carburetor adjustments were permitted daily or four in all, because of the varying altitudes on the trip. However, the Stutz did not make use of these, but went the entire distance without the carburetor being touched."

BUSINESS COLLEGE ALUMNI ORGANIZE

A throng of present and former students of Orange County Business college held a "get-together" party last night in the college rooms and were welcomed by the manager, H. C. Rutledge.

An address by R. L. Bisby, founder of the college 34 years ago, was a feature of the gathering. George Buchanan sang. M. Brandon, a new member of the faculty, told of his plans for assisting the school. Piano duets were played by Miss Mildred Breiji and Miss Clara Paulis. Mrs. Porter also gave an address. Mr. Symmes, school principal, entertained with a reading.

Refreshments were served and games enjoyed.

An alumni organization was perfected and the following officers were elected;

President, John Page; vice president, Marcia Babbitt; secretary, Catherine Adams; treasurer, Burton Harmer.

Special honor guests of the evening were Mrs. H. C. Rutledge, Miss Elizabeth Rutledge, L. C. Rutledge, Mrs. A. N. Symmes, Mrs. Halstead, Mrs. McCormac, Isabell McCormac, Halstead McCormac and Mrs. Porter.

Among those present, were the following students and faculty members:

Workers Would Be Required to Live In Mexico

SAN DIEGO, May 28.—A new Mexican law, compelling all persons employed on the other side of the line to live there, is sought by Abelardo Rodriguez, governor of Lower California, according to announcement.

Such an order at Tia Juana would affect about 150 workers. Many of these would be heads of families.

The Mexican department of the interior would have to act on Governor Rodriguez's recommendations before they could be made effective.

Pontiac Mileage Averages 22.32

Hot on the heels of its sensational record-making speed run from El Paso to Los Angeles, the Pontiac six entered the Yosemite economy run and established an average of 22.32 miles per gallon of gasoline, according to tentative figures furnished by officials in the contest.

"We have no alibis and no excuses to offer," says Otto Haan, of the Cadillac garage, Santa Ana, Pontiac dealer. "The Pontiac failed to win a cup in the Yosemite economy run, but the showing made by this newcomer is gratifying to us.

"Its average of 22.32 miles per gallon of gasoline is the same that the average owner could obtain with a privately owned car under the same weather and driving conditions."

FAVOR GAINED BY MOTOR CARS IN OPEN CLASS

The past year has seen a marked revival of interest in open motor cars selling above $1000, according to Harry Riley, county distributor for the Studebaker. This, he declares, has been evidenced by the increased demand for roadsters, and also by the innovations in open car bodies, such as the Studebaker Duplex, with its roller curtains, which make it a closed or open car at all seasons of the year.

Riley pointed out that manufacturers had been devoting themselves very largely to improving closed car bodies until a year ago, when Studebaker introduced its innovation in open models.

"It is significant," Riley said, "that Duplex sales for 1925 comprised approximately 50 per cent of all open cars in the Studebaker price class. This is due to the double convenience of the Duplex body, providing the airiness of an open car or the protection of a closed car in half a minute, and to the safety of this body.

"While efforts have been made to produce folding tops of such nature as to provide, when in place, the comfort of a closed body, the cumbersomeness of the folding top cannot be disguised an dit appears that the Studebaker type of open car body will have clear field for the coming year."

GIRL FINED $35 ON SPEED CHARGE

Loriane Brown, 26, Los Angeles girl, arrested on North Main street yesterday morning by F. G. Yoder, state officer, was fined $35 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday afternoon, on a charge of speeding 45 miles an hour in a 20-mile zone.

Miss Brown was lodged in jail when she was unable to satisfy the arresting officer as to her correct residential address.

She will remain in jail, Justice Morrison said, until the fine is paid.

Manufacturer of $10 Bills Gets Prison Sentence

Roberto Roche, 22, arrested here several weeks ago by sheriff's officers, together with operators for the secret service, yesterday was found guilty of raising $1 bills to $10 bills and sentenced to San Quentin for a period of two years.

His trial was held in federal court in Los Angeles.

Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy, returned here last night, after being a witness against Roche, yesterday. McClellan aided in making the arrest of the man.

NASH

Light Six

Important!

The phenomenal success of the Ajax Six and the great size the business has attained in less than a year, with well over $27,000,000 worth of cars already shipped, has made advisable a closer consolidation of Nash and Ajax manufacturing operations.

With this in view the Ajax Motors Company, till now a subsidiary of The Nash Motors Company, has been entirely absorbed by the parent Company.

And in accordance with this procedure the name of the product, Ajax Six, is herewith changed to Nash Light Six.

So that Nash models are now available in 3 Series—differing as to wheelbase but identical in their high standards of workmanship—

—the NEW Light Six series (formerly the Ajax Six); the Special Six series; and Advanced Six series;—embracing 16 different models with a price range from $865 to $2090 f. o. b. factory.

This announcement of the change in name from Ajax Six to Nash Light Six also marks the greatest five month period of business in Nash history.

The upward soaring demand during January, February, March, April and May drove total sales and production to a figure approximating 70% of the total sales for the whole of last year.

PLAY AUTHOR PAYS TRIBUTE TO SPANIARDS

FULLERTON, May 29.—An interesting program took place Thursday night in the Fullerton union high school auditorium, when the days of the Spanish settlers in this district were recalled by some of the pioneers. Spanish music and dancing added atmosphere to the affair.

The program began with a baritone solo by Dr. W. H. Wildman, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Wildman. Spanish dances followed by a group of Claire Coutant's pupils, who included Miss Dorothea Keller, Miss Eleanora Copp, Miss Betty Onson, Miss Eunice Pringle and Miss Charlotte Caldwell.

One of the two founders of Fullerton, George H. Amerige, had prepared a history of the early days of Fullerton. The report gave much information regarding the experiences of the pioneers in this district. The account was read by the Rev. W. T. Wright, pastor of the First Methodist church in Fullerton.

Mrs. Emma J. Seamans, of Atwood, contributed two piano solos. Mrs. J. J. McFarley, of Fullerton, sang the Spanish favorite, "La Golondrino." She was accompanied on the piano by Miss Valencia Ruiz.

The noted writer and author of the Mission Play, John Steven McGroarty, was the main speaker of the evening. He paid a tribute to the mission fathers and stated that in all history, probably no crusaders suffered more than the Franciscan fathers, who started the missions in California. Mr. McGroarty told of the culture of the early Spanish families who settled here, their type of hospitality which could not be surpassed and the gayety and happiness which existed in their settlements.

Referring to the purpose of the entertainment, which was given as a benefit for the community building fund the town of Atwood, Mr. McGroarty stated that there was a great need all over the country for great need all over the country for Americanization workers, and since America does not have any place for anyone but Americans, it is up to citizens to Americanize the aliens who come here.

There were several other dance numbers after the address. The chairman was H. F. Taylor.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, May 29.—The Happy Workers met Wednesday for their regular all day meeting in the church hall. The dinner, prepared by Mrs. W. B. McCoy's committee, was delicious and about 120 people were served.

Two Hurt When Hit By Machine

ANAHEIM, May 29.—Paul Weaver, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ole B. Weaver, of 120 South Bush street, this city, sustained a broken leg, and his cousin, Monia Weaver, five-year-old daughter of Mrs. Flora Weaver, 911 East Center street, also of this city, received a scalp wound, when they were struck by an auto driven by Mrs. Juanita Beedles, of Buena Park, late Thursday afternoon, it was reported here today.

The accident occurred on West Orangethorpe avenue near the home of Mrs. R. I. Lovering, where the children were visiting. The youngsters attempted, it is said, to cross the highway running directly in front of the oncoming car.

The children were given medical attention at the Johnston-Wickett clinic, this city, and later removed to their homes.

'LIGHTNIN' IS WELL ATTENDED

ORANGE, May 29.—Pronounced an unqualified success by those who attended the performance, the benefit play, "Lightnin,", which was given by the students and faculty of the Orange union high school in the high school auditorium played to a full house last night.

The portrayal of the title role, Lightnin' Bill Jones, by Frederick Carrier, instructor of dramatics in the school, was especially noteworthy. Among the feminine leads, Miss Genevieve Conger, as the wife of Lightnin' Bill, and Miss Gelsimina Brown, in the role of Mrs. Margaret Davis, carried their parts with great credit. Student leades doing good work in the production were Val Jean McCoy, as John Marvin, and Mary Ann Watson portraying Mrs. Harper.

A special feature of the occasion was the distribution of the school annual, the Orange and White.

Lightning' Bill Jones, F. L. Carrier; John Marvin, Val Jean McCoy; Raymond Thomas, R. M. Warren; Lemuel Townsend, W. J. WESTMINSTER PLAY ATTRACTS RECORD CROWD

WESTMINSTER, May 29.—Eighteen students, comprising the largest class ever graduating from the local grammar school, received their diplomas Thursday night in the presence of about 600 people, a record crowd.

B. F. Beswick gave the invocation and presented the diplomas. The class will was read by Elizabeth LaTouche, the honor student. Mrs. Jennie W. Taylor spoke a few words of farewell to the class, and presented each member with a pretty friendship bok.

Diplomas were received by Olive Stone, Faye McCall, Fred Happel, Robert Edward, Richard Basse, Adeline Peterson, Elizabeth LaTouche, RueCeil Whitcomb, Mary Moog, Bogel Loftis, Ruth Goble, Ruth Melvin, Douglass Basse, Marvin Benson, Wallace McCoy, Albertha Knox, Elsie Etone and Gertrude Cyr.

The night was an ideal one for the operetta, "The Posie Bed." Never before has Westminster talent produced such an entertainment and many were the congratulations received by those who so faithfully and carefully trained the children, Mrs. Marjorie Fox, of Santa Ana; Mrs. F. C. Payton, of Fullerton, and Miss Florence Cairns, musical director for the district, with Miss Myra Evans, of Clearwater, pianist.

E. L. Stringer was arrayed in royal purple as King Pansy. His gold lined train was carried by four guards, Victor and Edward Rix, William Turpin and Winston Pollard, who was also page. The most unique costumes of all were the brown seeds, represented by Joe De LaVara, Richard DeLaCruz, Richard McGarvin, William Turpin, Albert Moog, William Schmidt, Nelson Morgan, Harold Hauptman and Frank Cyr.

Cunning sunbonnet babies were Lucille Schieber, Alva West, Vera Stone and Phyllis Day, and they sang as they hoed, raked and watered the garden and planted the seeds.

Sweet Marguerites were Frances Whittlesey, Margaret Edward, Anna and Vivian Weld and Emma Hauptman.

Flitting in and out among the flowers were gauze-winged butterflies, who were Elnora and Eldora Finley, Virginia De La Vara, Henrietta De La Cruz, Elenore McGarvin, Elvira Sapedo, and Taka Shimatsu.

Elizabeth Whitcomb, garbed as Lady Daffodil, the first spring flower, was greeted by Pussy Willow, who, in the personage of Shirley Day gave a beautiful solo dance and song. Lady Daffodil danced with the North Wind, Orel Hare, in a costume most striking.

One of the best costumes was worn by Robert Bould as a sunflower. Robert sang a solo about the majesty of the sun.

Hermine Caignaw was also heard in a solo, as a dandelion. Phyllis Day sang alone in a pretty chorus song.

Little Christine Whitcomb, with her dark eyes and hair, made a beautiful Poppy Lady, and sang a lovely song with perfect composure.

Leisel, the goose girl in peasant costume, was Dorothy Darling and sang twice most pleasingly. James Goble was Timothy Grass, Julia Lerno was a crocus. Ruth West was the modest violet and Nora West was a buttercup.

One of the most picturesque moments of the operetta was when all the flowers joined in a maypole dance.

A beautiful garden song, in which the entire company took part, brought the pretty scene to an end and all players marched in a grand finale down the walk, through the audience, to the accompaniment of hearty applause.

SANTA ANA IN STATE LEAD AS GRETNA GREEN

Santa Ana retains her claims as California's Gretna Green for another year.

This is indicated by a dispatch received from Sacramento, in which L. R. Ross, curator of vital statistics, himself a native of Santa Ana, gives the official figures for marriages at the respective county seats of the state.

Santa Ana, as a friendly haven for elopers ,and sometimes not so friendly, stands out well above the other counties with respect to nuptial knots, with 4530 marriages in 1925, which is another way of saying that 61 persons matrimonially inclined out of every 1000 in this county tripped to the altar of the parson or the justice of the peace last year.

But, aha! And ahum! Mr. Ross must have forgotten that the great majority of the couples patronizing the license counter of one Joseph Backs are not residents of Orange county.

Santa Ana doesn't average a licensea day, while such cities as Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Diego and Watts break into print with the names of candidates for matrimony.

The state average is slightly more than 14 persons per 1000 married each year.

San Mateo, San Francisco's next-door neighbor, ranks next to Santa Ana, in fact it might be said that San Mateo is the Santa Ana of northern California.

But, whereas Santa Ana wins in a walk over the other counties, as far as marriages are concerned, the little matter of the divorce court figures does not put Orange county in the lead.

In fact, the figures show, it was said, that those who like to get married at Santa Ana prefer to become divorced at home. This is largely accounted for by the state law, which is very strict in regard to legal residence of persons suing for divorce.

As for County Clerk Backs, he looks forward to a year of bigger and better marriages.

Court Notes

Sues For Divorce

F. E. Lane, of Santa Ana, has brought suit in superior court for divorce from Jennie E. Lane, his complaint charging desertion. They were married in Gardiner, Me., in 1923, and separated in April, 1924. Attorney J. A. Gardiner, Santa Ana, represents the plaintiff.

Would Divorce Wife

Wilbur Palmer has filed divorce proceedings in superior court against R. Eleanor Palmer, of Santa Ana, charging desertion. They were married at LeRoy, Minn., in 1908, and separated December 31, 1925. Attorney Morris Cain is counsel for the plaintiff.

Wife Alleges Cruelty

The honeymoon of Laura W. Halaby, of Anaheim, ended a week after her marriage to Najeeb Halaby, when he started a course of cruel treatment, according to her suit for divorce, just filed in superior court. She "carried on" for 10 years, however, before they separated. The marriage took place in 1914 and they separated in 1924. They have one child. Attorney T. L. McFadden, Anaheim, represents Mrs. Halaby.

Widow Inherits Estate

Mrs. Grace M. Zaiser seeks probate of the will left by her late husband, Dr. A. C. Zaiser, of Santa Ana, in a petition on file today in superior court. The widow is made sole heir to the $21,000 estate left by Dr. Zaiser. It consists of real estate valued at $16,500 and personal property worth approximately $4500, according to the probate petition.

Suit on Mortgage

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ritchie, represented by Attorneys Allen and Lyon, of Fullerton, have filed an action in superior court against the Robert A. Klein company, of Fullerton, to foreclose a $2500 mortgage against five Fullerton lots.

Foreclosure Is Sought

A suit filed in superior court by Shipkey and Pearson, Inc., of Fullerton, against Anne Schultz and A. J. Schultz, asks foreclosure of a $500 mortgage against Fullerton property.

Husband Asks Divorce

Vester Wheeler, of Fullerton, today had a suit for divorce on file in superior court against Esther Wheeler, whom he charged with desertion and cruelty. They were married in Madison, Ark., in 1915, and separated April 25, this year. Attorney R. E. Haynes represents the plaintiff.

Wants Ring Returned

William L. Waters, of Fullerton, administrator of the estate left by the late Mary E. Turner, today had filed a suit in superior court against J. E. Turner, for recovery of a $750 diamond ring, which Waters alleges belongs to the estate. Attorneys Launer and Collins represent the plaintiff.

To Quiet Title

Maggie Toppins was plaintiff today in a superior court action against H. M. Head, as administrator of the Walter Heaslip estate, to quiet title to property in Fullerton.

DROWNS IN RIVER

HANFORD, Calif., May 29.—William Henry Hames, 47, well known Lemoore rancher, was drowned in a branch of Kings river.

George Head attended a sign craft meeting in Los Angeles Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chaffee and two sons, Walter and John D., visited relatives at Montebello Sunday.

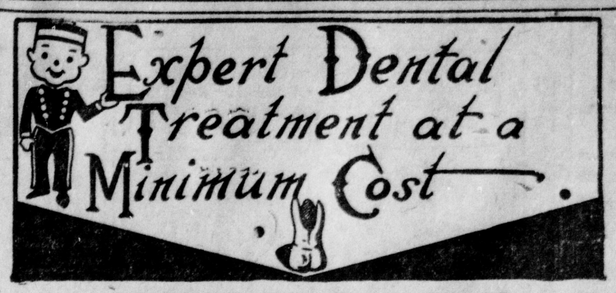

Wife Complains Husband Failed To Do Housework

A matrimonial and professional partnership between Dr. Beatrice Sessions and Dr. Walter Sessions, Fullerton chiropractors, involved a duty upon the husband to do his share of the housework, in the opinion of the wife.

This was indicated today in her complaint for divorce, on file in superior court. She declared that her husband not only failed to support her, but also was derelict in performing his share of the work about the house.

There was an additional charge of cruelty, the plaintiff claiming that her husband sought the society of other women.

The Drs. Sessions were married in Chicago in 1920 and saparted April 1, 1924. Attorneys Allen and Lyon, Fullerton, represent the wife in the divorce proceedings.

HOW TO ANSWER BLIND CLASSIFIED ADS

In answering blind addresses (for instance, L, Box 36, Register, or other similar addresses), please be careful to use the precise address given in the ad. Write address plainly. Letters brought to The Register office do not require stamps. Always inclose your answer in sealed envelope.

T. F. (TILL FORBID) ADS

If an advertiser who has made application for credit and opened an account with The Register Credit department in the regular form desires to have any "liner" advertisement published continuously "until further notice" he may do so by signing a "TF" order to that effect. An advertisement thus begun will appear regularly until countermanded by written order.

BOX OFFICE REPLIES

The Register postoffice department is conducted for the benefit of patrons who wish answers to come to the office. Advertisers are furnished with identification cards which must be presented at The Register office. For the protection of our patrons, replies are not given out except on presentation of box card.

No record is kept of the names and addresses of patrons using The Register postoffice, and therefore no information concerning these advertisers can be supplied.

A charge is made for the words "Box A-234, care The Register."

CALIFORNIA ORANGE MARKET STRONGER

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—(Office of the Fruit World)—The market on California valencia oranges strengthened the latter part of the week although no important price changes have been recorded. Whether this is a forerunner of higher price levels or the result of buying for the approaching holiday on Monday remains to be seen. At any rate, greater activity is being displayed on the part of buyers resulting in a general improvement in the situation.

Supplies on track continue heavier than shippers would like to see, but with every effort being made to reduce shipments, this feature of the situation should right itself before long. No sales on Monday in observance of Decoration day will augment supplies on track and may temporarily disturb the even tendency of the market for a day or two next week.

The continued cool weather throughout the country has not been conducive to the liberal sale of refreshing summer drinks and the sale of orange juice has been slowed down as a result. The early part of the week a hot wave gripped the upper Mississippi valley, but was of short duration and did not pass eastward as at first indicated.

Higher Market

That a higher valencia market is in sight is the consensus of shippers.

Next week's shipments from Central California districts will practically clean up their remaining valencias. Florida valencias soon will be entirely off the market. Florida grapefruit is also rapidly cleaning up and consists mostly of late bloom fruit which is reported as being thicker skinned and not as sweet as the earlier bloom fruit.

Up to and including May 26, Imperial Valley cantaloupe shipments totaled 4407 cars as against 371 cars to the corresponding period last season. This record early movement of cantaloupes has an important bearing on the valencia situation at this time.

The first of the Georgia peach crop began moving to market this week with the shipment of the Mayower variety, the earliest of the Georgia peaches.

The movement of California deciduous fruits is getting well under way. Cherries, apricots, peaches and plums are moving in carload lots.

Taking into consideration the competition from berries, fresh deciduous fruits and melons and the size of the valencia crop this season, prices on good stock valencias are being well maintained.

F. o. b. California quotations are on the following basis on fancy valencias: Sizes 176s and larger, $3.75 to $4.25 per box; 200s to 216s, $3.25 to $3.75; 250s, $3.00 to $3.50; 288s, $2.75 to $3.25; 324s and smaller, $2.50 to $3.00.

Lemons

The market on California lemons is easier in spots. Real summer weather throughout the country is needed to accelerate the demand.

F. o. b. California quotations on extra choice stock are on a basi s of $4.75 per box, with choice fruit at $4.25.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next 30 days approximately 771 cars of foreign lemons. For the corresponding period in 1925 there were 845 cars; 1924, 493 cars and 1923, 857 cars.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, May 29.—Grains closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade being influenced by the dip in wheat.

New May wheat closed sharply lower after a comparatively steady day. The old style and the deferred deliveries were also sharply lower.

Weather reports indicated that the entire northwest received ample rains and that the drought there has been definitely ended.

Cash wheat closed somewhat lower. There was practically no export business reported and little is expected until after the holidays. Corn closed fractionally lower in all positions due to heavy liquidation in May. That position reached the lowest point that prices have touched in the last three years.

May oats was unchanged, but the deferred deliveries were fractionally off, due to the influence of the other pits.

Provisions closed lower.

Theater Manager Has Hands Burned When Rope Slips

Ed Yost, manager of the new Yost Broadway theater, to be opened on June 2, was burned in the palms of both hands early today, when a rope, attached to curtain weights, slipped through his hands.

The weights were too heavy for Yost to Hold and when the weights fell, Yost was unable to keep the rope from slipping.

Yost said that the fact that his hands were in heavy bandages would not keep him from "glad handing" the public on the opening night of the theater, but he would be hindered in writing passes.

Want Flowers to Decorate Graves

A request for flowers, for the purpose of decorating graves of departed comrades on Monday, Memorial day, was made today by the Santa Ana post, American Legion, and its auxiliary.

Persons who have flowers are asked to leave them at the Legion home, on Birch street, sometime this afternoon or tomorrow, when members of the auxiliary will be in the hall, making bouquets.

A request for hundreds of flowers is made, as the post desires that every veteran's grave be decorated with a bouquet, as well as a flag.

LA HABRA MAN GETS 5 YEARS IN COUNTY JAIL

A sentence of five years in the Orange county jail was meted out yesterday to William Noble, when the La Habra man came before Superior Judge H. G. Ames in connection with his conviction of assault with intent to commit murder.

Noble's sentence is the first in the history of the county in which a jail sentence of longer than one year has been imposed, officials said today. The penal code provided that he could be sentenced to San Quentin or the county jail for a term not exceeding 10 years. If he had been sent to San Quentin the exact length of his sentence would rest with the state prison board. By sending him to the county jail, the court had power to determine the length of sentence. In pronouncing judgment, Judge Ames had before him a jury recommendation of leniency.

Noble was convicted in connection with an election riot in La Habra last April 12. He was alleged to have been the leader of a gang that stormed the polling place, where Noble engaged in a struggle with Leo Martin, then city marshal of La Habra. Noble was alleged to have drawn a pistol in the melee.

The choice of prisons for Noble prevents him from joining his brother, Iva Noble, who is serving a term, fixed at not les than 10 years, for second-degree murder in connection with the killing of Grady B. "Indian Jack" Rutherford, during a gambling quarrel in La Habra.

New Yost Theater To Open Doors Wednesday Night

NEW THEATER ON BROADWAY IS ERECTED AT $300,000 COST

Yost Showhouse Sets Pace For Others in Amusement Enterprises to Follow

ARCHITECTURE IS OF RENAISSANCE PERIOD

Building Is Last Word in Construction; Seats for 1200 Persons Provided

The last word in theater designing is represented by the new Yost Broadway theater, erected at a total expenditure of approximately $300,000.

The entire entertainment plant, from top to bottom, stands as a model for others to follow in the realization of plan for a luxurious theatrical enterprise.

The Italian renaissance period has been followed in architecture, fixtures and color scheme.

The grand drape was made in Santa Ana, under the direction of E. M. Fox, of the drapery department of Horton's furniture store. The long sweep of special velour is studded with brilliants that gleam and glisten from the brilliant lights. The lambrequin, which supports the grand drape, is the largest in Southern California, outside Los Angeles, and with the grand drape represents more than 100 yards of material.

140 Yards Orchid Velour

The main curtain contains 140 yards of special orchid velour. Throughout the theater the draperies carry out the Italian renaissance style, atune with the orchid color and lighting scheme.

Six murals in the gallery, three on each side wall, and one over the proscenium, represent the highest type of mural art.

The walls on the lower floor are faced with caenstone of buff and ivory tones. The ceiling under the gallery is of rough texture plaster in orchid and rose tones.

The ceiling upstairs is of rough plaster in blue and gold tones. At the top of the theater are six chandeliers, studded with golden and vari-colored staff work. Three hundred color combinations are made possible through this system of lighting.

The stage is the largest of any theater in Southern California outside Los Angeles. It is 60 feet long and 30 feet deep from the curtain line to the wall. The proscenium arch opening is 32 feet wide. From the door of the stage to the grid loft in the top of the theater is 56 feet.

62 Sets of Lights

The theater is equipped with 62 sets of scenery and border lights. All scenery lights are controlled automatically.

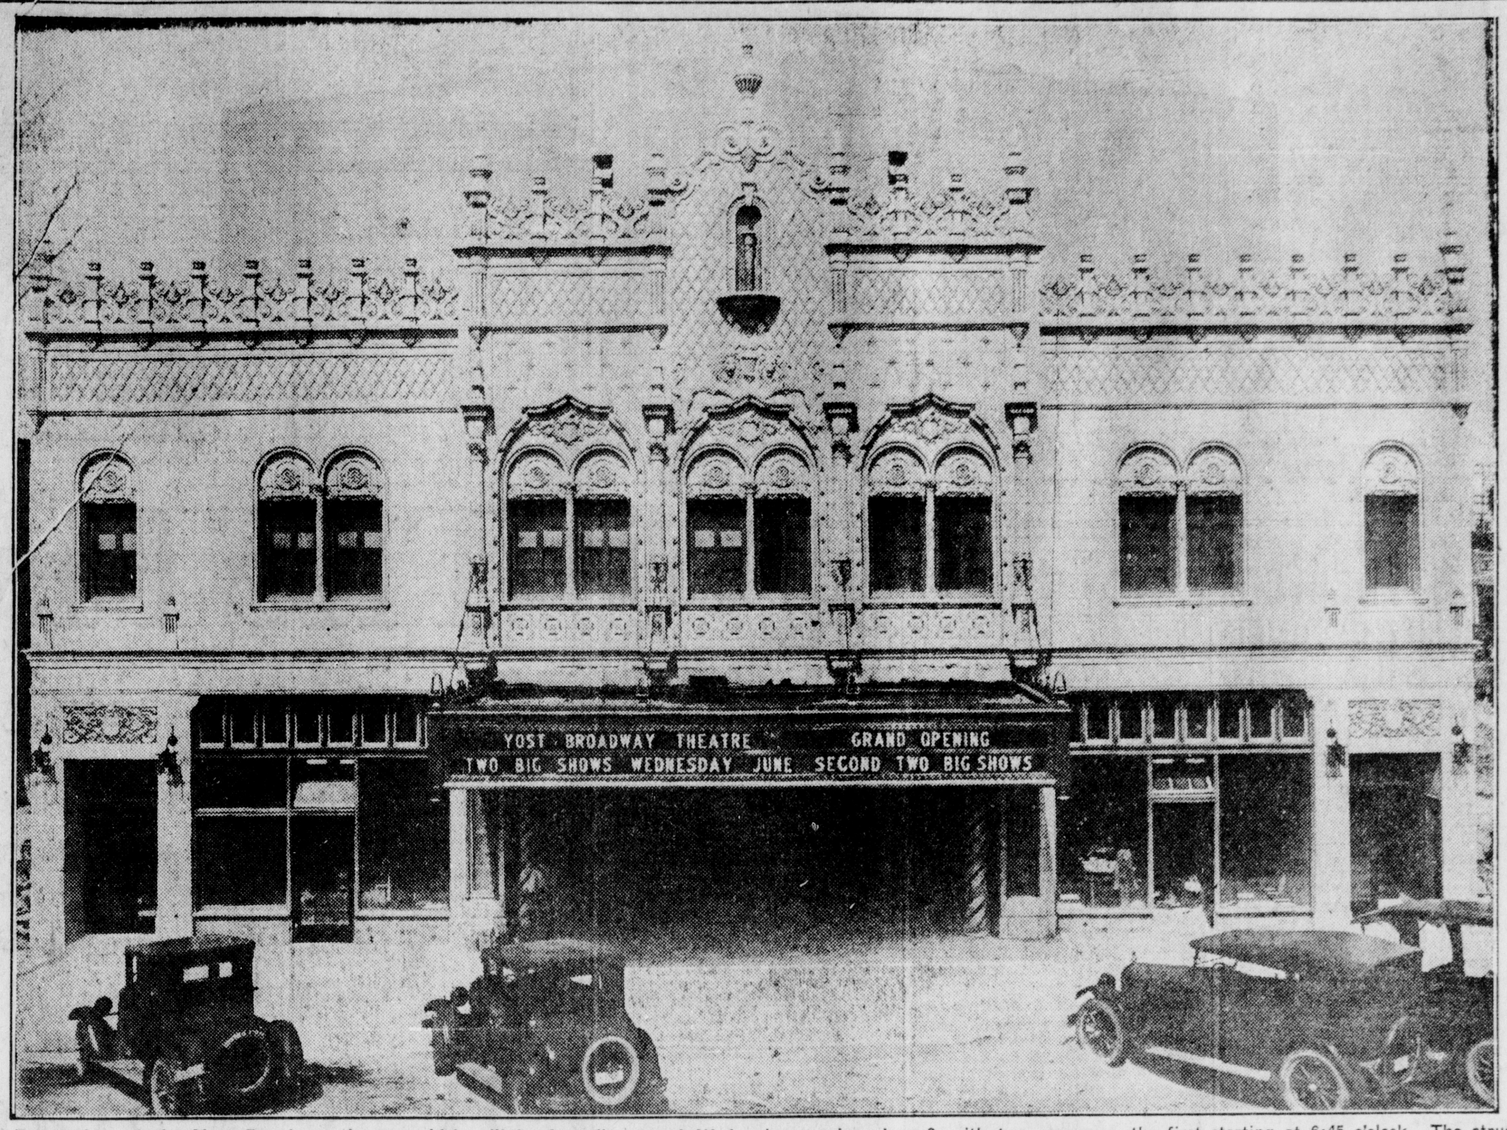

Below the stage are the orchestra room, 19 dressing rooms, each room large enough to accommodate three persons, eight of the rooms with outside windows. A shower bath for the men and one for the women is another feature. Two emergency exits, leading from the main floor and gallery, provided by ramps, lead out to the street from the space under the stage.

Above the stage are the two big ventilating fans and the automatic heating system which will make the temperature just right for all times of the year.

The theater is fireproof throughout. All that could burn would be certain inflammable material on the opera chairs and the scenery. All

HERE IS FRONT VIEW OF MAGNIFICENT NEW YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Front view of the Yost Broadway theater, which will be formally opened Wednesday evening, June 2, with two programs, the first starting at 6:45 o'clock. The structure has been completed and furnished at a cost approximating $300,000, and is declared to be one of the finest playhouses in the Southland, with a seating capacity equal to the largest.

PROMINENT CINEMA STARS WILL BE PRESENT AT INTRODUCTION OF NEW SANTA ANA PLAYHOUSE

Extraordinary Program Is Arranged For Initial Performance In New Broadway Show Place

RECEPTION TO START AT 6 P. M.

AN ACRE of beauty—a joy forever! Even that phrase, all embracing as it is, fails to give the proper impression of the new Yost Broadway theater, the grand opening of which has been set for Wednesday night, June 2, and Thursday night, June 3, with a galaxy of prominent cinema stars in attendance on the first evening.

Two gala shows are to be given Wednesday night, the first beginning at 6:45 and the second at 9:15.

The prices the opening night will be identical with the regular scale of prices to be in effect at the new theater, balcony 35 cents; orchestra 50 cents; loges 65 cents; children 10 cents. No seats will be reserved.

The doors will open for the public reception at 6 p. m. An extraordinary program has been arranged for the big first night's entertainment.

Stars to Attend

Many prominent motion picture actors and actresses have accepted the invitation of E. D. Yost to be present as his special guests. A score or more stars will be in attendance.

Among those who have accepted the invitation to be present are Anita Stewart, Belle Bennett, Robert Vignola, Henry B. Walthall, Montague Love, Walter Hiers, Pauline Garon, Lowell Sherman, Douglas Fairbanks jr. Eleanor Fair and William Boyd.

Anita Stewart

Ben Bard, well-known in Pacific coast film circles as an excellent master of ceremonies, will act in that capacity.

The opening performance will start with an overture, "Pomp and Circumstance," (Elgar) by Alexis Parlova and his de luxe orchestra. A news reel will follow the overture.

K. T. Kuma and his company will open the vaudeville bill with a fantastic Oriental divertisement.

Jack Hanley, among the best of laughmakers on the American vaudeville stage, will offer his "Making the World Safe For Hokum."

Nellie V. Nichols, the Sophie Tucker of the Southland vaudeville realm, will trip the boards with her act, "Will Some One Name My Nationality?" assisted at the pianos by Rowland Becker and Jean White. Three pianos are used in this act.

Bard then will take charge of the evening's festivities and introduce the film notables and other celebrities present.

The closing act will be supplied by Sibylla Bowhan, better known as "Wanda," the specialty dancer from the "Rose Marie" company, Los Angeles.

Special Film Booked

The feature picture, "The Rain Maker," featuring Ernest Torrence, Willie Collier jr., and Georgia Hale then will be shown. The picture has its first setting at a race track and ends with the excitement of an oil boom town. The film was especially selected for the opening of the Yost theater.

Construction on the new theater began August 15, 1925, on Broadway, between Fourth and Fifth streets, on the left side of the street. C. T. McGrew and Sons, of Long Beach, were granted the general contract. The construction was supervised by Arne Royther, also of Long Beach.

The following firms participated in the construction of the building or furnished material or labor:

Excavation—Yeager Rock company, Orange; also furnished rock and sand.

Cement and lumber—Chapman Lumber company, Santa Ana.

Structural steel—Union Iron Works, Los Angeles.

Re-inforced steel—Truss Construction company, Los Angeles.

Marquis—Hill and Son, Santa Ana.

Interior and exterior painting—McFadden Hardware company, Santa Ana.

Sign painting—Hoag Sign company, Santa Ana.

Art glass work—Santa Ana Art Glass company.

Pipe organ, costing $20,000—W. J. Mullaney company, Los Angeles.

Opera chairs and loges—C. F. Webber and company, Los Angeles.

Stage equipment—Henry Hollinger company, Los Angeles.

Programs for opening night—A. G. Flagg, Santa Ana.

Scenery—Flagg Scenic company, Los Angeles.

Electric sign—Hill and Son, Santa Ana.

Organ pipe—McFadden Hardware company, Santa Ana.

Generator, illuminated letters—Robertson Electric company, Santa Ana.

Draperies and grand draw curtain—Horton Furniture company, Santa Ana.

Upper floor carpets—Dickey-Baggerley Furniture company, Santa Ana.

Lower floor carpets—Chandler Furniture company, Santa Ana.

Grand pianos—Chandler Music company, Santa Ana.

GUEST LIST OF OPENING NIGHT IS ANNOUNCED

Many prominent Southern California persons, a large number of them identified in some way with the motion picture industry, will be special guests of E. D. Yost and his associates of the Broadway Improvement company at the opening, Wednesday night, of the new Yost Broadway theater.

The following Santa Ana persons have been invited to attend as guests of the management:

City board of trustees.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purinton.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman.
Mr. and Mrs. George McPhee.
Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Collier. .. ..
..Stanley Goode.

Officers and directors of the Broadway Improvement company:
Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth.
Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams.
Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan.
Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Stephenson.
Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Huff.
Mr. and Mrs. George S. Smith.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer.
Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wakehan.
Mr. and Mrs. Cood Adams.
Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lyon.
Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Pritchard.
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lambert.

WILL ATTEND OPENING

Pauline Garon, one of the most vivacious of the younger motion picture stars, who will be present at the opening Wednesday evening of Yost's Broadway theater.

BARTLEY SIMS WILL PRESIDE AT PIPE ORGAN

Bartley Sims, declared to be one of the best organists on the Pacific coast, will preside over the $20,000 pipe organ in the new Yost Broadway theater. Sims, who was given the high recommendations by the company which manufactured the organ, is at present in Santa Barbara and will come direct to Santa Ana to take the position with the new cinema house.

The orchestra will be under the batonship of Alexis Parlova, violinist, who has had orchestras in several metropolitan theaters on the Pacific coast. His organization will include the following master musicians:

Piano, B. D. Coe; cornet, J. D. Mathes; trombone, E. G. Nelson; drums, C. E. De Crastos; flute, W. H. O'Gara; bass, Walter Coleman.

J. E. Duggan will be the theater's art director.

C. F. Zimmerman will be in charge of the operating room and projection machines. He will be assisted by Tom Jentges.

Ralph Adams will be the stage manager, assisted by Walter Coleman.

George Mason and Clarence Simmonsa will behead ushers. Other ushers are Malcolm Issacson, Lawrence Walbridge, Robert White, Theron Block, Ed Thomas and Earl Trueblood.

Within recent months congress has received more than 100,000 individual petitions urging the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures.

TALENTED SON

Douglas Fairbanks jr., talented son of his famous father, will be among the cinema notables present at the opening of Yost's Broadway theater.

HENRY WALTHAL

"The Little Colonel" of "The Birth of a Nation" has accepted the invitation to be among the prominent motion picture people present at the gala opening of Yost's Broadway theater, the evening of June 2.

'ROSE MARIE' STAR WILL APPEAR HERE

Miss Sibylla Bonhan, who for the last 80 weeks has played the part of Wanda in "Rose Marie," closing in Los Angeles tonight, will be featured at the grand opening of the Yost Broadway theater Wednesday night.

Her dances are superb in themselves, but their effectiveness is doubled, perhaps tripled, by the amazing litheness and magnetic personality of Miss Bonhan.

Proof positive of this is furnished by the fact that in a dancing number in "Rose Marie," attired in the barbarous splendor of an Indian princess, she invariably "stopped the show" and it would be several minutes before it could proceed. Her most stunning single effect is her fan dance.

We desire at this time to extend our cordial congratulations to Mr. Yost on the completion of his new

Yost Broadway Theatre

It is certainly a credit to Mr. Yost, Orange County, Santa Ana and Broadway.

We are glad that we played a small part in building this splendid theatre, which is so beneficial to our city. The plumbing and electric sign were done by us.

May the Yost Broadway Theatre meet with the success that it deserves.

"RAINMAKER" TO BE SEEN AT OPENING

"The Rainmaker" will be seen at the opening of the Yost Broadway. Here is a well rounded and picturesque story. Varied backgrounds and widely contrasting figures combine to make a splendid picture. William Collier Jr. brings a fine sincerity and vigor, Georgia Hale is wonderful in her role and Ernest Torrence delightful.

doors, with the exception of the two main doors in the lobby, are built of steel. The chair downstairs will seat about 1200 persons and the balcony chairs an additional 800 persons.

The projection room, especially well ventilated and absolutely fireproof, houses two Powers projection machines of the very latest design. Two special spot-light machines also have been provided. Just off the operating room is the powerful Westinghouse generator.

Gigantic Switchboard

At the north end of the projection quarters is the gigantic switchboard, by which all the lights in the theater may be controlled.

On the mezzanine floor is a special room for the ushers, store rooms, a woman's retiring room and a men's smoking room of ample proportions and luxuriously furnished. The colors are typical of the Italian renanissance, ranging from dark orchid and including all polychrome colors. The fixtures are of wrought iron. Two emergency exits leading to the front of the theater also pass through the mezzanine floor. The ceiling is done in old world style and depicts a blue sky with faint stars shining through.

Just back of the mezzanine are two apartments, one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Yost and the other by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Juden.

The foyer is 80 feet long and about 15 feet wide. It follows the general color scheme of the theater. The floor of the large lobby is of terraza material and presents the appearance of highly polished marble.

To the right of the entrance are the main box office and rooms for supplies. An emergency box office is provided on the south side of the entrance. Two store rooms are a part of the theater, one on either side of the entrance.

The vacant space just north of the theater will be avaliable for automobile parking purposes.

Our Neighbors

PASADENA—Decision to build a new three-story church auditorium and school plant, representing a total investment of $450,000 is announced by the First Congregational church of this city, which already owns the site for the proposed structure at the southeast corner of Los Robles avenue and Walnut street. Leon C. Brockway and H. M. Patterson, architects, have already prepared tentative plans for the new church edifice and have been empowered to complete definite plans immediately, it was announced. The finance committee of the church is working on a plan to raise $150,000, which amount represents the remaining funds needed to carry through the project.

RIVERSIDE—E. Q. Sullivan, engineer of the state highway commission, announces that work will be started in a week on the $103,000 road widening project between Whitewater and Edom, for 18 miles in Riverside county. Contract for the widening job has been signed by Matich brothers, Elsinore. This firm is allowed 150 working days to complete the work and will employ a large crew. The new project consists of widening the Whitewater-Edom unit of the highway into the Coachella, Palo Verde and Imperial valleys from sixteen to twenty feet.

ALHAMBRA—Establishing a new record for civil damages awarded property owners in Alhambra for street improvements, the referees have recommended a total of $258,064.07 damages to property owners along the Valley boulevard, which is being widened and paved. The report, which required several months to complete, will be submitted to the presiding judge of the Los Angeles county superior court and assigned to one of the departments for consideration and approval.

SAN DIEGO—Steady gains in the amount of commodities shipped through the port of San Diego during the first quarter of 1926 are indicated in the April report of harbor traffic made public by Harbormaster Joseph Brennan. A net amount of merchandise handled ov rthe port's docks and wharves during the preceding month is shown in the April report. Cargo received from or shipped to domestic and foreign ports last month totaled 87,647 tons, valued at $3,109,691. A recapitulation of ship manifest reveal that of the total harbor trade, merchandise from the Pacific and Atlantic ports amounted to 86,500 tons, valued at $2,870,983; foreign commerce, 964 tons, valued at $203,458. Fisheries receipts from Mexican waters were 202 tons, valued at $35,350. Shipping was unusually brisk during April, a total of 310 vessels arriving and sailing for an average of 10 a day.

REDLANDS—There is to be a terrible scramble among automobile owners to get into the city and county tax office before next week, because an announcement was made today that all cars on which taxes have not been paid will be seized by June 1. Many efforts have been made to collect taxes on scores of automobiles listed as unsecured property, which means machines where the owners do not own real estate. These automobile owners have ignored the bills until there will be no more leniency, the machines are to be seized for payment of taxes. Sam Graham, tax collector, has found that most of these owners have families and are educating their children at the expense of property owners without paying their share of the expense.

Ford Rebuilding Old Schoolhouse

CLINTON, Mass., May 29.—Henry Ford, who is rebuilding the Sudbury country schoolhouse made famous by the poem about Mary and her little lamb, has bought a collection of 200 documents relating to the author of the poem, John Roulstone, and to Mary Sawyer, the Mary who owned the affectionate lamb. He is already the owner of the school house doorstep and pieces of the original foundation.

Hundreds View Seal at Newport

NEWPORT BEACH, May 29—A baby seal, "as slick as a whistle and as cunning as a kitten," is attracting hundreds of spectators at Newport Beach, where it is "housed" in a tank near the entrance to the city pier, according to Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

The amphibious mammal was brought in from the sea by Ray Bell, a Newport Beach fisherman.

The seal will probably find a permanent home in a Southern California aquarium, it was said.

NOTICE TO BUILDING, PLUMBING AND HEATING CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that the board of supervisors of Orange County together with the board of supervisors of Riverside County and the board of supervisors of Imperial County will receive bids for the furnishing of all labor and material for the construction of the San Gorgonio Sanitorium located on Lots 1, 2, 3, 8, Mellen Orchard Tract as shown by Map, record book No. 6, page 72, maps of Riverside County; also irregular strip off E. side of S. E. ¼, Section 15, T 2 S. R. 1 W, S. B. M., located near Beaumont, Riverside County, California. The building program contemplates the construction of all or any of the five buildings, designated as follows, to-wit:

(1) Boiler and laundry building.
(2) Service building.
(3) Ambulant building.
(4) Semi-ambulant building.
(5) Administration building.

The building plan contemplates contracts as follows:

(a) General contract.
(b) Plumbing and sheet metal contract.
(c) Heating contract.

Separate sealed bids shall be submitted for the (a) general contract on each of the five buildings and (b) for the plumbing and sheet metal contract on each of the five buildings and, (c) for the heating contract on each of the five buildings.

Separate sealed alternate lump bids shall be submitted for (a) the general contract on all five buildings, and for (b) the plumbing and sheet metal contract on all five buildings, and for (c) the heating contract on all five buildings.

A separate sealed bid shall be submitted for all classes of work on all buildings.

The bids submitted shall be in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California; in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Orange County, Orange County Court House, Santa Ana, California; in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Imperial County, Imperial County Court House, El Centro, California.

Copies of plans and specifications of said work and also blank forms suitable for use in bidding on said work may be obtained at the office of G. Stanley Wilson, Architect, 646 W. 9th St., Riverside, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Orange County, Orange County Court House, Santa Ana, California; at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Imperial County, Imperial County Court House, El Centro, California; and no bid will be considered which is not in accordance with and on the form herein referred to. A Twenty-Five Dollar ($25.00) deposit will be required for each copy of plans and specifications taken out. This deposit will be refunded upon the return of said copy of plans and specifications to the office from which it was secured within ten days from the date it was taken out from said office.

Each bidder must accompany his set of bids with a certified check or a cashier's check made payable to the County of Riverside in a sum equal to ten percent (10%) of the highest total cost for all classes of work on all buildings, according to his separate bids or lump bid, which ever cost is the highest, as a guarantee that the bidder if awarded the contract, will enter into a written contract for the performance thereof satisfactory to said boards of supervisors of Riverside County, Orange County and Imperial County, respectively, and in addition thereto the successful bidder will be required to file a bond in the sum of twenty-five percent (25%) of the amount of the contract, with sureties satisfactory to said boards of supervisors as a guarantee of faithful performance of the contract, and a further bond in the sum of fifty percent (50%) of the amount of the contract, with acceptable sureties to secure the payment of laborers, materialmen, etc. Each bid shall be sealed, submitted, received and filed on or before July 6th, 1926, at 12 o'clock, noon, in the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County, Riverside County Court House, Riverside, California, and sealed copies thereof shall be filed by the bidders on or before said date and time with the clerks of the respective boards of supervisors of Orange and Imperial Counties respectively. Said original bids so submitted, received and filed at the office of the clerk of the board of supervisors of Riverside County shall be duly publicly opened and read by the board of supervisors of Riverside County at the board room thereof in the Court House in the City of Riverside, County of Riverside, California, on the 6th day of July, 1926, at the hour of ten o'clock, a. m. and said sealed copies filed with the clerks of the respective boards of supervisors of Orange and Imperial counties shall not be opened prior to ten o'clock, a. m., of July 6th, 1926.

The above mentioned certified check or cashier's check shall be given as evidence that the bidder will enter into a written contract if awarded the work and will be declared forfeited if the bidder refuses to enter into said written contract after being requested to do so in writing by the board of supervisors of Riverside County, California.

The board of supervisors of Orange County, together with the board of supervisors of Riverside County and the board of supervisors of Imperial County respectively, reserve the right to reject any and all bids not deemed advantageous to said Counties, and said boards further reserve the right to erect any or all of said buildings.

By order of the board of supervisors of Orange County, State of California, made this 25th day of May, 1926.

T. B. TALBERT,
Chairman, board of supervisors of Orange County, California.
ATTEST:
J. M. BACKS, County Clerk and Ex-officio Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

COMMITTEE ON CLAIMS HOLDS MANY HEARINGS

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The senate claims committee is one of the busiest and perhaps the most historic committee in congress, judged by the number of bills presented to it during a session and the age of some of the measures still pending.

More than 800 claims against the government have reached the senate claims committee already this session and many of them will remain there pigeon-holed, and some to be taken out year after year in futile efforts to have them passed by congress.

Nothing is more pathetic, according to Harry Straight, clerk of the committee for the last quarter century, than to see the claimants haunting the halls of congress year after year in the vain hope that their petitions will be acted upon.

Sources of Claims

The claims grow out of collisions of government automobiles, mail trucks, improper assessment of taxes, lost treasury certificates and even destruction of property from forced landings of government mail planes.

The oldest claims still pending in congress are known as the French Spoliations and they date back to 1797. They have been before congress at one session or another for more than 100 years but have never been acted upon. Repeated decisions of the supreme court have held them to be valid. These claims amount to $3,248,202.47 at the last accounting, and although only the ancestors of the original claimants are still alive, they are brought up each session for consideration.

At the present time the bill providing for payment of the French Spoliations is last on the list of preferred measures arranged by the Republican steering committee and there is every reason to believe it will be tossed overboard at the last minute in the interests of early adjournment.

Claim for 22 Millions

The largest claim before the committee this session was for $22,575,389.14 instituted by Professor William H. H. Hart, a negro who for many years conducted a government authorized negro school in Virginia, known as the Junior Republic. This claim still is pending.

The smallest claim was for $4.80 by J. M. Holladay, Marion, S. C. This claim has been approved by the house but is pending in the senate. The cost to the government of preparing the papers in the case has amounted to more than $100. It is reported that a certain congressman offered to pay Holladay the $4.80 but he refused on the grounds that he wanted the United States to pay its just obligation. Holladay bid on some government property at an auction in Marion, S. C. on March 25, 1919, and although he lost the bid, through some error the check went to the government. Now he wants his $4.80 back.

JAPANESE PRIMA DONNA

Miss Hatsu, with K. T. Kuma & Co., will assist at the grand opening of the Yost Broadway. She is a little Japanese prima donna, who sings and dances in quite the American way. Miss Hatsu was a featured dancer in Carl Reid's New York success, "Aloma of the South Seas." K. T. Kuma is a descendant of a family of magicians and his marvelous feats are handed down from one generation to another.

Movie Chatterbox

The world war, more than any other theme, is pasing into motion-picture history.

For more than seven years after the conflict ended the movie producers fought shy of war pictures, holding the great military drama was staged on too great a scale and against too large a panorama ever to be adequately handled on the screen.

D. W. Griffith's "Hearts of the World," and Charlie Chaplin's "Shoulder Arms," were about the only war-time screen efforts, aside from news-reels and governmental propaganda films.

Now the war has come into its own as a movie theme and all of the Southern California studios at times this spring have resembled battlefields or training camps.

"The Big Parade," a dramatic spectacle, and 'Behind the Front," a comedy film of doughboy life, started the new trend. The business of turning out military films is on now with a rush.

The Lasky Company is producing a sequel to "Behind the Front," in which Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton will be co-starred again. It will be called "We're In the Navy Now," and will have the same comic flavor as the doughboy opus.

The Paramount firm is also about to make a film glorifying the army air service, from John Monk Saunders' story, "Wings." Cecil DeMille has announced plans for "Corporal Kate," a movie of three American army nurses in the world war.

Fox plans to film "What Price Glory," the well-known stage success, although production has been delayed through difficulty in obtaining Marines and Marine equipment.

The next big war meteor to be released to the public is "The Unknown Soldier," a Renaud Hoffman production. Like The Big Parade, this picture after previews here has been hailed by the critics as one of the most powerful film productions for the season.

Significantly, none of the current war productions feature military pomp and glory, or cater to the chauvanistic spirit.

Humor and pathos are the tenor of the screenings, and the futility and pathos of war, and its aftermath, is nearly always pictured as the underlying motif, if not the direct theme.

Shirley Mason's enticing performance as the reckless ingenue in Henry Hobart's production, "Don Juan's Three Nights," for First National, may very well create a new vogue for this capable but hitherto unstable screen player.

As the impetuous young infatuate of Lewis Stone ("Don Juan" Aridi of Ludwig Biro's drama of a philandering continental musician) Miss Mason releases fires which have long been kept banked by roles unsuitable. Her rendition is comparable to Colleen Moore's "Flaming Youth" which set the fashion for screen plays of this type.

Girlhood's Impulses

She conveys with fine discernment the commingled reticences and abandon of girlhood in its first blind love impulse. She manages to elicit laughter and pity, pathos and petulance in the rebellion of "Ninette" against the mother (Myrtle Stedman) who wants to keep her childish in manner and dress so her own age may be disguised.

Her deliberate fling at Lewis Stone under competitive stress of other more mature beauties reaches a poignant climax when the sated man of the world, deeply moved by pity for her flaunted innocence, finally repels her with contrived vulgarities to save her from himself.

Array of Beauties

This scene finishes with a duel, provided by Malcolm McGregor as her young suitor, in which "Don Juan's" hand is pierced and his career as a famous pianist closed.

The picture, directed by John Francis Dillon, masses an exceptional array of film beauties as competitors for the musical roue's favor—Madeline Hurlock, Gertrude Astor, Natalie Kingston, Betty Francisco and Alma Bennett—all in the pink of fashion and strikingly photographed.

Only Stone's urbanity and Shirley Mason's assumption of genuine naivete keep the picture from a tendency in spots to become too audacious.

Across a span of five years, Rudolph Valentino is returning to the type of role which labeled him and gave him initial fame—the ardent desert hero.

"Son of the Sheiks," an opus of burning loves and bitter hates now being filmed, is a sequel to "The Sheik," by which Valentino added a new word to the romantic vocabulary of the day and by which he established for himself an apparently ineradicable theatrical identity.

The cycle between the two closely kindred roles has seen Rudolph in sex dramas, costume plays, underworld stories and emotional essays of all kind.

During that interval he has been up and down, liked and disliked, acclaimed and all but ignored. In that time he has been married and divorced, elated and dejected, for reasons personal and professional; a "sheik" lashed by temperamental siroccos.

A marked change in demeanor was evident in his devotion to the new picture. He tackled it with zest. He appeared much younger and more carefree. And it may be apropos that he refers to his recently divorced wife, Natacha Rambova, even by inference.

Valentino's return to the desert character tends to confirm a Hollywood contention, namely that a picture player is best fitted for that type of role which first brought him outstanding success.

It may be more apt to say that the player so stamps himself with his first triumph that a stolid public forever after tends to hold him to that model.

At any rate, it is undoubtedly true that masses of Valentino's admirers think of him as actually a son of Araby, rather than an Italian, and that throughout his diverse picture aliases they have awaited his reappearance in the desert guise.

Of his new role he says: "This picture will be absolutely true to life. Five years ago I knew nothing of sheiks, and little more about the art of the screen. Today I can at least claim an authentic knowledge of the life and customs of the Arab chiefs."

However—he is wearing a regalia beyond your genuine sheik's fondest dreams of magnificance. So much by way of concession to romantic idealism of one of the two well-known sexes.

ROUND TABLE PLANS HARBOR BOND PARADE

Tentative plans for a mammoth harbor bond election parade, to be staged on the morning of June 10, and to include representations from every service club and all other civic and community organizations in the county, were discussed yesterday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Santa Ana Knights of the Round Table, at St. Ann's Inn.

Dr. Will A. Flood, president of the table, appointed a special committee, composed of George A. Ragan, chairman, Arthur F. Granas, Charles E. Camm and Clarence E. Oleson, to confer with officials of the various service clubs and civic organizations throughout the county regarding participation, entries, line of march, communities and sections of the county to be visited by the parade.

Floats Are Planned

In addition to music and entertainers, there would be a number of floats, setting forth facts regarding the proposed harbor improvement, depicting its effect on general trade and real estate values. It also was suggested that short stops be made at central points where speakers, traveling with the parade, would give brief talks on the project.

It was suggested that the line of march should start from some central point in the county, proceeding through such cities and sections where there might be some opposition to the bonds, due to lack of understanding.

Arrangements for the annual picnic and outing of the Santa Ana table, to be held Thursday evening, June 10, at Orange County park, were announced by a special committee composed of Calvin M. Gilbert, Archibald O. Hatfield and W. I. Stewart. The picnic will be open to members of the table and their guests, as well as to members and guests from tables in nearby towns.

Prohibition Is Discussed

A portion of the meeting was given over to a round table discussion on prohibition and law enforcement. While statistics were quoted to show that prohibition had brought about a general state of prosperity, as reflected in bank savings and acquisition of property by wage earners, figures also were presented to show increase in crime and insanity during the last few years.

"There is little hope for effective enforcement of the prohibition law until our so-called better class of citizens, prominent professional and business men, begin to give serious thought to this law and observe it," declared George Ragan, one of the speakers. "When our leading men in the community will not wink at law-breaking nor tolerate liquor to be served at dinner parties, social affairs, and other gatherings, then the first step will be taken toward effective enforcement, and then there will be a dull market for the army of bootleggers now catering to wealthy customers," he concluded.

The entertainment for the meeting was furnished by Mrs. Cecil F. Willetts and Mrs. Lester Carden, who rendered musical numbers.

The hemlock poison that killed Socrates was not from the hemlock tree, but from a relative of the parsnip.

ADDS FOREST PRESERVE

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge has signed a measure which provides for additions to the Absaroka and Gallatin National forests and to Yellowstone National park. The bill also contains provisions designed to improve and extend winter feeding grounds for elk, antelope and other animals in the Yellowstone.

and Mr. E. D. Yost,

LESSEE and MANAGER

The undersigned merchants and property owners on Broadway take this public method of extending to you their most sincere congratulations on the opening of your magnificent new Broadway Theatre, and also of expressing their appreciation of the benefit of this great improvement, both to the street and to the city as a whole.

The name "Broadway" carries with it an alluring sense of commercial importance, whether applied to the Great White Way in New York, to the heart stream of Los Angeles or to our own attractive and fast developing thoroughfare in Santa Ana. Practically every city of importance has its Broadway. It suggests a broad, noble street, bright lights, fine shops, beautiful theatres---the acme of attractions in all respects for the trading public. Such, indeed, is the goal we have set for our own Broadway in Santa Ana, and each year brings forth some new development to add to its importance.

The year 1926 will always remain memorable in the annals of Santa Ana's Broadway by reason of your wonderful, new playhouse, which measures up to the finest and largest theatres in the Southland, and which proudly takes its place with the leading hotel of the county, the finest drug store, the finest ladies' hat store, the largest retail seed store, the largest market in the world in any city the size of Santa Ana, the largest and most complete printing and book-binding establishment in Orange County, the second largest commercial building in the County, the Court House, two important banks, and many other institutions---all located on Broadway.

It is our earnest and unconquerable desire to make of Broadway a beautiful and complete shopping district, which will be an impressive and lasting monument to the importance of Santa Ana and Orange County, and for the wonderful impetus you have contributed through the opening of your theatre we again extend to you our congratulations and expression of high appreciation.

RADIO "PICK-UP" MAN HAS TROUBLE

By NEA Service

SAN FRANCISCO, May 29.—The radio pick-up man whose duty is to see that lectures, sermons or concerts get perfect reproduction when broadcast finds his work interesting, educational and also beset with many difficulties.

Several microphones located at various positions on the platform or in the auditorium allow for movement of the speaker or a change in the musical scale. It is the pick-up man's duty to switch on and off the different microphones as needed. He also needs to get the co-operation of those who broadcast.

"I generally try to have a rehearsal," says Donald De Wolf, pick-up man for station KGO, here. "I get the minister to put on earphones and listen in, like I have to do. First I rattle some papers before the microphone. And he's likely to ask me, 'Where's all that sheet-iron falling off a building?'

"After stunts like this the minister is usually convinced that there are certain rules of the pick-up game which have to be observed.

"The organist must also be instructed. When he plays on the echo-organ, away up in the rafters over the front entrance, my echo-organ microphone, placed near the sound, is in the circuit. Suppose, without warning, he jumps down into the low tones in the basement. I've got to switch that microphone on, before listeners can hear.

"Naturally he sees that I ought to be notified when he jumps around in the music. The best system is to have ear-phones handy and let him listen in and learn from practical experience.

"It's the way it sounds that counts in radio."

PACKARD PROGRAM TONIGHT

Hightower and Cromer, local Packard dealers and their associate dealers throughout California, will co-operate in broadcasting a program this evening from 9 to 10 o'clock simultaneously from KFI, Los Angeles, and KPO, San Francisco. It will be a concert program and among the artists to be heard will be Emma Kimmel, soprano; Robert Hurd, tenor; Tom McLaughlin, baritone, and the Louise Klos Trio.

PAINTING BY RADIO

Station KTNT, of Muscatine, Ia., is teaching oil painting of portraits and other kinds of art pictures by radio. The instructor doing a lesson paints a picture, the same which a student is supposed to have before him and makes comments as he goes along. Many hundreds of students are among the listeners.

FIX WAVELENGTH

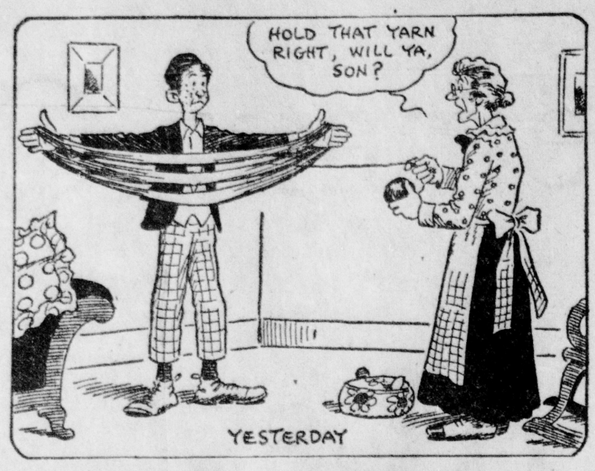

When a radio receiving license is granted to a listener in Japan, his set is tuned to the wavelength of the Tokyo municipal broadcast station and then sealed so that no other station may be tuned in. It is reported that this is done in order that no radical ideas can be picked up if put on the air by secret broadcast stations.

"SNAPS"

Marjorie Irene Bond, newspaper columnist, appears at the KOA, Denver, microphone every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and discusses problems of interest to women. Her tri-weekly talks are known as "microphone snapshots."

SHORT WAVE FOR COMMERCIAL USE

SEATTLE, May 29.—Transcontinental telephoning by radio, supplanting the present copper circuits, may soon be placed on a commercial basis, if experiments now being conducted between Seattle and Honolulu are successful.

Preliminary experiments have shown practicability of low-wave, low-power telephone transmission from Seattle to various amateur stations over the nation.

E. J. Lesser, vice president of the Simpson Radio corporation, of this city, has just returned from conferences with the department of commerce, relative to obtaining a low-wave band for commercial transmission of voice messages across America. Lesser contends the cost of long distance telephoning could be considerably cheapened by the system. The department has the matter under consideration.

P. K. Leberman, president of the Radio Sales corporation of Seattle, has gone to Honolulu to test one of the voice transmitters invented by Frederick G. Simpson, widely known radio engineer. He is testing voice reception and transmission by the new system. On the results of the tests further development of the concert will depend.

"The Simpson transmitter can be adjusted to cover from 30 to 300 meters," Simpson says. "With a single adjustment it may be moved from 76 to 200 meters, or from 1400 to 4000 kilocycles."

The experimental transmitter uses only 250 watts; a new transmitter, using 500 watts, is being built.

The voice messages are being sent three nights a week from Leberman's experimental station, 7-UZ, here.

CELLIST'S WORK HARD

Francis R. Hoyts, consulting engineer, said in an address fro station WOR, Newark, N. Y., that a cellist playing "The Evening Star" would work harder than he would shoveling four tons of coal. Four tons of coal represents 8000 pounds, whereas with an average low pressure of three and one-half pounds per note, the artist's work on the 2690 notes would represents 9415 pounds.

WANTED TO SEE SINGER

A striking illustration of the interest the general public takes in popular radio entertainers occurred recently when a 13-year-old boy walked and "hooked rides" all the way from Northfield, Minn., to Minneapolis, a distance of 40 miles, in order to see what Jack Little, who was broadcasting from WCCO, looked like. The youngester fainted from exaustion when he reached the studio.

BILLY EVANS Says

KNUCKLE BALL

Despite all legislation, baseball still has a most effective freak delivery. I have reference to the knuckle ball.

The knuckle ball is legal because it is pitched without resorting to any artifice. The peculiar break on the ball is held prior to delivery.

With most pitchers the knuckle ball is held in reserve. Eddie Rommell is the one exception. He really uses it more than his fast one or curve.

The knuckle ball is difficult to control. A great many pitchers who use it handicap their effectiveness, rather than increase it, because failure to get the knuckle ball over keeps them in the hole.

However, the knuckle ball is a decided fad these days and every pitcher feels that he must include it in his repertoire.

When the spitball delivery was at the height of its popularity, some 15 years back, it played much the same role in the life of a pitcher as the knuckle ball does today.

The remarkable success achieved by such twirlers as Jack Chesbro, Ed Walsh and other noted twirlers of the old days caused every pitcher to feel that he must master the damp delivery.

A great many twirlers did go to the spitball strongly but, like the knuckle ball, because of lack of control it didn't help their game.

Incidentally, the pitchers who didn't actually throw the spitter faked it by going through all the preliminary maneuvers.

Only a very limited number of spitballers are still doing business in the majors. Within five years, perhaps, it will be but a memory.

SMART PITCHERS

Smart pitchers are always experimenting in an effort to increase their effectiveness. It is most surprising the breaks certain pitchers can get on the ball through the use of perfectly legitimate methods.

I have never umpired an overhand pitcher who couldn't sail his fast ball. While the opposition invariably alleges trickery, the result is achieved honestly through the manner of delivery.

When it came actually to doctoring the ball I never saw a pitcher in all my career who could make it take such uncanny dips as Eddie Cicotte.

While I was in Philadelphia recently "Kid" Gleason dropped into the dressing room for a chat and we discussed Cicotte.

"There never was, or will be, anybody like Cicotte," said Gleason. "Why, he could almost make the ball talk.

"Give him some heavy oil on his glove and permit him to soil his hands and he would soon have in play a ball that would answer his every wish.

"I have seen him pitch fast balls all day to a team noted for its slugging ability and make them look like suckers.

"Cicotte was a magician as well as a pitcher."

LOW-BALL FAVORED

That pitching styles and methods run in cycles can be proved by the change from the high to the low ball.

Twenty years ago the high ball, no pun meant, was highly favored. Today a majority of the big league pitchers consider the low ball the hardest to hit.

Pitchers of the old school, twirlers of the Cy Young type, used the high ball perhaps 75 per cent of the time. They kept it inside and letter high.

I am positive the spitball delivery had much to do with the popularity the low ball now enjoys.

The spitball, to be effective, must be broken low, which makes the batter top the ball most of the time and hit weak grounders to the infield.

Inspired by this, twirlers who didn't use the moist delivery went to the low ball, so that it is now the most-pitched ball in the game.

CARS HALTED BY SHOWERS AT 175 MILES

After Slight Delay, Classic Is Started Again As Rain Clouds Break Away

IN RELATIVE POSITIONS

Interruption Due to Weather Occurs to Mar Indianapolis Speed Event

(By United Press)

MOTOR SPEEDWAY, Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—Eighteen drivers out of 28 left the tape in resuming the 500-mile automobile race here today, after a suspension of more than an hour because of rain.. The cars were lined up as at the original start. The timing device was turned back to permit an even start and each driver was credited with the relative position in which the rain stopped him.

Lockhart, in a Miller Special, was in the lead as the race was resumed at the 175-mile stage. Hartz, in a Miller Special, was second and Cooper was third in a front-drive Miller Special.

Ten cars were eliminated by different causes. There had been no serious accidents.

Clouds Gather Again

Gathering clouds climbed ominously over the course at 2:30 o'clock and the rain began to fall. Cars were ordered to the pits and the race was halted.

Simpson squared up the match by taking the tenth. The eleventh was halved in par fours, both men being on the green safely with their second shots and taking the regulation two putts. Simpson found a trap again on his second shot to the 12th green and he had a bad out which cost him the hole.

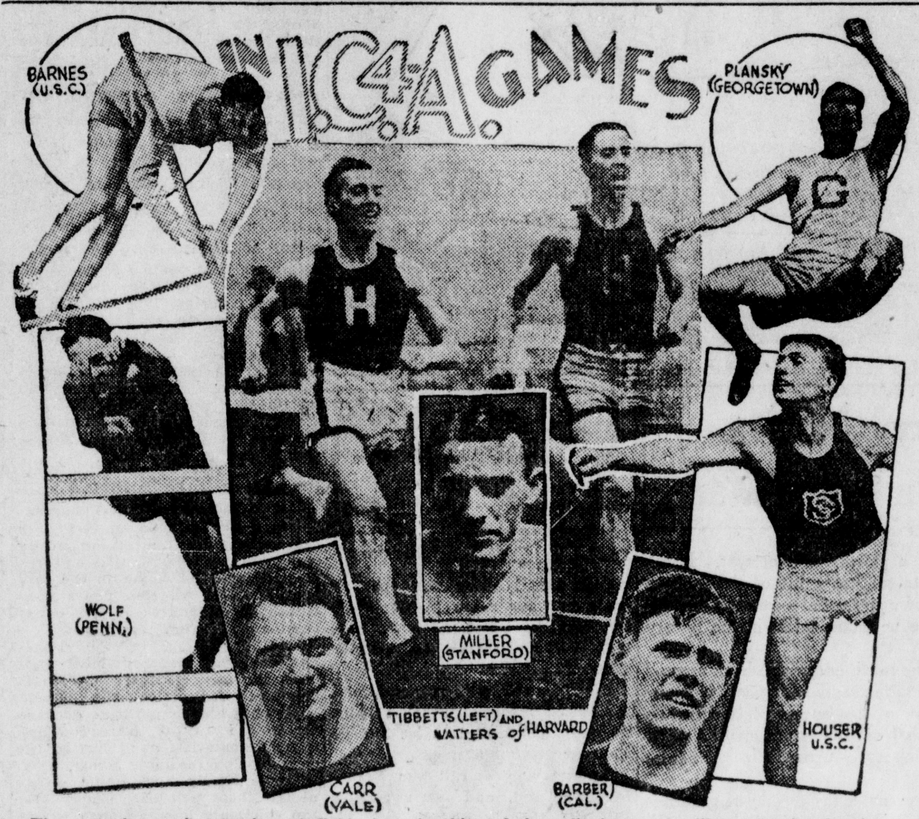

Sweetser reached the short 128-yard thirteenth with a pretty mashie shot from the tee while Simpson once more landed in a trap to the left. ESweetser got his par three while Simpson failed to get out of the trap well and required four.

Both were short of the green with their second shots on the 450-yard 14th and then each approached indifferently with the result that a half in fives was the best they could do.

They halved the 16th and 17th with ordinary golf.

On the 18th, which is 425 yards from tee to pin, Sweetser played his second strongly and was 20 feet to the right of the pin, hole high, while Simpson was far short. The American went down in two more, rounding the turn four up.

COAST TEAMS PICKED TO WIN EAST'S MEET

The annual two-day track and field championships of the collegiate east will be completed today and the funny thing about it, provided one's humor is sufficiently acute, is that two and possibly three California teams will make the fight for the title. The University of Southern California qualified 13 men yesterday for the finals this afternoon and are red hot favorites to repeat last year's victory in the big I. C. A. A. A. A. classic. Stanford University and the University of California may press the Trojans. Yale and Harvard are the only Eastern squads accorded a chance for victory. Above are some of the twinklers expected to shine today.

TROJANS LEAD IN TRIALS AT EASTERN MEET

BY PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 29.—Superiority in the field and over the hurdles today is expected to give the University of Southern California its second I. C. A. A. A. A. championship within two years.

Led by Clarence ("Bud") Houser, who yesterday shattered two intercollegiate marks in the shot put and discus throw, the Pacific Coast athletes are hot favorites to walk off with the meet. Southern California qualified 13 men in yesterday's trial and on paper they are assured five first places.

In addition to Houser's two specialties, the low and high hurdles and the pole vault should go to the far west school. Kenneth Grumbles, Leighton Dye and Lee Barnes are expected to take care of these events.

One of the Southern California athletes who qualified may be unable to start. Herschel Smith, the fleet sprinter, pulled a tendon in his century trial, and Coach Dean Cromwell probably will not allow him to compete.

A group of the stars of yesteryear who will be on the field this afternoon, charted the probable leaders in the following order:

Southern California, Stanford, Harvard, Yale, California.

Stanford and California each qualified ten men but the Stanford athletes are placed to better advantage in their events. It would not be surprising if Tom Work and Bob King finished one-two in the high jump.

Yale qualified eleven men. Georgetown had nine, Harvard and Princeton eight each and Pennsylvania and Penn State seven each.

TYRRELL CONTINUES TO HIT BALL HARD

"Tuffy" Tyrrell, Santa Ana baseball player, continued to hit the ball hard last week for the Tulsa club of the Western league, according to box scores received here today. Tyrrell is playing second base for the Oilers.

In eight games, the Santa Anan hit safely eight times in 30 times at bat and four of his base knocks were doubles and one was a homer. He also fielded well, accepting eight chances in one of his games without a bobble.

Tyrrell is playing the utility role for Tulsa. He is filling in at second base because Berghammer, the team's regular second sacker, is ill.

Colima Opponent Is Dué Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Owen Phelps, the Arizona roughrider, who meets Bert Colima, Mexican middleweight of Whittier, in the 10 round main event at Vernon next Tuesday night, will arrive here tomorrow for the bout.

Harry Greb, former middleweight champion of the world, has proclaimed Phelps excellent timber for the world title. Greb barely outpointed Phelps in Arizona in a no-decision fight.

Oregon Wins Dual Meet By One Point

CORVALLIS, Ore., May 29.—The University of Oregon won the annual dual track meet from the Oregon Aggies here yesterday by the narrow margin of one point. The score favored the Aggies until near the end when Vic Wetzel won the javelin throw, bringing the score to 66 to 66 with only the relay left. Jim Dixon of the Aggies put the shot 45 feet, 5 inches for what is believed to be a new northwest record.

Santa Ana today had a running start in the race for the Orange County Indoor Baseball league championship, following opening games last night in which both the Chamber of Commerce and American Legion squads of this city scored impressive victories over outside teams.

Aided and abetted by some good "clutch" hitting and fine fielding by his teammates, Tommp Hitt, the school bar star, hurled the Chamber of Commerce to a 10 to 4 victory over the Orange All-Stars at Lincoln park here. Hitt allowed the visitors only three hits.

"Eeny" Wilcox, pitching for the American Legion, was simply poison to Olive and the Santa Anans pounded Purcell unmercifully, scoring the softest kind of a 23 to 2 victory. This contest was played at Orange.

The Chamber of Commerce men scored eight of their ten tallies off Christenson who was taken from the box in the third inning after Luther Babcock, the big catcher, poled a long home run to deep center with two men on base. Richards, Christenson's successor, pitched good ball.

Long hits accounted for three of the Orange runs and a base on balls led to the other counter. Bandick tripled in the first and scored on an infield out. Richards' homer with one on came in the fifth.

Hitt got excellent support, especially from Lory Walbridge and Horace Snow, who made several sensational catches in the outfield.

The batting of Ken Williams, catcher, and "Rudy" Romo, shortstop, and the fielding of "Memphis" Hill, third sacker, featured the Legion's lop-sided victory. Williams hit a homer and a triple and Romo beat out four bunts in a row. The Legionnaires ran wild on the pathways, stealing no less than 10 bases.

ANAHEIM TEAM DEFEATS MANSFIELD, 2-1

Jimmy Mansfield, well known to Santa Ana indoor baseball fans, suffered de[illegible] in his first start in the Orange County league last night. Occupying the turret for Brea, the little Englishman dropped a tough 2 to 1 encounter to the crack Anaheim All-Stars before 600 fans at Anaheim.

Anaheim won in the last of the ninth on a base on balls, an infield out and a wild pitch. Two were out when the winning tally was scored.

Mansfield fanned only three batters. He held Anaheim to five hits but was outpitched by Walker, star Anaheim gunner. The summary:

COACH HERE [illegible] OVER G[illegible]

Gerald ("Tex") Oliver, next year's football coach at the Santa Ana high school, made a trip here from San Diego yesterday to see how prospects for next year's team appear from the spring football workouts.

He held a lengthy conference with Coach "Chuck" Winterburn relative to the material he will have from which to mould Poly's 1926 grid machine.

The Poly pigskin candidates don't practice Friday so he was unable to see the players in action. Oliver intends to return in about two weeks to watch the players, however.

Two full squads have been reporting regularly to Coach Winterburn. Some awternoons there are enough men for three elevens.

Harvey Bear, star sprinter, and John and Manley Moffat, all possible regulars next fall, have failed to report regularly for practice.

Players who are showing up well as possible candidates for the varsity next year include Musick, Casey, Wurster, Seigel, Millen, Blakeney, F. Harvey, Manderschied, Belding, Brooks, G. Harvey, Durkee, Selway, Koral, Hilligass, Soloman and Fosdick.

SHORT SPORTS

BOSTON—Cold weather cut down the attendance at the Giants-Braves game yesterday, played as a benefit for the Christy Mathewson Memorial hospital. A memorial tablet was unveiled to "Big Six."

NEW YORK—Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, got the decision over Willie Harmon of New York in a ten-round bout here.

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. — "Shuffle" Callahan, Chicago welterweight, last night knocked out Nate Goldman of Philadelphia in the second round.

SAN FRANCISCO—Official welcome will be extended by the native sons to the Missions team and Will H. McCarthy, president of the Mission club at Recreation park this afternoon. The 1925 pennant won by the Seals will be raised as a reminder of the good old days that are not so good this year.

Rickard Sets Date For Dempsey Bout

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 29.—Jack Dempsey will fight "some one" September 16, according to Tex Rickard, who conferred with the champion here yesterday. Rickard said he and Dempsey had agreed on the opponent, but the latter's name will not be made public until Rickard appears before the New York boxing commission next Wednesday, he said.

Paddock Fails to Break Mark Again

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Charlie Paddock, running on a new track especially constructed for his effort, failed to break his 100 yard dash record. He ran the distance in 9.8 seconds—slow time for the "fastest human."

Paddock Will Play Movie Role With Bebe

LOS ANGELES, May 29—Charlie Paddock, world's fastest human, is trying to emulate "Red" Grange. The sprinter has signed a contract with Famous Players-Lasky to appear with Bebe Daniels in a comedy film feature of college life.

Both Grange and Paddock will don grease paint next week and start the business of love-making to the tune of clicking cameras and cash.

Grange's leading lady has not yet been selected. Dorothy Dawn, actress-wife of Larry Semon, the comedian, is prominent among the anglers for the job.

RIVERS, LA BARBA TO BOX ON JULY 7

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Georgie Rivers, 21-year-old Mexican boxer of San Francisco, today was assured of a chance at the world's flyweight championship in a bout to be staged at the Olympic club here on the night of July 7.

Final articles for a match between Rivers and Champion Fidel La Barba were signed here yesterday. George Blake acted for the title holder, and Charlie McDonald for Rivers.

The champion will receive 47½ per cent for his end, the largest percentage ever paid a boxer under the California 10-round law.

Rivers will get 15 per cent, the same proportion that La Barba was given the night he won the title from Frankie Genaro.

Rosen Beats Hall In Gruelling Bout

HOLLYWOOD, May 29.—Charley Rosen, New York lightweight, won a 10 round decision from Roscoe Hall, here last night, but he will never feel the same.

It was a tough, grueling battle, with the New York boy sharpshooting at the toiling Iowan. Hall, an awkward-appearing young mauler, was taking everything Rosen sent his way and getting in some good ones on his own account. Hall floored Rosen in the second round, and went down himself in the next round.

GRISET'S BINGLE BREAKS UP GAME IN NINTH, GIVES S. A. SECOND SPOT IN CONFERENCE

As a result of its hard fought, 5 to 4 victory over Fullerton, on the local field yesterday afternoon, the Santa Ana junior college baseball team today claimed second place in the Southern California junior college conference.

It was the timely bingle of Ray Griset, Santa Ana second baseman, who never had a baseball glove on his hand, until about a month ago, that scored Melvin Harter from second in the last of the ninth and enabled the local collegians to break a 4 to 4 tie that threatened to extend the game into extra innings.

Fullerton made the first scores in the first frame, Parsons and Moore circling the bags. After that start, Milton Chaffee, Santa Ana chucker, "bore down" on Coach Art Nunn's batters and pitched one of his best games this season, striking out 10 players.

In the seventh, Santa Ana rallied and forged ahead of the visitors by piling up hits that brought in four runs. Fullerton edged up to the same number and a deadlock resulted until Harter's winning tally in the ninth was pushed over.

The game will probably be the last of the 1926 season for Santa Ana. Pomona will forfeit the postponed game, Coach Graham Harris said.

Riverside junior college, with their strong staff of hurlers, has cinched an undefeated championship. Santa Ana, according to the final league standing, rates in second place with half its games won and half lost. Pasadena, Fullerton and Pomona tied for third.

AL BUSHMAN TWIRLS CAVEMEN TO VICTORY

Holds Garden Grove to Six Bingles As Team Begins League with 6-1 Win

Al Bushman, classy twirler for the Laguna Beach contenders in the Orange County Indoor Baseball league, beat Garden Grove, 6 to 1, in the opening tilt of the season at the beach town last night. He fanned eight and held the visitors to six scattered singles, the one tally of the Grovers being due to Eddie Gripp's bad peg in the second, when he hit R. Broady in an attempt to stop him stealing third and the runner continued on home.

While Bushman was toying with Garden Grove batters, his teammates slammed out nine hits for a total of 18 bases and scored six runs, only two of which were earned, however. The Laguna Beach pitcher contributed a home run, bringing in Lynn Watkins ahead of him.

Gus Derkum captured the batting honors of the night with three safeties in four trips to the plate, including a triple and a home run. Clarence Watkins also hit the ball hard.

INDIANAPOLIS RACE TESTS CLOSE TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29.—Final elimination trials were to be held today at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway to give the remaining entrants for the 500 mile automobile speed classic Monday a belated opportunity to qualify.

Nineteen cars so far have qualified—most of them at a speed in excess of 100 miles an hour.

Gloom was cast over the daredevil pilots today, when they learned that Herbert Jones, 22 year old Indianapolis driver, died last night from injuries sustained Thursday when his car crashed into the rail while taking a turn at more than 100 miles an hour.

EVENING SALUTATION

Forenoon and afternoon and night—Forenoon
And afternoon and night—Forenoon and—what?
The empty song repeats itself. No more?
Yes, that is life; make this forenoon sublime,
This afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer,
And time is conquered, and thy crown is won.

That is probably all right with Uncle Sam. It would be better if all the big powers participated. But of the two that are not ready to go so far as these three, France is interested more in air power than sea power, and Italy lacks money for a big fleet. It would be especially satisfactory to the United States to come to a complete understanding with Japan about sea power in the Pacific and adjust it so as to leave as little naval provocation as possible.

There still remains, however, the big and growing problem of air armament, and nothing very definite is being said about that.

Stimulus to Foresight

San Diego Union

England's experience has demonstrated, among other things, the national danger implicit in "sick" industries; and Americans who adopt an attitude of complacency toward the British experience, assuming that the people of this country are too intelligent and too prosperous to permit such a thing happening in this country, are invited to consider the number and importance of the sick industries of the United States. These have made trouble in the past. Some of them are making trouble now. If the past offers any signposts for the future, they will sometimes make much greater trouble.

Coal, textiles and transportation are perhaps outstanding among the American cases of industrial maladjustment. Significant are the labor troubles in the textile mills and the coal mines, and the financial difficulties which the railroads are now experiencing. The railroads are not making profits compatible with the risk, the investment or the need for replacement funds; while the coal and textile industries are marked most prominently by recurring and stubborn labor difficulties.

It is customary to blame these latter troubles entirely upon labor, or entirely upon capital—according to the viewpoint of the commentator. This is unintelligent. Coal-mine owners in this country, as in England, are able to make profits only by resorting to various and sundry not-too-honest devices for concealing the sources of their income—as, for example, by camouflaged railway and coal, or coal and iron, industrial combinations, by means of which the profits of one concern are ostensibly absorbed in charges paid to the other.

These devices are shady, and labor complains that it is trick bookkeeping which keeps down the profits and enables the companies to show that they cannot pay the wages that labor believes just. But the problem is deeper than mere clever dishonesty. The shady devices are used because poor industrial conditions make them necessary; and capital, retorting to labor's charges, assert that the wage demands are unfair and that a certain division of responsibilities and profits is necessary to prevent labor from gaining undue advantages in an industry in which capital, not labor, takes the risks.

Now this and similar industrial difficulties are unsolvable without either a new regime of entire frankness and co-operation within the industries, or some compulsion to an equitable adjustment from the outside.

In England, these difficulties were "none of the government's business," for many years. Then, the crisis finally becoming acute, the government was blamed by both sides and attacked by both sides, for having tacitly sanctioned conditions which were, on the one hand, oppressive to labor, and, on the other, ruinous to capital. Forced by the crisis to take an active hand in the situation, the government found itself wholly unequipped by precedent or experience for the task imposed upon it.

In this country, where indications of maladjustment in industry have been increasing for several years past, and where, as in England, there have been several very serious preliminary conflicts between workers and employers, complacent sentiments of superiority to our British neighbors are much out of place. England entered the crisis blindly, unprepared. The example should stimulate plain vision and preparation in this country.

Disarmament Plan

Pasadena Star-News

Wide range is taken in preliminary disarmament discussions at Geneva. The final conference, it is predicted, will be long and complicated. Japan has proposed that a separate three-power naval conference be held by the United States, Great Britain and Japan. This proposal is not meeting with much favor. It is true that these three are the leading naval powers of the world. But there is more in this disarmament than mere physical power. There is the spiritual element—the sentiment of the world. There is need of the sympathy and co-operation of the small, landlocked countries, as well as the great maritime powers, in devising ways and means effectively to stop competition among nations in navy building, and to limit the construction of non-capital ships, as well as capital craft.

The United States is giving strong moral support to the Geneva conference. This country will not start a counter-movement for disarmament while the conference is at work in Geneva. President Coolidge would not, in behalf of the United States, summon a disarmament conference unless the meet at Geneva should fail utterly to accomplish anything.

While some of the age-old jealousies, suspicions and rivalries survive among nations of the Old World, yet the cause of peace seems to be carried along in better spirit in these European conferences than in the old days, or than in more recent years, immediately following the Armistice. Conditions in this cannot become ideal all at once. The process must be gradual. With all the hampering and obstructive situations, the cause of peace surely is advancing.

TREAT COLDS SERIOUSLY

Because it occurs so frequently, the disagreeable condition known as the common cold is usually lightly regarded. But the malady causes suffering, inconvenience, economic loss and is often the forerunner of more serious affections. It should be regarded as a serious disease.

Colds have a definite economic import. In one division of a large life insurance company in New York there were 2824 colds among 6700 workers during a year. The average time lost by those having colds was 2.2 days.

Recent studies among school children disclosed that common colds are responsible for approximately one-fourth of all absences. As the school system must be maintained even when many children are absent, the economic factor is readily discernible.

It also was found that the children in open-window school rooms, while often pale and undernourished, were almost free from colds.

The exact cause of the common cold has not been definitely determined. Probably a number of factors are concerned. However, for practical purposes it may be considered that the causative agent of most colds is conveyed from person to person through direct or indirect contact.

The common cold, technically known as "coryza," also has the unenviable distinction of conferring little or no permanent immunity or resistance to the disease after an attack.

Formerly it was believed that drafts, exposure to cold and chilling of the body were immediately responsible for colds. Now, it is thought that these factors weaken the body's protective forces, rendering the organism more susceptible to disease.

Fatigue, loss of sleep, insufficient food, or too much food and work in stuffy or overheated rooms are conditions upon which colds may be engrafted more readily than when the individual is in robust health.

THE SUN COMPASS

All boys and some grown-ups are interested in compasses. Usually these are of the magnetic sort. Here is a new one, brought to the world's attention by Lieut. Byrd's polar flight. It is the "sun compass."

The instrument is absurdly simple. It consists of a 24-hour clock of the Italian type—24 hours indicated on the face instead of 12—and a little raised nub on the hour hand which casts a shadow like a sundial.

Suppose an explorer is starting for the North Pole at noon, 12 o'clock. The hour hand and its shadow then point straight north. As the explorer moves northward, and time passes, the hour hand moves east as the sun moves west. All he has to do is keep the clock so adjusted that the shadow thrown by the nub on the hour hand falls straight along the hand. That keeps the figure 12 on the dial steadily pointing toward the North Pole. There is no wabbling, as there is in using the magnetic compass in the Arctic.

Returning from the Pole, the explorer can retrace his route by holding the clock likewise adjusted so that the shadow points steadily along the hour hand, and steering toward 24 o'clock.

This device works most admirably in the Arctic, where the sun is above the horizon the whole 24 hours. But it will work well enough anywhere when the sun shines. And the experimenter doesn't really need a 24-hour dial. Any 12-hour watch can be made to serve the same purpose, in accordance with this simple rule:

Hold your watch level, with the hour hand pointing toward the sun; then half way between the indicated time and 12 o'clock is south, and directly opposite, of course, is north. Many a person, lost in the woods or hills on a vacation trip, may find his way back by this simple sun compass.

ON TALKING MOVIES

One wonders whether Thomas A. Edison is right when he says that Americans are not interested in talking movies, that they prefer the restful quiet of the film theater, and that reproduction of the screen actor's voice would destroy the illusion.

Edison is largly responsible for both the movie film and the phonograph. If the characteristics of the two were combined and perfected, as he says they easily can be, much of the credit undoubtedly would be his. His opinion therefore deserve respect.

Of course, if giving speech to the movie means only making it an imitation of the stage, it might not be worth the effort. But if it means the expansion and development of a new and fine branch of dramatic art, it should be very much worth while and widely welcomed.

TRIPLE NAVAL CONFERENCE

Japanese statesmen are talking about a three-cornered conference between America, Great Britain and Japan for naval limitation. It would deal largely with cruisers, submarines and seaplanes, which were almost wholly ignored in the Washington conference. Thus the work of the first conference would be rendered complete, as far as naval power is concerned.

Memorial Day Not a Glorification of War

Better America Federation

Memorial Day has never been a glorification of war. It has been and is today a grateful tribute to that spirit of devotion to ideals established in our principles of government—to our Constitution, which gave us a Republic, the best and safest in the history of the world.

Memorial Day commemorates the sacrifices, which have assured those fundamental values, which form "the sacred compact" between the past and present for preservation of the future. It fortifies us to meet the issues of the hour and whatever the future may hold. It re-consecrates our lives—a united Country—to the tasks yet before us.

In retrospect Memorial Day perpetuates the feeling of gratitude for those who made supreme their country's safety. In prospect it strengthens our hands to loyally conserve the benefits and obligations conferred upon us by those who held aloft the Flag in every crisis.

To the Veterans of all our conflicts, who nobly contributed in extending these principles and ideals, we pay homage.

VOICES

All day with anxious heart and wondering ear
I listened to the city; heard the ground
Echo with human thunder, and the sound
Go reeling down the street and disappear.
The headlong hours in their wild career
Shouted and sang until the world was drowned
With babel-voices, each one more profound . . .
All day it surged—but nothing could I hear.
That night the country never seemed so still
The trees and grasses spoke without a word
To stars that brushed them with their silver wings.
Together with the moon I climbed the hill
And in the very heart of silence heard
The speech and music of immortal things.

Pop was reading the sporting page and ma came in the room carrying the telephone book, saying, Willyum, there's no question about it.

I dident ask eny, pop sed, and ma sed. I meen about that baby, its reely diskraceful to let him go so long without a name.

Sippose we jest call him Nameless, pop sed, and ma sed, Now Willyum this is serious and Ive thawt of a good plan, Ill jest open the telefone book diffrent places at random and we certeny awt to come across a name that we can both agree on.

And she looked in the telefone book about the middle, saying, Heer we are rite away.

Lets heer the werst, pop sed.

Linton, now thats an unusual name, ma sed. Of corse this mans last name happins to be Smuckens, Linton D. Smuckens, but thats none of our bizniss and it jest goes to prove the old saying that you find the roses amung the thorns. Wat about Linton, Willyum? she sed.

On the contrary, pop sed. Now Ive got an ideer, Ill jest let my eyes fall casually on this sporting page. Heer it is in the boxing notes, Spike, Spike Slattery, of corse, as you say, we don't haff to take the Slattery part, he sed.

I wont even lissen to you, ma sed. And she looked in another part of the telefone book saying, Buckingham, now that izzent half bad.

Puggy, thats a distincktive name, pop sed looking in the paper agen, and ma sed, Wat do you think of Chessboro?

Wat do you think of Hambone? Hambone Jonson is a colored boxer but of corse we wont haff to tell everybody that, pop sed.

Now thats the last final straw, ma sed. And she took the telefone book in her own room and sed names to herself sutch as Rockwell, Siddenham, Arlington and Gildersleeve.

ON THE SIDE LINES

A Record of Individual and Independent Opinion.

(Which may or may not be in harmony with the views of the Register.)

WHOLE IS BLAMED FOR ACTS OF PART—At a convention of the druggists of the state, held in Long Beach this week, F. O. McColloch, president of the California Pharmaceutical Association, said he hoped that the next legislature will enact legislation prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquor in any form in any drug store of California. "The retail druggists of California did not ask for and do not want the liquor business and resent the term 'bootlegger' so often applied to them," Mr. McColloch said.

It would be a fine thing if Mr. McColloch's idea could be adopted, fine for the country, and finest of all for the druggists as a class. For we all know that the majority, and a huge majority, too, of druggists do not wish to conduct their business on such basis as will class them with law evaders and worse.

Many of the druggists of California are so opposed to doing anything which is calculated to class them as "bootleggers" that they refuse to handle liquor at all. But, as things are, all get blamed for acts which a comparatively small portion of the whole are responsible for.

CALIFORNIA'S CANNING INDUSTRY — The wonderful growth of the canned fruit and other food products in California is again called to public attention by a report recently made by G. H. Hecke, State Director of Agriculture. The report sets forth that canned foods worth $100,000,000 were produced by California during 1925 and 98 per cent of the cannery output was shipped out of the state. The further statement is made that the principal markets for California canned fruits, fish, olives and vegetables were the Atlantic states, Germany, Great Britain, Alaska, South America, Japan, China and South Africa.

STRANGE BUT TRUE—A very good indication that Congressman Swing, who so very ably represents this district in congress, will be renominated and re-elected is to be found in the fact that the Los Angeles Times continues to misrepresent the congressman at every opportunity.

The opposition of the Times has come to mean political success for any Southern California candidate for office who has it. And when that opposition goes so far in the way of detraction and misrepresentation as it has in the case of Congressman Swing, why, there is simply nothing to be expected but political victory for the candidate lucky enough to secure it.

For the Los Angeles Times, from a political viewpoint, is, and has been for many years, a hoodoo of ten thousand candle power.

Everyone knows this to be true although no one knows just why it is true.

** ** **

IT NEVER FAILS—It is nothing short of wonderful that a great newspaper—and the Times is in some respects a great newspaper—should be the possessor of a hoodoo which is always on the job and never fails to deliver the goods, so to speak. And the Times' hoodoo is just that kind.

If the Times ever needs testimonials to the effect that it is indeed and in truth a political hoodoo, and that its violent opposition to a candidate for office means the election of that candidate, they could easily be had.

Former United States Senator Frank P. Flint would doubtless give one, and Ex-Congressman McLaughlin could not in fairness refuse to sign on the dotted line.

And if a more recent instance of the power and efficacy of the Times as a political hoodoo is required, why just look at what the bitter and determined opposition of that newspaper has done for George Cryer, the present mayor of Los Angeles.

** ** **

RENEWING A GRIEVANCE — The Los Angeles Times, the other day, indulged in a sneer at the quality of the grammar used by the mayor of Los Angeles.

The Times must have been looking over the returns of the last majority election held in that city.

TOO! TOO! A "BROTHER" ACT—Our old friends the political vaudeville artists, "single tax" and "water and power act," are to be with us again during the coming campaign. It is entirely likely that they will appear under other names, but they are surely to be on hand.

OIL INTERESTS PAY ONE-THIRD—Some idea of the value of the oil interests of Orange county may be had by considering the fact that they pay one-third of the total taxes paid by all interests of the county.

A QUIET TIP—Two months ago the city of Stockton, according to figures made public by the president of its chamber of commerce, claimed a population of 50,000 to 55,000. Then a Riverside man was hired for secretary of the organization, and already, according to the gentleman's estimate, Stockton's population has increased to 60,325.

There might be a valuable tip here for our Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, which is naturally anxious for a larger population. Get a Riverside man to do the figuring.

HE COULD STAND IT—Since February, 1924, when the 2-cent tax on gasoline became effective, California automobilists have paid in $36,122,185.17. At least so stood the record May 19.

Heard one man say that he hoped to see the tax increased to five cents per gallon, and certainly not less than three. The fact that he does not own an automobile is, of course, a mere matter of detail.

THERE ARE OTHERS—Yes, indeed, there are other laws of this state and nation which are found difficult of enforcement, besides the Volstead act.

Some people seem to think otherwise, and to be of the opinion that a failure to obey any law, save and except the Volstead act, is unusual.

St. Louis alone made arrests last year to the number of 106,000 for violation of traffic laws.

THE UNUSUAL PROCEDURE—The Democratic convention at Santa Cruz met, was in session a part of two days, quarrelled a little, made up, and finally adjourned after passing several rather innocuous resolutions. No candidate for any office was endorsed or even suggested.

The real object of holding the convention was probably to ascertain if California has any Democrats left.

California has lots of good Democrats and that's what usually happens to them when they become candidates.

NEVER THROW OBSTACLES—Giving testimony in a case being tried in New York, the other day, Eugene V. Brewster, a millionaire publisher, took occasion to refer to the matter of his relations with a former cigar store beauty whose name has been coupled with the millionaire's.

Said Mr. Brewster: "I have been engaged to marry Miss Palmer for six years, but my wife has thrown constant obstacles in our way. As the situation stands, I feel responsible for Miss Palmer. She is an exceptional beauty and possesses talent. All she needs is the opportunity."

It seems too bad, too bad entirely, that wives—that is to say, some wives—look at these matters in the light they do. To throw obstacles in the way of a husband who is perfectly willing to marry a younger and perhaps more beautiful woman, and has, as a matter of fact, promised to do so, is something which no wife should ever permit herself to do.

Copyrighting Flowers

Oakland Tribune

In a recently published article on Luther Burbank's "unscientific science," Vernon Kellogg, formerly of the Stanford faculty and now a member of the National Research Council, touches on the financial returns of the plant wizard's work. He writes:

"Many will ask if Burbank did not, or could not, make a great deal from his plant creations. The answer is, he did not, and, in fact, he could not. He could get a fairly good price from the nurseryman for his single sale of the new plum, or berry, or flower, and the nurseryman could sell the offspring, or the grafts from the new creations, for a season or two—and then the control was gone. So Burbank never made more than a comfortable simple living from his extraordinary work. But that was all he cared to make."

Burbank was fortunate in this, that he was more interested in the work itself than in the financial rewards following it. And the same may be said of many others engaged in the work of collecting and breeding plants. As things stand, workers in this field of beauty not only cannot "take the cash and let the credit go," but frequently just as the cash is not in evidence so also is the credit lacking.

But is this condition unalterable? F. Kingdon Ward, the well known English plant collector, who has spent many years in countries remote searching for new specimens of plant life with which to delight the eyes of the western world, is strong in his advocacy of a copyright law "applicable to every certified new plant destined for the market."

This, he says, should operate for a short period only—say for three years after the first benching of a plant by its legitimate owner. Continuing, he says:

"The matter is perfectly simple. It is not possible, and certainly is not desirable, to prevent other people from cultivating a certified new plant—if they can get it. But it is possible, and reasonable, to prevent other firms from exhibiting a copyright plant at flower shows, and they could also be restrained from advertising it in their lists and in the gardening papers during the existence of the copyright. Only by some such means can the original finder, or owner of a new plant, hope to reap his just rewards."

All things considered, this is not an unreasonable demand, is it?
